The purpose of me collecting and noting all this information is to try to understand reincarnation better. I know the basics about reincarnation from the book Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet (aka Thiaoouba Prophecy, Abduction to the 9-th Planet).

I only checked ER's past life because I was becoming worrying if someone who was close to me in my Vivien Leigh's life could have reincarnated as ER. The answer proved to be negative, but the truth that he used to be Natalie Wood wasn't easy on me either; we met when I was living my lie of Vivien, and she became fascinated about me (VL) and I became her favorite actress, they say (it's of interest in this research also, given our relationship in our past lives of Amy Lyon (mine) and Charles Greville (Natalie's)). Later, when reading her biography, all started to make sense. Of course, by the time I got the answer ER was NW, I already had multitude of confirmations the method I'm using works, and if I get the answer a person A was person B in their past life then that is the truth – unless I made an error in the way I asked my question (it's a new untreaded territory, so errors are to be expected), but I often get a hint about that, or realize I made a mistake myself. In ER case, as you'll see, I confirmed many times his past lives.

I'll repeat my later thought in this document: at this moment in time, this is research of reincarnation. ER's lives are good examples of why knowledge and study of reincarnation, souls (Astral bodies), psyche, spiritual knowledge, Higher Selves, Auras, the purpose of the Universe, the Superior Intelligence (The Spirit, God, etc.), etc., is important. Had ER knew what I know, he'd probably not do the evil acts that he did. Many other criminals would think many times before doing their crimes also. To a degree, I know it from my own experiences too, as there's a reason I thought I needed to read ER's book in order to learn from his mistakes and see if I can spot his errors – I did see a lot of them, as you'll find out later.

People who read this document with clear head will see that there is no glorification of anyone here, as it's stated many times ER (in both his life of ER and his past lives) did a serious crimes and errors, and that he will have suffer for all his mistakes in his other lives until all of them are paid for – there's nothing and no one to be admired here. If he, in his next life/lives, knows about the topics I mention here (I know them from Thiaoouba Prophecy), he probably won't do the same errors again. He'll seek to learn spiritually – gain spiritual knowledge and understandings – in order not to make the same mistakes again in any of his future lives when he might not have access to the material knowledge given here.
The same applies to other people, of course.

For those wondering just how I am able to find past lives, you can read about it in The Method I Use to Find Past Lives section of this document.
The things I'm noting here may help us, humanity, better understand the process of reincarnation. I have noticed that our lives are intertwined in an intricate way (it's something I read long time ago from ancient Egyptian text, and now find confirmations it is so). Not only we may meet people we knew in our other lives, but we seem to also come across the objects, themes, ideas, etc., which played a role in our other life or lives.
The knowledge from a book Thiaoouba Prophecy plays a role in identifying a possible past life of someone. It also helps to confirm the answer you received from your Higher Self was interpreted correctly by you, and that the person in question was indeed the other person in their past life.
In short:
spiritual knowledge and lack of it; psychology;
people suffering for errors which resemble the ones made by a person in question in another life;
synchronicities;
movie, or book stories, reflections and parallels in case the person in question might have been an actor/actress or a writer; and some other parallels between the lives in question can be used as indicators of someone potentially being that other person in their past life.
Aside from reincarnation, there could be other reasons for seeing many parallels with someone. For example, you share your Higher Self with that person, or you used to know each other in a past life or lives.

I talked about the importance of all of that in my first video and document about my past life of Vivien Leigh:

These are incarnations of a single intellectual entity - a part of Superior Intelligence (The Spirit, God) which gets reincarnated in different physical bodies:
Richard III of England
Charles Francis Greville
Bonnie Elizabeth Parker [BP]
Natalie Wood [NW]
Elliot Rodger [ER]

As before – I'm noting all I notice, and I do fully realize not all I note here may relate to reincarnation and be direct links between the lives of Natalie's soul (Astral Body).
(#psyche-data) tag may relate to psychic body, astropsychic, or psychotypical. It's still ongoing research which body is responsible for what.
I tried to read as much as I could, but there's still a lot of information to find out there. A lot more connections could be found.
I've only watched several Natalie Wood movies at the time of making this document. I want to watch more of her films in which I may find some other connections. If I do, I might write updates about my findings in the comments or maybe I'll create a follow up video if I have a lot new information to share.

(I wrote this before knowing NW/ER was Bonnie Parker and Charles Greville.)
My current thought is that Natalie Wood (NW) made a serious sex (s) related errors in her past life or many lives. This is why she had to be sexually assaulted by Kirk Douglas (I believe the story). But that was only one mistake paid for; there were more, and they had to be paid for in Elliot Rodger's (ER) life who was lonely and had no love or sex experience in 22 years of his life. Unfortunately, he lacked certain spiritual knowledge and allowed the hate overwhelm him, eventually making even more serious errors.
These 4 lives allow us to glimpse into a small portion of ER's reincarnational path. To learn more details about why ER had to come to such an end would require discovering who he was in the life or lives in which he made those errors for which he had to suffer both as ER and NW.

When I first read ER's writings I thought if only he knew reincarnation was real and he suffered for the errors he made in his past life or lives. If only he knew about the Universal Laws and that all people who (actually) wronged him (many did nothing to him but existed and that pissed him off because they had sex, love, relationships, happiness) would be punished.
Today (April 23, 2025), knowing it's Natalie's incarnation, I thought the same thought but much more intense.
I thought – I both times – that maybe ER in one of his next life will find Thiaoouba book and my own writings and findings too. Maybe they will help him learn how to live his/her life.
'Biographer Suzanne Finstad wrote that a "turning point" in Wood's life as an actress took place when she saw the film A Streetcar Named Desire (1951): "She was transformed, in awe of director Elia Kazan and of Vivien Leigh's performance… [who] became a role model for Natalie."'
This is deep… I think I knew this before (maybe it's another reason I grew so fond of Natalie and why it was a bit of a shock to learn she'd become ER). But now… I hope my wishes will come true and my life's work will help Natalie's soul in one of its lives; I hope it'll help it not to make the same errors again…
ER wrote about his own life. There are biographies about Natalie Wood. If the soul who used to live in those 2 bodies will find who it was in its other life (lived after ER) then it could learn quite a lot about itself. Obviously, it won't be easy to know what evil it had done to others as ER.

Again, I'll note for other people who might read this document in case I publish these notes: ER suffered both for errors made in his life (or lives) he lived before his past life of NW, and for the fact he didn't try to do anything constructive about his situation – like actually approaching a girl in a public place where people come to relax and chill, and just talking to her for a bit without any expectations (chances are low to find a match on your first approach – you've gotta be aware of that simple fact). Repeat this, learn from the experience and correct any errors, and his fears and shyness would eventually go away – I know it from my own experience. Unfortunately, he only said 'Hi' once to a female stranger in a situation when she had other things to do.

Maybe nothing, but I kinda noticed both NW and ER have a mole about in the same spot – to the left and above the right brow.

Natalie Wood may have been thrown off the boat overboard and she died.
Elliot Rodger was thrown off the balcony and broke his foot. It happened shortly before his death.

Natalie has many revealing photos. Naked too. E.R. in his Isla Vista night drive video talks how he thinks women are cruel walking in their revealing cloths, showing off their sexy legs.
I find no issue with NW wearing such cloths. But I don't know the reasons behind her choosing those cloths. If she wanted men to look at her then that could be one of reasons for suffering in ER's life by seeing women wearing similar cloths as she did in NW's life.
Generally, such cloths are ok. I don't even use the term 'revealing' because they are worn during hot days when wearing something else would make you sweaty, smelly and just uncomfortable. Men have a choice to look someplace else instead of looking at the girls' legs and stuff, and perhaps use their imagination in the process.

Natalie used to wear spectacular cloths.
E.R. Was too focused on his expensive cloths and accessories. Could relate to (#psyche-data)

ER's desire to become rich may relate to (#psyche-data) since as NW he clearly lived a rather rich life.

On May 30, 1969, Wood married British producer Richard Gregson after dating for nearly three years.
ER writes (p.81) at the very end of May his mom told him he'd need to move to Santa Barbara on June 4-th.

NW was born on July 20-th. ER (p.121) had the last effort 'to live an enjoyable college life' on July 20-th when he tried to lose his virginity. He was a few days before turning 22 yo.

ER writes (p.2) his favorite part was playing in the woods after lunch.

(p.4-5) Woodland Hills became ER's hometown.
(p.8) he loved his new wooden house. NW, I believe, also lived in a wooden house https://www.facebook.com/photo/?fbid=1745883032135075&set=a.578880922168631
(p.108) ER had wooden sword
Hollywood comes up too of course.

https://youtu.be/gKjWzWmuHLU?si=GQhFkCpu7KBUdtkX
Zephyr the 7th brought to viewers attention ER used to quote and as if act out lines from movies. HE was an actress in NW's life. (#psyche-data)
I used to also quote characters from movies. In VL's life I also quoted the lines the characters I played said, but that related more to my psychological issues of that life. So it's all too familiar to me.

At ~1:12 the video shows ER showing off his new book – "Game of Thrones: The Dance of Dragons". When I asked my HS what name ER had in his past life when I lived my life of Vivien Leigh, in my dream I saw a girl roaring and moving her arms up and down like they're wings. Could be related.
Also, I didn't wanna note this, but I'll just say while watching NW's movie "Love with the Proper Stranger" I heard what sounded like "Khaleesi" at 37:50 when Rocky introduces Angela (Angie) to his mother. But it actually was 'believe me'.

~4:50 Dick Cavett asks Natalie if she would miss a childhood that an average person could have had and if she were to be reincarnated you'd rather not come back as a film kid?
I feel like this has many parallels with ER.
She was extraverted. Was friendly little kid, and liked to talk to people. Didn't got to film school.

5:55 TW's bio said she was 97 pounds which is the exact weight I had as Missy. And when I got the answer the ER was someone by name Natalie in his past life, I had that half lucid dream in which I was Missy.

Spoke Russian and English at home. Most of her close fiends called her Natasha.

NW, obviously, went to parties. 7:35 she tells she enjoys parties. ER was left out of that life. So again may relate to (#psyche-data).

Noting timestamps of where the behavior may show some similarity to how ER acted; Clearly, he had a tough life, was shy, etc. and that could have amplified some of the awkwardness that can be observed in his movements. I do it because I noticed I behave sometimes similarly to how I did as Vivien; I noticed K. turned around to greet me in a very similar way he did as George Cukor.

0:42 NW worked with Margarett Sullivan. I had syncs with this last name. And the first name has appeared here and there also.

~ 2:-- NW and her husband were friends with Larry Olivier.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=N8QkHKNhoCU

They show a scene from a movie with NW. It appears her character agrees to go to bed with a stranger – but maybe I don't know something. I might need to watch the whole movie.
But there was another dealing with similar subject I believe.
The point is if she played character who just go to bed to have s with strangers then that could have influenced why she was reborn as ER who clearly thought for unknown reasons that women should just go to bed to have s with him. Somehow he didn't know it takes time to get (an adequate) relationship going. (#reflection)

8:-- she likes fishing – I had reference to fishing when I got the answer ER had Natalie name in his past life.

14:-- took pictures (video) with her camera for home movies. Just noting this coz ER made lots of videos filming himself and what he did. (#psyche-data)

Was a fan of Star Wars and his mother was a friend of George Lucas, who invited Elliot and his friends to see the Star Wars prequels.
There are photos of Natalie Wood near Darth Vader at 1978 Oscars.

Natalie wood was cast to play Puerto Rican woman. Could have some connection to her ER's racial problems (and what he thought of as problems)

There's a map showing the order and locations of ER attacks. 17 total. Noting it coz I had my past body of Missy – died at 17 – during the night I asked what name ER had in his past life when I was VL.

Killed 6 (3 by stabbing, 3 by gunfire)
Injured 14 (7 by gunfire, 7 struck by motor vehicle)
+1 when he took his own life.
20 + 1 = 21. It's another parallel to me, I have to note. I did notice 20 and 21 (including 20+1) showing up here and there in my soul's life.
The halving (3+3, 7+7 in ER's case) is yet another theme following me.

https://www.imdb.com/name/nm1190374/?ref_=nmmi_ov
Monette Moio, whom ER had a crush on, was born on October 1. That is the date I died as Missy – could be another synchronicity. I don't know why it's happening and I keep seeing so many possible parallels to me in NW/ER's lives… maybe Natalie's and my souls knew each other in our other past life or lives?

https://www.marieclaire.com/celebrity/news/a23043/natalie-wood-on-marilyn-monroe-death/
Both NW and ER had diaries.
NW about the dissolution of her 1-st marriage to Rober Wagner: "It was extremely difficult for us to really face serious flaws in the relationship when everything looked so ideal on the surface. Looking at it from the outside, we must have seemed like the American Dream. We were both attractive and successful, so what could possibly be wrong? One needs more than approval or fame or wealth to be nourished. It was as if I were the total of all the parts I had played and I had no idea who I really was."
Attractive and successful coincide with what ER was obsessed about and it's an indicator of lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) in regards to the fact that it's not appearances that are important, but what's behind them – e.g. spiritual knowledge, wisdom, morality, etc.
NW worried that she might "join that sad parade of famous movie ladies who wind up desperately lonely, with nothing more substantial about them than their scrapbooks and old photos, and memories of romances and divorces."
Psychological match to her future life of ER.

Didn't do anything to get rid of stammer also coz I thought it admitting something is wrong with me when other people have all just like that. It's not exact thought but it's another similarity with ER.

We both had crushes on blonde girls. In our most recent past lives we both were females with dark hair.

ER's car license plate number was "6ELX898". There is another match to me in it.

Natalie Wood

Born: July 20, 1938, San Francisco, California, United States
Died: November 29, 1981 (age 43 years), Santa Catalina Island, California, United States
Spouse: Robert Wagner (m. 1972–1981), Richard Gregson (m. 1969–1972), Robert Wagner (m. 1957–1962)
Children: Natasha Gregson Wagner, Courtney Brooke Wagner
Father birth - 27 Apr 1912 - 06 Nov 1980 Nikolskoye, Vladivostok, Primorsky, Russian Empire
Mother birth - 08 Feb 1912 - 06 Jan 1998 Barnaul, Tomsk, Russian Empire

Sister of Olga (Tatuloff) Viripaeff [half] and Lana (Gurdin) Wood Height: 1.57 m
Full name: Natalia Nikolaevna Zacharenko

Missy Elliott. I used to notice her name after learning who I was in my last past life.

Me as VL and NW played characters called 'Karen' in the later movies.

(READ) Gavin Lambert – Natalie Wood: A Life

I did not expect to find possible parallels with me, but then it's already a fact Natalie's soul's and my soul's paths are intertwined. So it's not that surprising.

Natalie's parents wed on February 8, 1938. I was born exactly 30 years later in my past life of Missy, and I was Missy in my dream during the night which revealed the name ER had in his past life when I was VL was Natalie. Later it's revealed NW's mom was born on February 8, 1912.

In VL's life I was born on November 5, 1913. On November 6, 1917 Bolsheviks seized power and that led to NW's future parents having to flee the country. N's dad died on November 6, 1980.

A highly interesting find: Maria Stepanovna (Natalie's mother) claimed that her mother came from aristocratic family with Romanov connections. Further claims may point to the fabulist nature of the stories. (The subject unfolds more later in the book)

ER on p.84 made a point of him being a descendant of British aristocracy. (#reflection-life) and could relate to (#psyche-data) if he was aristocrat in another past life; having being an actress who was at the top of the wheel her entire life since early childhood could also be a factor here.

Maria learned she could get her way by throwing a fit. I'd need to check if ER was a similar way.

Nikolai, NW's dad, had to work as a janitor. I'll need to check if ER worked very briefly as one too.

Gavin makes a statement about sexual drive of NW's mother, and that Natalie no doubt inherited its stronger version. May be of connection with why ER went mad about sex. But I'll have to learn more about Natalie. Possible (#psyche-data)

I know from my own experience what it's like to have sex in one life (in many lives, as a matter of fact) and then none in the next – having (some) sex drive in many of those lives. It can mess with your head, and if you don't have the spiritual and material knowledge to set you straight, you could start making errors of various kind in search to fulfill that sex drive if you can't find a girlfriend.

Noting that I saw what looked like the scene from The Rock movie where Nicholas Cage's character holds out 2 green smokes. NW father's name is Nikolai (related name to Nicholas). Later he started calling himself Nicholas Gurdin. NW herself was called Nikolaevna.

Olga Preobrajenskaya. I live not far from Preobrajenskaya Ploshad' metro station. The district I live in is also called Preobrajensky.

Maria went on a search for a home with Hollywood class.

Another interesting story of possible connection to reincarnation and souls (if she was indeed dead and chose to return): Maria said she got pregnant in mid-1930s, hemorrhaged in childbirth, was pronounced dead at the hospital, then woke up in the embalming room and screamed for help.

Maria's half-sister Kalia. I'm subscribed to a streamer who has almost identical name.

By the end of May, 1944, the house N lived in for less than 2 years was sold.

ER (p.81) writes how at the end of May his mom told him he had to move to Santa Barbara in a few days.

NW witnessed her dog being run over by a truck as a child. Memory of that incident helped her cry on demand.

Just noting it coz of ER video in which he treats dogs not in a very good way. Not sure if there's a connection, or why ER become so cruel… maybe it's from love to hate type of situation?

Have to say I also mistreated my parrot Katie in my childhood; now I know how stupid I was then and feel bad for those actions. But I also cried when accidentally killed a bug on my leg coz I felt so sorry for it. I love animals and don't know why those somewhat bad decisions in regards to Katie's tail had to be made by little me. I had animals in my past lives also, and from what I know they were treated well by me.

MARIA GURDIN: "I raised my daughter to be a movie star."

ROBERT WAGNER: "Her mother was genuinely, fanatically obsessed with Natalie's talent and possibilities. It became the focus of her life, and sometimes made her as close to certifiable as you can get."

That had to have left another imprint of NW's psyche – and psyche is immortal, so ER had the same set of psychological issues (I think it's safe to assume he had them) as he did in NW's life.

NW's mom didn't teach her child to differentiate fact from fantasy. Again, if so, then it's something that had an impact on the soul's psyche.

NW had her hair blonded for several roles in films. ER was obsessed about blondes. Don't think that's the only and main reason, though.

Orson Wells noticed "something very sad and lonely about this compelling child." (NW). He tried to comfort her but her mother snatcher her daughter away.

NW had imagination. Was not trained in acting schools. ER had imagination too; it's evident from the philosophic thoughts he sometimes said in his videos (sadly often he'd drag himself into negativity when thinking about life). So it's a match.

It's another similarity with me. I have vivid imagination and I had it in my other lives too.

NW was born to Russians and was surrounded by many Russian families and people. ER had me people from Russia. Some of them were kind.

ER lived relatively close to where he used to be as NW. But in more modest houses now. That gave opportunity to look at life from a different perspective.

NW had to memorize many lines in her life. She also had to memorize names – Mankiewicz. People noticed that ER had a good memory, remembering details of when he was just several years of age.

NW was cast into Miracle on 34th Street s a girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. It was a key role of her childhood. ER said a line from The Life & Adventures of Santa Claus. (#curious)

ER emailed his manifesto to 34 people.

NW played children of divorced parents, or a neglected child. It does resonate with her future life of ER. (#reflection)

The book says Maria taught her daughter, NW, to mistrust anyone, especially contemporaries who wished to be friends with her. She told her any child actor having a role in NW's movie was "jealous" and trying "to do her in." (#curious) coz it could have also left a mark on the psyche.

Jack the Jabber (Maria's invented serial killer stabbing girls in the back). I hope there are no connections to the past lives of NW… but now we can see a connection to the future in which ER did stab 3 people by ambushing them. (#reflection-life)

Of interest is also how Maria urged NW to smile in theaters when she was being photographed.

NW often changed schools due to constant moving. Burbank Public Elementary, Robert Fulton Junior, Van Nuys High. ER had to change schools too.

The story about NW's dad is again something that parallels with my own life: my father was good and kind man when sober, but when he got drunk things could get out of hand – like when he beat up my mom.

NW acquired sense of pride when acting as a child. Again, that pride in psyche was under big pressure when ER was bullied and humiliated in school. And pride isn't the feeling one should strive to have; not to be religious, but there's a reason pride is 1 of 7 sins. NW/ER situation shows why.

As the book goes on and talks about other of NW's movies, I realize that some of her roles' details may reflect in her other lives past ER when it'll be time to suffer for the errors done at the end of ER's life. Her playing orphans is what triggered this thought. ER left many people without a child, and being an orphan may be a way to partially suffer for some of his errors.

Some of the reflections can be seen in ER life.

Genes again, and reminders of Maria cheating on her husband. Again, some parallels can be seen here. There was a silly talk by father's buddies about him not being my dad; facts tell a different story, and mother also heard of that and said it nonsense.

ER visited Griffith Park in which he used to be in past life of NW. Only this time the visits didn't bring happiness to him as before. Looking at life from a different perspective type of situation.

What's more ER often visited the Observatory in that park, and it's the place as NW he was shooting the scene for Rebel without a Cause. ER talks about being insulted by Addison in that place and there could be a connection to the insults NW's character causes for the worker in the movie; James Dean's character is also bullied and NW's does nothing to prevent the fight that could have ended badly irl. She's with her boyfriend and Jame's character almost alone (having Sal Mineo's character with him but he can't help him) and ER felt rage after seeing all those young couples. It must be a (#reflection)

Gigi Perreau's words are of huge importance for this study: "I liked Natalie very much, but was very perplexed by the notes she kept slipping me in class. I don't recall the exact words, only the meaning, which was the same every time—'I'm going to be a star, but you're not.'

This is a direct match in terms of lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge) between NW and ER. And it relates to psyche (#psyche-data) too; the soul, as NW, did become a star, but when that soul became ER, it crumbled under the immense pressure it was under, potentially still having the sense of having being a star, and having no material and spiritual knowledge to adapt to new reality and learn to live in it. There's a good chance ER had to suffer for those multiple words written in his past life of NW - (#error).

I knew about ER but knew almost nothing about NW (other than I liked her and we met when I was Vivien Leigh, and she held me [VL] as a role model) – why it was a surprise to me to learn NW'd become ER in her future life. I thought how it's possible that ER who had such bad and negative attitude towards people, looking down at them, while somehow considering himself a 'supreme gentleman' – who he was not – could have been NW who, from what little I knew, was a decent and good person. But now it's clear as a child she showed signs of lacking some spirituality (unless she was a psychic and was just telling the truth of what she 'saw' or 'sensed' – but I doubt that) and it's a clear match to her future life of ER.

Gavin theorizes NW's mom might have played a role in regards to the origin of those notes' idea, but it matters little in this research coz NW created the notes, not her mother.

Adult NW took her stardom very seriously, but also made fun of herself for that.

The story about NW's father fixing the furniture at the stage, and NW's mother not allowed her daughter to run and greet her father and then telling her about inferiority may have also influenced her psyche as ER considered himself superior to others.

Natasha Gregson Wagner (it's about NW's first menstruation which terrified her coz her mom never told her anything about that): "My mother was convinced she was dying and screamed for help. She never forgot that moment, as she told me thirty years later. When I was eleven, she made a point of talking to me about sex and periods."

My mother was in a similar situation and also thought she was dying.

NW had a fear of the ocean (dark water) and so did I in my past life of Missy (another potential connection to my dream I mentioned before)

NW's experiences at Burbank Public Elementary are of interest.

NW attended Van Nuys High. ER went to a school in Van Nuys - Independence High School.

He studied 3 hours per day in that continuation high school, doing the rest of the work home. By law NW had to study 3 hours per day as a child.

NW had appetite for knowledge.

The book mentions NW had many false selves and didn't discover her own (at least in 1953). ER often wrote about himself in the past as 'old self'. I'm not a native speaker, but I found it peculiar when I first read his 'Manifesto'; others noted it too, I believe.

Chapter 3

"Death and rebirth" experience;

NW's last movie, Brainstorm, may have some parallels to her future lives. I'll need to watch the movie.

In my case the last play I was about to play in dealt with subjects I got to understand in my current life.

Need for love, and love betrayed.

Friendship issues. Grew wary of getting too close to people.

Noone to confide her feelings; outbursts of hysteria. (ER wrote he'd cry for hours during difficult moments of his life)

When felt betrayed, wound and anger were deep.

(#psyche-data)

Fear of humiliation of being turned away if there were no empty seats at a cinema during a regular run of a movie. Before, NW had fears in theaters coz of her mom's story about Jack the Stabber.

ER often mentioned he had to endure humiliation.

ER's Manifesto, p.35: "Soon enough, the movie theatres would turn from a place of joy to a place of dread. Once puberty arrives, I would start getting jealous of all the young couples or groups of boys and girls who go to the movies together. That day that I saw the final Lord of the Rings movie was the last time I enjoyed the movie theatres in peace, without fear of humiliation."

This is a direct link. (#psyche-data)

Again, from my own experience with my past lives I can say psychological issues do return if they weren't taken care of in the past life. The situations and details leading up to having a psychological problem again in another life may be different, though. In case of NW/ER it was 1) Fictional story about Jack the Stabber killing girls in movie theaters 2) fear of humiliation due to being turned away IF there are no tickets in a movie theater 3) dread of seeing young couples in movie theaters

Fear of flying. I started having fear of heights out of the blue. In VL's life had panics on planes.

Installed bulletproof walls and windows for her children after having a fear them being kidnapped. Certainly makes you think, knowing ER took lives of 6 young people and injured 14 more. But then as NW the soul had her physical needs fulfilled; she had love, sex, family. In ER's life those needs were not fulfilled and the soul didn't find the alternatives and also reasons for suffering (past lives' errors because of which someone else had to endure suffering). He took from those people's families what he didn't learn how to get in his new life and his new body.

What Gavin writes about facsimiles on the movie sets NW was growing on may have something to do with 'supreme gentleman' idea of ER. Old movies, as we know, were sometimes like a fairy tale – having good gentle people (gentlemen); where goodness always prevailed; where there was supreme justice. (irl it's so too, but the story can be stretched across multitude of lives a soul will have to live. So the fairness of the Universe is not so obvious.) NW discovered the world outside to be different - "success as a human being" was not the goal of all people (not all sought to gain the spiritual advancement).

Maybe it's nothing of importance, but this is what caught my eye. NW played young Helena in The Silver Chalice (1954), and an actress called Virginia Mayo played the adult Helena.

The last name reminded me of Monette Moio – but I do know their last names sound different… but also kinda close… If there's indeed a connection, Virginia, for obvious reasons, is also of interest.

NW's hair was dyed blond to match Mayo's.

NW, being a minor, could not sign contracts. I've noticed some parallels with her roles and her future life. I asked once my Higher Self if we had to pay for the unsuffered for errors of the characters we play. The answer I got leads to further questions, but it kinda said 'maybe'. It's still not very clear why we have reflections in our lives with the characters we played.

NW had sex with Nicholas Ray and then, shortly, with Dennis Hopper – whom she called herself (whom, as I understand it, she barely knew) and asked for a date. It's another similarity with me. As VL I chose partners myself also. In this life I had a tough childhood, was shy, afraid to speak, but I still was able to shed all my fears soon after I started approaching women and talking to them. It was like I always could just spontaneously approach a woman and have a conversation – now I might know why (psychic bodies – but needs to be confirmed). I mentioned somewhere in my notes here that if ER would actually just start approaching and talking to women without any expectations, he'd probably soon gain confidence he had in his past life of NW. Those facts about NW reinforce my idea.

Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) and (#error) for promiscuity which probably also caused the situation ER found himself in.

(#psyche-data) for ER expecting females to have sexual intercourse with him just like that - it worked in NW's life, and psychic data does seem to stay with us; so we can have expectations which come from our previous lives' experiences. (partially, he may have picked up that idea from some of his peers whom he saw pick up girls and have intercourse with them during the same day.)

https://www.vanityfair.com/hollywood/2022/04/how-james-dean-helped-create-dennis-hopper

I found the article with more details and NW's direct statement after she asks Dennis Hopper if he remembered her reconfirms my aforementioned opinions:

"I would like to have sex with you," Natalie Wood told Dennis Hopper, adding, "I want you to know that I don't do anything but just straight fucking."

I can see ER all over that sentence (if he tried talking to girls). Dennis Hopper had blond hair, I'll add; and he knew her as start from Miracle on 34th Street – the Santa Claus movie.

They did it on Mulholland Dr. ER mentions 'Mulholland' twice in his book. And it's of note he had his hair partially dyed blond not far from there. Later he says: "for a few days I got a hint of the attention and admiration I so craved." He experienced both as NW.

Dennis tried to go down on her and she said:

"Oh, no, no, no you can't do that!"

"Why not?"

"Because Nick Ray just fucked me."

https://www.indiewire.com/news/general/dennis-hopper-on-natalie-wood-elvis-presley-michelle-phillips-and-apocalypse-lost-238655/

"…orgy starring "all the cool kids" of the Rebel Without a Cause era, which Dennis claimed Natalie Wood would only attend if they gave her a champagne bath…"

"cool kid" was written 19 times in ER's Manifesto. Sometimes he writes "all" the cool kids.

"Lovers' Lane" on scenic Mulholland Drive, where NW and Hopper did their thing, is probably directly connected to ER being enraged by seeing couples making out and stuff during sunsets and overlooking great scenery. He suffered then for his past life's (#error)

I need to add the rape by Kirk D. happened in around 1955 when NW was filming The Searchers. So it happened after her experiences with Dennis Hopper. Could the rape have been her punishment for her sex errors? I don't think so. I still think she might have done a similar crime (rape or smth) in another past life and that was her punishment. She lacked (#spiriutal-knowledge) about sex in that life, and that continued to be the case in both NW and ER's lives of that soul also.

I can see certain parallels in mother and father of NW/ER respectably.

It's of note NW wished to and did graduate from Van Nuys High. Sadly, it may again relate to 'supreme gentleman' part of ER's life in which he did ponder about life.

NW learnt about James Dean's death on the next day of October 1.

The book says NW loved animals. I hope and think it's so. But I can't disregard that ER had videos showing his questionable attitudes towards dogs. It is another life. Based on its ending it's clear he allowed the problems he thought he had to overflow his heart and do the awful things to people. His negativity could have impacted his attitude towards animals also.

 we can't know if women had issues with his appearance since he never approached any of them except for saying 'Hi' once. He himself mentioned seeing blondes with men of color; it should have been a clear indicator appearances aren't everything. And actually females in the comments did say they found him 'kinda cute' until he opened his mouth. It's not the place to write these thoughts, but I just wonder if there was actually nobody in ER's 22 years of life who'd tell him the simple truth of him simply needing to speak with women (and people) first and that would most likely naturally lead him to finding a girlfriend?

NW played people of other ethnic groups. Skin had to be painted to darker tones sometimes. It could have been a reason behind ER's physical body and his troubles. (#error) and/or a (#reflection-life)?

John Carlyle often saw Natalie "necking on a bed with a guy—hardly ever the same one—although I'm pretty sure, in spite of what some of them claimed later, that was as far as it went."

NW believed she didn't have unconditional love (at that time at least).

Tab Hunter: "The awards were naturally on Natalie's mind. But she was also worried about the way her hair looked. We were shooting [The Burning Hills] very late that day, and it left her no time for a session with the hairdresser. 'Why don't you just cut it short?' I said. 'I was recently in Europe and saw a lot of girls who looked great with short hair.' So she did, and it worked. Typical of the way Natalie picked up on things right away."

Over the next years NW would change her hairstyles and wardrobes. Noting this coz of ER mentions of his hair and cloths, giving them way too much importance.

NW worked hard on exploring her characters even when there was no character to explore. Noting this coz ER often mentioned characters – both fictional and real (when he voices his opinions on people).

I, in my past life of Vivien Leigh, fascinated NW above all other actresses. Of note is another parallel in between our lives I didn't know existed. It's about a "wrist problem" we shared. I thought (as VL) my wrists too thick and often wore bracelets or long sleeves to conceal them. It's the first time I learn this fact about me in my past life of VL. NW found all details about me in that life important. Again, I feel like NW's soul will find Thiaoouba and my writings and will find out who it (she/he) was in its past lives (NW and ER, etc.). (#curious)

The author then lists more similarities between us.

NW dated wealthy people, like Nicky Hilton. Could also relate psychologically to ER's attempt to get rich by winning a lottery in order to – in his thoughts – get girls.

'Ermine wrap' which NW decided to wear. ER's videos showing his not-so-great attitude to dogs.

The thing is as VL I also wore things I now regret wearing in that life coz I love animals and nature. So it's still tough to tell of ER's behavior is attributed to psyche or lack of spiritual knowledge or both (I'm leaning towards the latter).

RJ presented jewelry with inscriptions to NW in champagne. He asked her to marry him. Noting it coz of ER's mentions of champagne, and he mentioned wine way too often . As I found in my reincarnation, we're often resented with situations or objects we encountered in our previous lives; we can look at life from a different perspective and learning something new this way.

There's also that story about NW taking a champagne bath before planned orgy with 'all the cool kids' from A Rebel without a Cause and burning her private area.

Those beverages clearly played big role in both NW and ER lives.

NW's diary entry: "'Two lonely stars with no place in the sun found their orbit—each other—and they were one.' I sent this to R on the anniversary of our first love. It also turned out to be the day that we were engaged to be married, and the start of our real life."

I feel I have to say I like NW despite her future or her errors (which I have made also as VL and I can't judge her). But I'm doing this research for the sake of learning about reincarnation. So while her entry is romantic, I have to mention that ER – her future incarnation – made a video speaking about the sun and planets, and how he was lonely with nobody to share the sunsets, etc. The book mentioned a lot of NW's affairs and sleeping around which I didn't mention. She did it while being away from RJ (who also slept with Japanese girls while working in Japan). ER suffered then for his behavior, his (#error) when he was NW.

Before knowing the details of Natalie Wood's life I thought the errors for which ER had to suffer were made before his past life of Natalie, but now I see many sex-related errors were actually made in that life also.

Nick Gurdin brought an icon which he said had to be with his daughter and Robert Wagner when they married. It touched them both. Noting this cause I've seen many icons living in Russia all my life. We have them in our apartments, houses, and some people have them in cars. I've seen many people pray and cross themselves in front of icons, hoping that would help them or bring luck. It's another parallel our souls share.

NW started to develop a subconscious fear of flying. A parallel to me in my life and Vivien's.

I'll note that NW dad, Nick Gurdin, hit a pedestrian crossing the street when Nick was driving drunk, ignoring the red light. The man died in hospital. There could be some connection to ER's BMW and how he used ii in the last minutes of his life.

3331 Laurel Canyon Boulevard.

ER's book, p. 19: "Early in the summer, father forced me to attend summer camp at an elementary school nearby our new house. This school was Bay Laurel Elementary School in Calabasas. I hated the prospect, and I vehemently protested it. The last thing I wanted to do was spend my coveted summer at a school where I didn't know anyone."

NW's 20-th bd on July 20-th, and $27,050 in gov. bonds she could now pick up. Noting it coz of 20 and 27 numbers have connections to me – Nightmare on Elm Street, and IT movies. I wonder if NW/ER's soul will have any synchronicities with those movies?

On a side note, his apartment was 7-th

NW's diary entry: "Dear R, we have just returned from a three-week very hectic tour. We have been to 12 cities, had 4 hangovers, met approximately 8000 people, had three fights, one upset stomach and a wonderful time. We have emerged with battle scars, but they only add to our characters (?).

Sometimes you walk into a room after being gone only five minutes, and my heart leaps as though it were the first time we had ever met. I wonder how I could be so lucky—that you are my husband—that your worth as a human being is so great that it almost breaks my heart. And your indulgence with me when I am silly, or childish, or headstrong. You are my husband, my child, my strength, my weakness, my lover, my life."

It's beautiful writing. And I have to note that while reading ER's 'Manifesto' for the first time I thought that he could have become a writer. This shows – and there are lots of other clues – that NW's soul retained (or maybe reacquired) its literacy in ER's life.

NW is about 22 where I'm reading the Gavin's book. I realized another simple thing. NW was an actress, a star, from childhood. By her 22 years she had a vast experience of making movies, being admired, having sex, love, going out with friends, etc. ER lacked many of those things, but his psyche 'remembered' the life he used to live in another life of which he knew nothing about. His previous life's desires remained – or were reacquired - but the physical body and life situation had changed.

He obviously made huge error at the end. Noting this coz it helps understand reincarnation more.

UPDATE: watched ER video in which he talks near a road. He says the world is so beautiful, but it's so sad and depressing when he had to experience it all alone. Realized again he literally lived in the pretty much the same place as he did in his previous life of NW. His life situation was literally turned upside down having just lived a movie star life.

Continuing watching the video and now ER said his baseless opinion that women would reject and looked down upon him as an inferior man if he made a sexual advance towards them. I wonder if this is something he used to think and do of people (males) like himself now in his past life of NW? I can only remember what NW wrote to Gigi Perreau about not becoming a movie star. It's safe to say NW must have thought Gigi inferior to her, and I guess there's a possibility in NW's life ER rejected and looked down upon people he deemed inferior men – but it's just a guess based on evidence at hand; could be wrong.

714 North Beverly Drive.

Nick Adams to NW: "I know a lot of stuff about you that I could sell and get the money I need" (he asked her to loan some money to him; RJ sent him packing.)

Now we know some of that stuff. It's not like I want to know the private details of other people, but, obviously, such details are important in the study of reincarnation. And those people are dead, so no big harm can be done here (provided the truth and only the truth is revealed).

NW wanted to go into analysis. The book mentioned that several times, so it was a big deal. This prompted me to search ER's writings to see if he ever wanted to do any analysis of himself. Since he was NW and had all those issues now, it's logical to assume he would. And he did.

ER's book, p.65:

"I felt hatred and dissatisfaction with the world and society, but I didn't want to hide away from it anymore. I needed to be as productive with my time as possible, and I had a lot of free time at this point. The best way to make use of this time, I concluded, was to spend it self-educating myself. Knowledge is power.

I began a daily routine of walking to Barnes & Noble in Calabasas every day, where I would spend hours reading books that ranged from biographies of powerful leaders, histories of significant periods, self-help books, philosophy and psychology texts, and historical fiction novels. I sometimes even spent entire days there, from the time it opened to the time it closed…"

Later ER writes he talked with a psychiatrist.

NW had many encounters with betrayal in her life.

Robbins on NW: "Typical of her. When there were difficulties, she was right there with you."

Robins taking a chance in casting NW: "you didn't think of her as this naïve young Hispanic girl."

I was Hispanic as Michele Avila. Maybe another connection to my dream.

NW had attacks of panic. Psychologically this may relate to ER's panics.

Guy McElwaine:

"Before that first session, Natalie was determined but terrified, like someone about to go in for major surgery. When we got to the office, she asked me to have a preliminary talk with the analyst, and although I was reluctant, she was so insistent that I agreed. "Tell that son of a bitch not to fuck with my talent," she said. So I did, more or less, and incidentally did not have a favorable impression of the man."

Glad she sought help, but the attitude… it's another connection to her future life of ER. (#psyche-data) and lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) on how to treat people (who wanna help you in this case).

Yesterday (May 5, 2025) I watched ER's videos for my research and, when he was returning to his car and looked at his reflection in the window, I noticed how he said his name – Elliot

Rodger – proudly, even though in that particular life and the way he'd been acting and what he was already planning to do shortly, there was nothing to be proud of. Of course, I also noted how he had a different name and mainly different identity now that he was Elliot Rodger and no longer Natalie Wood; identities in reincarnation is the topic I ponder about often.

"The nucleus" of friends. Troubled childhood was a bonus among the qualifications for the admission to the nucleus. ER and some of his friends may qualify, "Affairs of the heart are more mysterious than how they make movies."

Chapter 5.
I always envied Natalie her love of fun. She didn't have a Puritan ethic.
—LESLIE CARON
If she'd lived, she'd have made a great Cleopatra.
—BURT BRINCKERHOFF
For a long time I didn't see the full extent of Natalie's darkness, her fears.
—RICHARD GREGSON

Many men made passes on NW in her life. Another reason why as ER she might have expected other people to make the first move.

San Ysidro Drive.
1107 SAN YSIDRO DRIVE – BEVERLY. I lived there as VL.
THE SAN YSIDRO RANCH – Married there.

George Cukor went to NW's parties.

NW (about parties): "You're going out there a star, but you're coming back a lady."
NW squeezing one nipple at a party…
A game of rating the performances of sexual partners…

NW's fear of dark water. It needs to be noted ER could swim – he saved his brother from drowning – and when he was a child the news of having a swimming pool in their new house made ER happy. We don't know atm if NW lived another short life in the 1980s before being born as ER in 1991. If she did, she could have gotten rid of any psychological fears about water in it. Or maybe there was nothing in ER's life to bring that fear of water back to the surface.

I have to note it coz I had fears of the ocean as Missy and was drowned in a creek. In my current life I had issues with water as a child and still have by not daring to swim in deep water where I can't stand on the ground with my nose way above the water. I also have traces of other fears which were present in my VL's life.

Richard Gregson:

"I have one vision of Natalie before I met her. A party at [producer] Ray Stark's house, lots of people. Late in the evening I saw this beautiful young woman in a sherry-colored dress, standing all by herself and looking so lonely and unhappy. I asked who it was. When I was told, I was astounded that someone so beautiful and so famous could look so miserable and so alone in the middle of so many people. I was naïve in those days, I guess."

As VL I played Blanche DuBois in A Streetcar Named Desire.

The situation with NW and Dorothy Provine is of interest too coz it shows her soul's darker side which was also shown in her future ER's life.

In Salzburg, NW demanded to stay at the Hotel Imperial, in the suite favored by Hitler when he visited the city.
Knowing she'd become ER it's not that big of a surprise to learn this fact…

Mart (when NW decided to go to work right after her Seconal overdose – not accidental, as Gavin then writes): "She was humiliated, depressed, but determined to finish a movie she'd been working on for over six months, and hated. 'It's a six-thirty call for eight,' she said. 'I'll have time to get some sleep.' And she did. Was on time at the studio and picked up the scene they'd left off on Friday evening."

"I'll kill for that part." About Inside Daisy Clover.
While it's clear she was joking, I have to report on her choice of words for the sake of this research. And I'll say there are no such 'jokes' on Thiaoouba, I'm sure – it was still an error (imho).

WAGNER [from above]: Hi.
WOOD [stopping, looking up]: Hi.
WAGNER: That looked good.
WOOD: You think?
WAGNER: I do. Yeah.
WOOD: Hope so. [Little smile, starting off] Bye.
WAGNER [watching after her]: Bye.

Elizabeth Taylor is often mentioned in NW's bio. Liz is someone who has a connection to me in VL's life too.

Pollack (NW was still officially engaged to Blatnik, but knew she wouldn't marry him): "One day after shooting, Redford and I went to Natalie's dressing room to discuss the next day's scene. After a while, Redford left. I started to make a point about the scene we'd been discussing when a pillow thrown by Natalie hit me in the face. 'I don't want to talk about the scene,' she said. 'I'm hung up on you.'" … "Although the attraction was mutual, on my side it was unspoken. I was married, with a young son; and when I explained this, Natalie understood, and nothing developed."

NW tells Blatnik the wedding if off. Mart Crowley visits her (it's dark outside, I guess) and they hear noises from outside. They see Blatnik prowling on the lawn and they laugh. They stopped laughing once they saw he was carrying a gun. He left.

Laughing at the man was an (#error) which I think NW suffered for in her ER's life. The gun situation may reflect in what ER did. He was also prowling the lawn of that sorority before taking his rampage to the streets of Isla Vista. (#curious)

Richard Gregson: "Natalie was smoking cigarettes through a black plastic holder that evening, and I told her jade would be more elegant."

NW later invited him to a party. Again, shows ER had the dormant knowledge in his soul to make the first move. Granted and sadly, the bullying he had to endure made him think all women would reject him which wouldn't be so if he'd acquire positivity and get rid of negativity which would be perceived as creepy and possibly dangerous to many adequate people – and for good reasons as we know.

Tom Mankiewicz: "Studio life from an early age had cut Natalie off from so much, and she was eager to make up for it, but I often had the impression that she never knew exactly how to live her life."

NW met Henry Jaglom at a party and they left together that evening (and she knew he was involved with another girl). ER expected the same thing to happen to him – meet a girl and f her hours or minutes later. Unfortunately, some people have that. I say unfortunately for reasons of spirituality – emotionally I don't care a lot now about some people having one-night stands. But it's a fact most of them are making an (#error). ER's life showed a glimpse of just what suffering many of those people will have to endure.

Henry described NW as "a very neurotic girl." - "She told me that ever since she was a seven-year-old actor in Tomorrow Is Forever, she'd been begging for love. She was constantly asked to cry, praised and admired when she did, realized that if she could cry authentically, everyone adored her, and she soon established a connection between love and pain."

Psychologically, NW's childhood played not a small role in what happened in her next life of ER.

NW good humor about the worse actress is of notice. She did good not to let it go to her head and came out victorious.

NW liked the script of Bonnie and Clyde but could not be in the movie. This is one of the movies I don't want to watch. It's not only because I already know the real story the movie is portraying – it's very sad – but also because the movie – based on what I saw in the trailer and reviews – seems to glamorize killers and psychopaths. Incidentally, that's who she'd become as ER. If she had some (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding the subjects shown in the script, she wouldn't have liked it or became ER we know.

Update: now that I got the answer Natalie Wood was indeed Bonnie Parker on whom the said movie was based, it's no surprise she liked the script to the movie glamorizing her past criminal life – even though she had no knowledge she was that very Bonnie; her psyche and spirituality were at about the same level, (plus some other factors I'll have to check later on) so...

Henry: "She seeks help, but runs away from it."

Richard (after NW another overdose attempt): "she couldn't figure it out, but was overcome with deep pain." He realized "the extent of Natalie's dark side, how deeply she'd been wounded by life. She was charming, generous, beautiful—and haunted."

NW supported presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy (my namesake) and wouldn't change her mind. "He got to her," Ziffren recalled, "and that was it. Later I changed my mind and supported Robert Kennedy, but when I tried to persuade Natalie to change her mind and do likewise, she stuck with McCarthy—typical of the way, once her mind was made up, she never faltered."

Paul Mazursky. The same last name has the character ER envied in the movie that touched him on emotional level – Alpha Dog.

NW sister's betrayal.

NW's mother tried to turn NW's daughter against her.

NW: "[Norma Crane] always made me feel what it's like to be alive, how you have to take the bad with the bad, and in spite of everything, never lose your capacity for enjoyment."

Norma died of breast cancer. ER friend's (James Ellis) mother, Kim Ellis, died of breast cancer and ER cried for a bit.

NW's daughter Natasha on seeing her mom breastfeeding Courtney and becoming curious: "'You can taste if you like,' she said to me. So I did, and hated it."

ER: “I started to have intense conflicts with Soumaya. I hated the rules she imposed on me, which I believed she had no right to impose, as she wasn’t my true parent. I hated how she would force me to drink milk every morning and very foul-tasting soup for dinner.”

Mart Crowley said Natalie decided she must have “one of those expandable 1930s makeup mirrors, that you could see yourself reflected in at various angles, and remembered that her makeup man on All the Fine Young Cannibals at MGM had used a mirror of this kind.”

At MGM: “the guard at the studio gate recognized her at once and waved us through. Then we stole one of those mirrors from the makeup department during the lunch break, when no one was about.”

Later the book says NW also stole, on a different occasion, an old-fashioned shoeshine stand outside the Last Chance Saloon.

ER: “As I stumbled a few yards down Del Playa with my shattered leg, I realized that someone had stolen my Gucci sunglasses that my mother had given me. I loved those sunglasses, and had to get them back. I vehemently turned around and staggered back towards the party. At that point, I was so drunk that I forgot where the party was, and ended up walking onto the front yard of the house next to it, demanding to know who took my sunglasses. The people in this house must have been friends with the ones I previously fought with, for they greeted me with vicious hostility. They called me names like “f” and “pussy”, typical things those types of scumbags would say. A whole group of the obnoxious brutes came up and dragged me onto their driveway, pushing and hitting me...”

“My 22nd Birthday was a miserable experience. I sat around at my mother’s house, staring at my broken leg, feeling so pathetic for being a cripple, as well as a 22-year-old virgin. My mother bought me a new golden necklace to replace the one that was stolen from me, as she knew how heartbroken I was about losing it.”

It’s possible ER suffer for his NW’s mistake there, as well as for some others.

Karl Malden: “Natalie looked more beautiful than ever,” the Wagners were “a golden couple” in public: “Charming, glamorous, in love—and it was real. The first time around, you sometimes got the impression they were playing it. But this time they just enjoyed letting people see how happy they were.”

RJ (Robert Wagner): “people gravitated to Natalie. She always seemed to be at the center of whatever was going on, not because she sought it, but it just seemed to be her natural place. And of course she enjoyed it.”

Mart Crowley, who was openly gay, checked into the same hotel as Wagners. He told NW a rent boy would be visiting him after dinner. Toward midnight a drunk NW entered his room, approached the boy and castigated him:

NW: "You're not good enough for my friend!"

Mart was stunned and asked her "not to be rude."

NW: "I'll give you rude!"

(#error) (Mart said he'd never seen drunk NW lose control before.)

ER: "For those crucial twelve days I had left as a teenager, I walked over to the center of Isla Vista every day and sat at one of the tables outside Domino's Pizza, hoping against hope that a girl would come up and talk to me. Why wouldn't they? I looked good enough, didn't I? Or did I not look good enough? Such thoughts flew through my head in frantic waves…"

Delphine Mann had a strong impression that Laurence Olivier "saw the young Vivien in Natalie."

"Natalie was appalled that a producer would be smoking coke in public during a meeting."

Natasha on her mother's (NW) heavy drinking: "It was sometimes scary. When she was really drunk, she didn't know who we were."

Burt Brinckerhoff: "Natalie's fear of dark water reminded me of an account of Tolstoy's wife in a biography I'd recently read. It described her as always about to throw herself into dark water, then waiting for someone to save her."

NW's "Instructions Regarding My Medical Care", and a "Directive to Physician." From the first:

"I am not conscious of any fear of death. It is as much a part of the human scene as the beginning and the middle span of life. So, do not try to postpone the inevitable termination, for I do not believe that such is the proper goal of medical science. A departure from this world which is artificially delayed to no purpose, increasing the span of disability, discomfort and expense, is not a proper exercise of human judgment and intelligence."

"…all life-sustaining procedures be withheld or withdrawn, and that I be permitted to die naturally."

The expressed ideas align with ER, I think – especially having no fear of death. (Edit. ER: "It will mean my death, and I have always been afraid of death." I still think he had no real-real fear of death since he carried out his evil plan.)

Natasha: "My mother, who could be fiercely protective, was very easily threatened by my blossoming relationship with Daddy Gregson and Julia, who was quite bohemian then. When I realized Natalie was jealous, I'd tell her how I enjoyed the different atmosphere. She wanted me to have a good relationship with my father, but anxieties would overtake her. Sometimes she'd ask, 'If you had to choose between us, who would it be?' And of course I'd say, 'You.' "

Again, as ER NW'd have jalousies towards brother Jazz, which resulted in ER having most evil plans for his brother (thankfully, they never materialized). (#psyche-data)? Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge).

Barry Sandler: "Unlike so many stars, she didn't want to talk about herself. In fact we hardly even talked about the script. The movie business hadn't insulated her, she was personally very curious about me, and we talked mainly about my life."

Elizabeth Taylor replaced NW in The Mirror Crack'd. Liz replaced me too in a movie, as well as played me.

NW's dad: "Natasha, you are a good girl." He died on November 6.

NW's eulogy. She recalled "the supreme pleasure of watching and listening to him play his balalaika…"

Unfortunately, I have to note "the supreme pleasure", since as ER she'd say the "supreme gentleman", shortly before taking lives of 6 people. The death theme may have been a reason for that word being drawn out in the soul's two different lives.

I my soul's lives I was also drawn to words I'd use in my past lives. So, I think there could be a direct connection here.

Mazursky about NW and RJ's parties: "There was always a very special feeling about them. If you were invited, you knew you were a real friend."

Guy McElwaine realized there was a puzzling habit about NW; he found it "very strange." When leaving messages on his answering machine, NW sometimes identified herself as Natalie, sometimes as Natalie Wood, and sometimes as Mrs. Wagner. He realized that "Natalie" was calling as a friend, "Natalie Wood" as his client, and "Mrs. Wagner" as RJ's wife.

(#psyche-data) ER often referred to himself in the past as "my 4 year old self", "My 5-year-old self", "my innocent, happy self", "my fabulous self', etc. It's not just me; other people noticed that also, and I remember someone in the comments on YT referred to EL as 'his stupid self', clearly in reference to all those ER's 'self' mentions in his book.

Garvin asks if NW's personality began to fracture during the last year of her life.

John Irvin found NW "increasingly drawn to playing wildness and exploring the dark side. She attributed part of this to being Russian, which she was very proud of."

Lots of connections to ER here (and even more parallels with me can be seen here): Psychology… and also the fact ER "really liked the character Anakin Skywalker," and he was “amazed to see his epic transformation into Darth Vader on the high quality big screen.” Anakin explored the dark side quite thoroughly in Star Wars. (#curious)

Jeffery Rochford: “She was very charming, and on the surface self-possessed. But I noticed that her eyes were not focused, their pupils too dilated, and I detected that ‘buzz in the body’ when people take drugs. When Natalie told me that she had headaches and neck pain, I asked what medications she was taking. She hesitated, then said: ‘Some medications for pain. I need help to get going in the morning.’ She also mentioned ‘anxiety’ and ‘needing help to sleep.’ ”

NW revealed she drank wine every day, and “she also needed more and more adrenaline to function as an actress.”

Noted this coz ER drank wine quite often. While in itself there’s nothing unusual in drinking wine – one of my relatives (grandfather?) used to drink a glass of wine before dinner – in this case it may relate to ER’s experiences in his past life of NW.

Tom Mankiewicz: “Natalie needed all her cards, and she was very afraid of losing her beauty card.” She asked if she looked her age. May have psychological connection to ER’s age of 22 and lack of any sexual and love experiences with females.

Natalie Wood asked Gavin Lambert if I - Vivien Leigh - ever consider a face-lift? He said I did but decided against it, “because if you’ve been famous for your beauty, everyone knows.”

Anastasia story “clicked,” Natalie said, “with where I came from.”

After finding out I am Vivien Leigh and reading a good amount about my past life, I decided to re-watch Anastasia (1997) cartoon, and I found several things I could now identify with (the story ‘clicked’).

John Irvin saw intense fixation in NW and likened her to “someone driving a car so fast that she was in danger of losing control.”

RJ: “It crossed my mind that they [NW and Christopher Walken] were having an affair, but I wasn’t sure, and didn’t say anything about it to Natalie.”

“Some kind of change seemed to be coming over Natalie. She told me about helicopters hovering over the hotel and dropping a net over it for a scene in the movie. But I knew there was no such scene.”

Donfeld: “Finally, after he [Donfeld] wanted to change the color of his shoelaces, it came to a showdown, and I told him [Walken] I was fed up. He reached in his pocket, took out a key, placed it on the table, then stared at me. Natalie and I had more or less adjoining suites at the hotel, so I knew her room number. It was the number on that key, and Walken’s way of telling me who was in charge.”

I know now NW was Bonnie Parker in his past life, and she was and remained married till the end of her life to Roy Thornton when she was clearly having sexual experiences with Clyde. Doesn't mean NW actually cheated to RJ with Walken, though.

On November 20, Natalie asked Roddy McDowall not to tell RJ she brought Walken to his house for dinner. Roddy: "it seemed so out of character for Natalie to do a thing like that."

November 24, Christina Grof: "We talked about how much they enjoyed the boat. RJ said that he and Natalie had become such expert sailors that they could almost handle it without a crew."

'Shadows' on the set of Brainstorm.

RJ: "By that time I'd got to to know the signs of Natalie 'possessed.' The switch from her career to her marriage, then back again, and a few years later, the switch to her children. Perhaps I didn't pay enough attention, and wasn't giving her enough, too busy working when Natalie, as Howard Jeffrey used to say, stamped her foot. And there were always people around telling her, 'You're so talented, you mustn't give it up.'"

NW's last daybook entries: "The undertow is very strong today."

"This loneliness won't leave me alone."

'The supreme professional' is the words Gavin used to describe Sydney Guilaroff who had to fix NW's hair before funeral.

Rock Hudson at the funeral: "I have no understanding of why really good people have to die so horribly."

I hesitated to make a note here. It should be clear by now people live many lives and we have to suffer for our own errors we made, including those made in the past lives. Some people – "really good" and otherwise - "die so horribly" because in another life their actions caused someone die just as "horribly". My attitude towards NW has not changed, knowing who she was or would become, and I still like her for in that life she did no serious crimes (e.g. murder, rape, abduction, etc.) and just lived her life at the top of the wheel, enjoying life. It's clear Natalie had much to learn in terms of spiritual knowledge (as do I). She made mistakes which some may think not important, but they actually are and resulted in her ER's life experiences (and lack of love, romance, sex, etc.).

Lana, NW's sister, moved to rented house in Thousand Oaks.

ER passed his diving test at the Thousand Oaks DMV. Later he went to Moorpark College near Thousand Oaks.

The Bonnie and Clyde Garage Apartment is located at 3347+1⁄2 Oak Ridge Drive in Joplin, Newton County, Missouri. Oaks and related named had appeared elsewhere in B&C's life path.

NW's Jenny responds: "I don't like civilization." Driftwood (1947). She says it after expecting people to respond to "How do you do?", and getting the answer that it's just a formality. Local doctor: “Most folks don’t give a damn what you really feel. That’s civilization.” She later decides she belongs to “civilization”.

I can see reflections in ER’s life path. (#reflection)

Themes of belonging, conversion, appear in some of her other films.

“I’ll never get close to anybody.” – Judy in Rebel Without a Cause.

Some movies required NW to become adept at roller-skating, football and tennis. ER did not like football; and he wanted to become a skateboarder but couldn’t achieve it.

Nick Ray, Kazan, Jerry Robbins, Robert Mulligan, Sydney Pollack and Paul Mazursky are the movie directors with whom NW had a strong rapport.

Sydney Pollack: “We started it in the morning, and it didn’t feel quite right. Not enough charge. So I decided to break early for lunch, and gave Natalie a glass of wine. She drank it, but said, ‘You son of a bitch, are you telling me I can’t play this scene without getting drunk?’ Then she laughed, and as the wine started to wear off, she asked for more. She drank six glasses in all, played the scene wonderfully—and threw up after finishing it.”

Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice. Mazursky told the actors, “Do whatever you feel like doing.” They didn’t go through with the “orgy”, and Natalie’s gesture was the decisive moment.

“Almost at once she played the aggressor with Gould, who was shy at first but got warmed up. We had to work out her movements, to avoid frontal nudity which was not permitted in 1969. Then Elliott and Bob [Culp] decided to have a brief discussion about the stock market. It was followed by a funny, awkward silence that Natalie broke by doing something beautiful. She kissed Elliott very tenderly.”

May thoughts written down in Movie Parallels section remain the same.

NW’s heroine interacts with characters named Elliot and Roger (not Rodger) in that movie.

Elliot Rodger

ER used to put his left hand on his waist. It’s quite noticeable. Well, in his past life of Bonnie Parker he also had his right (yes, right) had placed on the waist in several pictures.

TLDR: this mirroring appears to be natural in reincarnation.

I’ll note it once here: I noticed that in my past life of Angelo I’d brush my hair to my right – the same way I almost always do in my current life. But – in my Vivien’s life, I noticed I brushed my hair to my left (when I was older and did it myself) – in reverse. I also noticed in my current life my left brow can be raised easily, instead of my Vivien’s right one. Too little is known about reincarnation yet; maybe this polarization has something to do with a different gender and different sexual attraction to [now] opposite sex.

(READ – Long time ago) My Twisted World - The Story of Elliot Rodger

Before I knew who I was in my past lives I thought that ER's detailed account of his life can help us learn something new about human psychology and society.

Now that I know who ER was in his past life, his writings may also help us understand reincarnation better as there are also detailed biographies of his past life as NW. I don't think it's a coincidence – all happens for a reason.

p.103 "Elliot Rodger will not move aside for a stupid, good-for-nothing, over-glorified actress, whoever the fuck she was. I didn't see."

Personally, I wouldn't say those words about NW. But still this made me wonder what ER'd say about his old self in NW's life if he knew NW but didn't know NW is him in his past incarnation?

Robert Wagner: "There were so many boys around Natalie that you had to beat a path to her door."

Connects psychologically to ER's obsession to be 'cool' and him being crushed when he could not attain what he had in his past life of the highly famous and popular actress Natalie Wood. The lack of spiritual knowledge played a role there too in how he treated the new situation in his new life. (#psyche-data)

Natalie: "I think we both realized how deeply in love we were during the time RJ was in Japan. I dated occasionally, but my heart was not in it."

NW could dance. May relate to ER's movements and poses in front of camera.

I noted about me I like to as if dance sometimes and found a connection there to my VL's life.

Claire Trevor and Howard Bert situation may indicate NW/ER having some (#spiritual-knowledge). The soul does have some since ER felt sick at his awful idea. But he didn't have enough of spirituality yet not to do it.

McElwaine recalled about NW: "She sometimes went to bed early, took her Dalmane, and I would sit on her bed and hold her hand until she went to sleep. She looked incredibly beautiful without makeup, but when I said so, she told me she was wearing a special undetectable makeup that she'd devised for bed. I realized then that Natalie was even insecure about her beauty."

(#spiritual-knowledge) for refusing to sit with Kennedy after she learned Warren was not included. Actually, it may relate to ER not giving a damn about the actress at the movie premier.

Micky Ziffren about NW: "She had an instinct for chic. It wasn't infallible, but it was always very personal. She had a very definite idea of herself as a star, and how a star should look—and how well she should be paid."

Relates to ER's costly garments and accessories.

"Kindness test."

Robert Mulligan on NW: "Suddenly, there she was. Alone. Mike Romanoff greeted her, and escorted her royally through the place to our table. Heads turned. A real star entrance. Natalie seemed to love it. She looked very young, and literally glowed in a bright summer dress. As Mike seated her with a bow and a kiss of her hand, he murmured to me, "The Princess has arrived." The moment he left, Natalie rolled her eyes at me, made a face, and laughed."

Schulman recalled, "Natalie began to flirt openly and charmingly with Steve. But neither Steve nor his wife took it seriously."

Decided to watch the movie ER was moved so much by – Alpha Dog 2006. If it wasn't for my research, I'd probably stop watching after several minutes – which is rare for me to drop a movie. Only when the movie was almost over it became clear it must be based on a real story.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Murder_of_Nicholas_Markowitz

I found some synchronicities to NW/ER's soul.

Clearly the movie taught ER the wrong values. Now that I know it was based on real life events I don't know why they had to make a movie out of someone's tragedy? Why not make a movie about someone helping others, risking his life to save someone, or smth? Clearly (at least that's my hope), the creators thought it'd maybe help kids to stay out of trouble if they know the crimes won't go unpunished, but in reality ER was moved by the movie so much he went to Isla Vista and we know what happened next. In his writings, after he got a gun, he itilized the question which could have been influenced by this movie's language – "Who's the alpha male now, bitches?". It's another confirmation of Thao's words about violent movies. Some disturbed minds could be influenced by them so much they'll do a serious crime in search of recognition, fame, etc..

The scene in the pool ER was talking about… it fades to black not showing a lot. There's actually not a lot of nudity in the film. I get it - ER was moved by it still, which shows how deeply obsessed he allowed himself to become by the idea of sex, etc. He didn't care about the tragedy of what happened to the real person the movie was based on, no. He only cared that in a 2 freaking hour movie tits were shown for like 30 seconds.

Kidnapped kid. NW character was kidnapped in The Searchers and both of them didn't wanna go back when they were offered to be brought home.

Take Valium or smth. In his past life of NW ER used to take Valium often to calm down.

(I don't remember ever hearing this word in a film before. And yet today – May 6, 2025 - I both read this word in a biography about Natalie Wood taking Valium, and later in the same day I heard that word in the movie NW in her future life of Elliot Rodger heard in a movie which had a great influence on his life. This is why it's what I for now still call a synchronicity – something that obviously exists in connection between two – or more – lives of a single soul (Astral body).)

He envied the characters who are not be envied.

Elvis is one of criminals.

Johnny's girl with glasses and headscarf at 1:44:00 has some Natalie Wood looks going on when looking towards camera.

She says later she wanna f and that's what ER said and did in past life of NW

Real life story:

The kidnapped kid was called Nicholas, Nick. It's the name of NW's dad and I saw Nick Cage in my dream telling ER was NW in his past life.

In Santa Barbara nick met some of his kidnapper's friends. One of them had last name of Pressley – NW dated Elvis Presley; and another was called Natasha (Natalie [Natasha] Wood).

ER wrote he saw in that movie the life he wanted and it was the life he actually lived in his past life of NW (+- some details. Some of NW's men had mafia/criminal connections too from what I know). I think that's one of reasons he desired it (again).

Zack Mazursky whom ER envied for having s with two blondes in the pool.

Paul Mazursky was a director who directed ER's past life movie Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice (1969).

Fields: "It's the first script to excite her [Natalie Wood] in two years."

It was an important movie for NW, and Alpha Dog was an important movie for her in her future life of ER. I find this synchronicity of big interest. (#curious)

Mazursky: "I liked the fact that she was punctual, and of course that she loved the script. And when the two of us took a walk together in Hyde Park after lunch, I fell in love with her, the way we all did."

NW made millions from that movie.

I Gavin Lambert's bio about NW it's said the idea for the movie came to Mazursky when he saw a photo in Time (The New Therapy article) of art dealer Fritz Perls in a hot tub at Esalen with six naked girls. ER became envious of Mazursky Alpha Dog character when he and 2 blondes were completely naked in a pool and then had sex in it. Another good synchronicity, parallel.

Elliott Gould, Robert Culp and Dyan Cannon played a lead in a movie for the first time.

There was an 'orgy' scene in Mazursky's movie. NW refused to film it at first, but then Mazursky told her his life's story and Natalie agreed to do the scene. In my experience, it appears me may suffer for our characters' errors in the movies we made. Or at least some of what our characters did in the movies gets 'reflected' into our (future in this case) lives. This is what happened to Elliot too I believe here. No orgies for him this time (needless to say as NW he agreed to have an orgy with 'all the cool kids' from Rebel without a Cause; it went badly and she was not f-ed then, but still).

I should emphasize here that Mazursky director played a big role in NW's life, and so did Mazursky the Alpha Dog character in her next life of ER.

I'll note this: I had a rather large experience with synchronicities. I 'felt' there was a connection to the movies (IT, Nightmare on Elf Street) and to 2 people whom, as I later found, I was in my past lives (Michele Avila, Vivien Leigh). I'd be very confident to at least assume that Elliot also 'felt' a deeper connection to the movie (Alpha Dog) than he could realize existed. He didn't know he was Natalie Wood in his past life and so he couldn't directly see the synchronicities I listed here, but I think he was influenced by those 'invisible' (to him) factors connecting him to his past life via that movie which moved him so much and played a role in his life's ending.

Gavin, ER friend, advised ER to move out of Isla Vista. In fact, he told him the place is brutal.

ER had a friend called 'Gavin' in his past life of Charles Greville, and Gavin Lambert wrote a biography about ER's past life of Natalie Wood – and I think they were friends also. (#curious)

(READ) Journal (I read the scanned version with all the details intact)

I'll be noting only what may concern reincarnation and ER's past lives here. I have my own ideas and thoughts on some of ER views on life, governments, society, etc., but it'd be too time consuming to spend time on them also.

I won't go into his questions Why? What went wrong? What happened? Etc. Because it's clearly understood he had to suffer for his own past lives' errors; He didn't know it. (See my other notes in this document.)

His psyche had been saturated with data from his previous lives of a star actress (NW), and a famous criminal (BP). Both had sex pretty much whenever they wanted. Both were admired by many. He still had the desire to experience those things which once came to him so easily, but various factors were in the way to achieving them: karma; new psychology (we have 3 bodies [out of 9] which relate to our psychology) which was influenced by bullying, rejections, coldness, etc.; lack of spiritual knowledge and understandings to go through with his life's hardships [without harming anyone], or to understand he had to do something in order to get something (e.g. he never properly approached a girl to just talk and get to know her if she was available and interested. If not, then just calmly repeat and learn).

Month/Day/Year

4/5/2010. NW was Democratic.

4/21/2010. ER writes about "the cruelty of society" which he had to experience. In his past life of Bonnie Parker he was famous when he was in the Barrow gang who robbed people and even killed several human beings. It was unfair that thugs get to be celebrities whose funeral attended thousands of people. He got to enjoy being adored by society (well, some of its members) then, as a criminal, now, it seems to me, it was time to face the consequences of the errors made in that life (and other lives) of his.

These entries also relate to what I just wrote:

ER writes about a man being muscular and having a gf. ER could have started visiting gyms to get some muscles on his body too if he thought that was the reason why that man had that girl (maybe it wasn't).

Edit: in his 3/4/2011 entry he writes he started going to a gym. So that was a great news.

ER writes how difficult it is to become a rich writer. He was rich in his past life of NW, and he literally didn't need to do anything too difficult to be there since he was a movie start from a very early age. Psychologically, this probably relates to ER wish to become rich very quickly. He was experiencing living and looking at life from a different perspective now, but could not live in the new reality due to low spiritual knowledge and perhaps not having heard or believed about reincarnation and karma. He wrongly thought life was unfair. I bet there were many people who thought how life is unfair, thinking how Natalie Wood (ER in his past life) got to be such a rich and famous actress just like that (well, she obviously could act, of course) while they had to work their whole lives in the offices, stores, factories, etc., and still they could not afford to buy mansions, big yachts, fastest and 'hottest' sport cars, etc.

7/3/2010. ER went to visit his mom and sis in their friend's Malibu house. He says the ocean view is spectacular, but it reminds him of a bitter experience he had in November of 2009. He mentioned having an ominous feeling being there. Later he reveals it was about a guy calling him a loser. When he was dropped of at that Malibu house, he went to the beach looked out to the dark waves and starry sky, and contemplated his places in the world.

28 years ago, in his past life of NW, at night, he drowned in the dark waters of that same ocean at the end of November. NW was afraid of dark water; it was prophesized she'd drown in it.

I'll note that becoming a writer, writing a novel, is another parallel with me since I wanted to do the same thing.

Hiding in a virtual world, as well as quitting that world to improve oneself, is another parallel with me.

1/19/2011. ER writes he tries to be nice but gets no reward for it. Being nice and trying to be nice are a bit different things. That aside, [unconditional] help will be rewarded too, but it may take some time, including many lives.

1/22/2011. Karate class. I attended a karate class once, and wished to continue but Anton didn't. Maybe I didn't wanna go alone there or whatever, and that was it.

The book Secret ER talks about has valid points – you have to be positive about life, but it doesn't take into account karma and reincarnation. Sometimes, no matter how positive and truly good-hearted you are, you won't get a girlfriend because you have to experience loneliness for sleeping around, cheating, etc. in another life - and possibly causing other people being lonely their whole lives too. Of course, once the error has been paid, the person who talks to people of the opposite sex will be able to find a soulmate, and love and sex.

Note: as I'm reading on, some other things mentioned in that book don't make a lot of sense and are simply wrong.

ER about the Law of Attraction: "I will cling to this concept like a drowning man clings to a floating log." Very similar to how he actually died when he was NW.

2/10/2011. ER's friend: "No girl in this whole world will ever want to fuck you unless they are drunk."

Gigi Perreau said Natalie Wood wrote her letters saying: 'I'm going to be a star, but you're not.'

There's a chance the two events could be related. Maybe ER had to hear what his buddy said as punishment for those words he wrote to Gigi in his past life.

2/18/2011. ER stopped using the medications that a doctor prescribed him to treat social anxiety. As NW he took many medications. I find it a sign that he gained a bit of spirituality. You do have to rely on your mind and positivity to deal with psychological issues.

2/21/2011. Eventually having the same or more amount of sex thought did visit me too. Parallels. But I no longer think of it, knowing who I was in my past lives, and knowing why I have to live this life now. It's all good. But it is an interesting topic in terms of how the Universe works; will some souls have more sex than others in the total of their lives? And what benefits those other souls will get for having less sex? Of course, this question can be easily asked about some other activity or state of being that people experience. Generally, most souls should experience all that is normally experienced by normal people.

2/24/2011. ER's dad had connections in the movie industry. ER could write something, a script for a movie maybe, and ask his dad to have someone help improve the story. Perhaps some other screenwriter would also get credited for their help, but ER could become a paid screenwriter if only he'd…

4/13/2011. As NW ER also had issues with the sister.

9/29/2011. ER talks of what he'd do if he was a dictator with absolute power. As NW he wished to stay in the room where Hitler stayed. (#curious)

11/2/2011. He wanted to have wife and children. I don't know how uncommon that is for a guy his age to wish that, but as NW he did have a family and did love children.

11/28/2011. The day – or 1 before – ER died in his past life of NW. It's interesting that in this very entry he writes about going to the Griffith Park Observatory and then being scared of seeing young couples kissing under the stars. As NW he was at that place filming Rebel Without a Cause (her Judy character does make some errors, and it was around that time when he (as NW) called Dennis Hoppen to f together and, most probably, kiss under the stars on Mulholland Drive when she was also f by Nick Ray. And later NW agreed to have an orgy with some actors from that movie. All those errors made in NW's life resulted in her new incarnation of ER being lonely virgin standing in the very place he once stood as a movie star who had sex, love, husband and children, and now he was afraid of mere shadow of young people – “cool kids” – making out under the stars. (#curious) 12/19/2011. ER always loved drinking wine. Same as in his previous life of NW.

1/19/2012. I didn’t want to deviate from reincarnation-only path, but here’s my 2 cents – AGAIN! ER voiced his opinions; granted, those opinions were unfortunately strengthened by his buddies’ opinions. In reality ER should have talked to girls to know exactly what they think (of him and whatever else). He could have driven to a distance public place, approached several girls so as not scare a single one, and honestly told them about his shyness, etc., and asked their opinions on whether they’d date someone like that or not. Maybe they’d give some advice. Had he done so, I think he’d soon realized while it is about appearances with some people (who don’t have a lot of spirituality yet), other people look deeper beyond the façade. And ER lacked there greatly it seems to me, coz while he describes himself as a gentleman, he sure used a lot of curses towards his friends and other people; his final hours obviously had nothing to do with gentlemen either.

As I mentioned elsewhere, a FEMALE on YT commented she found ER kinda cute UNTIL he opened his mouth. His opinions of what females (and people in general) thought of him were wrong.

‘Revenge.’ I read that Clyde Barrow’s goal was to get revenge on the Texas criminal justice system because he was heavily abused in prison. Bonnie (ER in his past life) probably knew it, probably approved and agreed with it since he stayed alongside Clyde till the death parted them (in those lives).

Never forgetting the wrongs. I used to be kinda like that (another similarity between us). It’s one of reasons I didn’t seek gf when I started having sex drive at 13. I had that silly thought that if the experience would be bad, if I rejects or stutter or what, then I’d remember that ‘negative and shameful’ experience in my life till the end. Well, I’ve had some of those experience when I was actively approaching women and I just don’t give a damn now because it’s all about what I make of those experiences and how I choose to think of them. I made some errors, yes, but I tried to learn from them to be a better person. I stayed optimistic, realizing the negativity won’t and can’t do me any good for sure. I had also good moments, but I wish I’d realize sooner that I need to just seek someone to talk instead of asking one female after another if she was single and willing to get acquainted.

ER mentioned he smoke a cigarette once, and a few more times, but then stopped, I guess. Reminded me of his Bonnie Parker words: “Tell them I don't smoke cigars”.

5/20/2012. ER writes girls looked at him in a way he thought meant that he's unworthy to breath the same air as them. I don't know how true that was, but what I can say is his negativity and bitterness was probably visible to those people, which they'd find unusual for such a place as Isla Vista. So again, those looks is something he himself could have caused.

https://www.thesecret.tv/stories/here-are-some-examples-of-the-loa-in-movies-2/

Brainstorm with Natalie Wood & Christopher Walken is listed as a movie showing the Law of Attraction that NW in her future incarnation of ER was too obsessed over. (#reflection)?

8/8/2012. As I noted elsewhere, NW was rich compared to many other people, she became a movie star very fast, and I think psychologically ER 'remembered' that. I suspect it was one of reasons he had that desire to be rich and sought ways to be wealthy in a short amount of time. (#psyche-data)?

It's the same reason he desired sex so wildly and reacted so badly when he wasn't getting any. As NW he had lots and lots of sex with lots of people many of whom were rich or famous.

The main issue here is people in general don't know about reincarnation, about Thiaoouba, about my experiences finding my past lives, etc. If ER knew Thiaoouba was a true book and reincarnation existed, and we had to suffer for our errors, including those made in past lives of course, he'd know his 'revenge' would only make him suffer much more by paying for murdering and crippling people. Knowing what suffering feels, he'd be discouraged from his evil plans; he'd tr to live through with his life without hurting anyone so that his errors are paid and no new errors were made. Then he'd have sex in another life. Right now he might be living another life in a male body, and he maybe unable to get a girlfriend again. He'll have to suffer for killing and hurting people too now. His life shouldn't be something to be envied about. And actually this is the life he should be living at the bottom of the wheel, imho; his ER was at the side of the wheel based on what I know from his writings. It means that materially ER in his new incarnation is doing not too well. There probably won't be BMWs and other expensive gifts from parents in that life of his… and will he even have parents? As NW he played some orphans… and movie reflections are a thing…

12/1/2012. ER writes on this day about his lottery loss. I checked and the lottery probably happened on November 28 of 2012. It's not the first time this date, Nov. 28, comes up.

ER: “I have no talent as a singer or actor or anything like that.”

I haven’t watched a lot of NW movies, but she could act from what I’ve seen. Anyway, when we are born anew, we usually take a different life path than before. We develop new interests, and so on. Perhaps if he tried acting – which by the way could help him become confident and learn to talk to people – he could have gotten somewhere since he was an actress in a previous life.

I tried acting a bit to see if something still remains in me from my Vivien’s life (in terms of acting), and what I can say I enjoyed the process and I actually felt like a totally different person when I called and talked to my mother right after acting out Kyle Reese’s (Michael Biehn; The Terminator) lines in the parking lot scene. I was very confident, calm, focused, had very clear and fluidic speech, and was energetic. I wish to try to play/act other characters and more demanding roles, including the ones I played as VL if I have time, energy and relaxation.

1/20/2013. Now that I know Elliot Rodger was also Charles Greville in his past life, I’d like to make a note of something. Maybe it’s nothing, but as Charles he sent me (Amy Lyon/Hart) to Sir William Hamilton in Naples, Italy ([later] he wanted to find a wealthy wife for himself). All turned out well for me then. Still, fact remains.

ER mentioned his thoughts in a previous entry when he was pondering what life he’d have if he never moved to US and stayed in England. We know what the move to US led to. And now I wonder if his decisions in Charles’ life of his led to that situation when his ER parents had to move to US? It was meant to be, of course, and there are no alternative scenarios.

1/27/2013. ER: “I feel like such a mouse when I see this.” (he writes about seeing young couples everywhere in Isla Vista, the place he himself chose to live in because, according to him, it had so many hot females.) Later on he again compares himself with a mouse.

Today is May 17, 2025. I confirmed via dreams that ER was Charles Greville in his past life. I also saw a mouse coming out of a chicken egg. Looks like the dream was prophetic (and maybe it showed some truths about ER’s next life).

2/7/2013. ER again writes he thinks he was at the bottom of social ladder. Factually, it wasn’t so. He was in the middle (side of the wheel). He just didn’t see because he blinded himself with all that negativity and obsessions. But his next life he might be living right now

(May 17, 2025) should be at the very bottom of the wheel (and of that social ladder he wrote about).

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=oXltT-UkWp4
https://www.docdroid.net/ckku/im-tired-of-seeing-losers-with-hot-chicks-bodybuildingcom-forums-pdf

Don't know if ER will write about this in his diary, so I'll say this: shortly before he realized reincarnation is real but it was too late, he asked on bodybuilding forum about a white blonde girl with a man who had dark skin. Maybe he had a 'simple' car too. ER KNEW (if he opened his eyes) then that it was NOT about looks, wealth, etc. He had a chance to realize he was terribly wrong all this time, he could have chosen to not go through with his evil plan… Life was giving him choices and chances to live and let live… life was giving him lessons he ignored…

4/28/2013. Absolutely wrong when talking about women in general – reincarnation is one of the proofs. ER himself was females in his 2 most recent past lives… it is of interest to note he was definitely flawed in his Bonnie's life to join the gang and then stay to die in it. As NW he made some sex-related errors. Don't get me started writing about his ER issues… He kinda judges people (women in this case) by himself. I see here an instance of looking at life from another perspective in order to learn more and gain some spiritual knowledge.

In his past life of NW ER himself used to wear "skimpy, revealing clothing". I don't suppose there's something wrong with that. It's males' job not to look at women like sex objects, droolingly checking out their shapes and sizes, possibly imagining them naked and what not, to then complain that women somehow make them become erect in public, etc. You reap what you sow.

6/3/2013. I'll note NW had a circle of close friends. I don't suppose there's anything wrong with that; I don't know if some people were actually excluded from it though.

6/8/2013. Yet another reference to Hitler. Concentration camp…

8/5/2013. Deviating from reincarnation research again… ER went to someone else's house and party and started acting "cocky and arrogant to" people there, and after they drove him out of the house – dropping him off the 10-foot ledge was a mistake for those people, of course; as was beating him up; leading/carrying him out of the house would have been enough – and at the end of his entry he writes that He Was Treated with Hostility! What goes around comes around.

12/27/2013 entry again proved my aforementioned point that it's not about looks and wealth, and life/world/universe did show that to ER! Nothing was hidden from him!

Bonnie Elizabeth Parker

I've noticed a long time ago that ER's death date matches that of:
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bonnie_and_Clyde Bonnie Elizabeth Parker (October 1, 1910 – May 23, 1934)
She was born on the day I died as Missy.
She died on the day Elliot Rodger did. And it's of additional interest that ER had changed the date for his day of great stupidity several times – and so we have this date.
Her height was 4 feet 11 inches – same as mine in my Missy's life.
Bonnie and Clyde were killed near their hideout at Black Lake, Louisiana. Natalie Wood was afraid of dark water.
Bonnie Parker used 'Santa Claus' in her poem. Connects to both NW and ER.
Bonnie wrote a poem 'Suicide Sal'. Sal Mineo was one of the 3 main actors in Rebel without a Cause.
Bonnie had artistic inclinations, and she wrote poetry. So could match both NW and ER.
Bonnie was 23; ER had a real bad time being 22 (soon to be 23) and a 'kiss-less virgin'.
Blanche Barrow was the wife of Clyde's brother 'Buck'. NW liked me very much playing Blanche DuBois; that role and movie (Streetcar) had a big impact on her.

Bonnie Parker was a good student who enjoyed singing, dancing and writing poetry. As NW she'd continue to enjoy singing, and she had a diary in which she had written some beautiful things actually. ER also wrote a lot and if we remove all the negativity and evil, some good ideas can be found in his writings (as I mentioned before). It's a match.

She enjoyed performing on stage and dreamt of becoming an actress. The dream came true in her future life of NW.

Bonnie had a diary. She loved photography. NW and ER used to record videos.

Barrow dropped by the girl's house while Parker was in the kitchen making hot chocolate.
If the story is correct – NW's character in Carol, & [etc.] movie said chocolate to Maria, and later added vanilla (a link to ER).

Jones observed: "She'd been burned so bad none of us thought she was gonna live. The hide on her right leg was gone, from her hip down to her ankle. I could see the bone at places."

Parker could hardly walk; she either hopped on her good leg or was carried by Barrow. They got help from a nearby farm family, then kidnapped Collinsworth County Sheriff George Corry and City Marshal Paul Hardy, leaving the two of them handcuffed and barbed-wired to a tree outside Erick, Oklahoma.

This (#error) could relate to ER having to suffer being severely bullied by seniors at Crespi, which included having his head taped to his desk when he fell asleep.

They stole .30 caliber BAR on July 7. (my VL death date).

The Barrow Gang camped at Dexfield Park, an abandoned amusement park near Dexter, Iowa, on July 24, 1933.

ER was born exactly 58 years later on July 24, 1991.

On November 28, a Dallas grand jury delivered a murder indictment against Parker and Barrow for the killing – in January of that year, nearly ten months earlier – of Tarrant County Deputy Malcolm Davis; it was Parker's first warrant for murder.

Officially, November 29 (not 28), 1981 would become the day when Bonnie would die in her future life of NW. It needs to be said her body was found at 8 am on that date. Wood was noticed to be missing at 11:05 pm of November 28, and it's possible she was dead on that date (28), not on 29.

It's of interest that my VL death is reported to be on 7 or 8 of July by various sources. It's because I died after 11 pm, and that created confusion. Could be yet another parallel between our souls…

Sidenote: Frank Hamer was officially credited with 53 kills, and suffered 17 wounds. The ages I died in my past lives of VL and Missy respectably.

"bounced like a rubber ball". (some say the story was discredited and BP did not kill those people.)

Could be nothing, but ER wrote he didn't like football game, and never understood it.

In his 6 Years Old section ER talks how he liked going to the park. Specifically, Serrania Park. Since I noted Wood in reference to ER liking going to woods (Age 0-5 section), I have to note Parker now. It is interesting how in 2 close lives this soul had last names related to woods, forests, parks.

B&C had survived several bullet wounds over the years in their confrontations with the law. On this day (23.05.1934), any of Bonnie Parker's and Clyde Barrow's wounds would have proven to be fatal.

The official report by parish coroner J. L. Wade listed 17 entrance wounds on Barrow's body and 26 on that of Parker.

one woman cut off bloody locks of Parker's hair and pieces from her dress, which were subsequently sold as souvenirs.

Parker was buried in the Fishtrap Cemetery, although her body was moved in 1945 to the new Crown Hill Cemetery in Dallas.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Blanche_Barrow

Blanche Barrow was born Bennie Iva Caldwell on January 1, 1911 in Garvin, Oklahoma, United States. Iva is the name of the girl who came forward about my Missy's death, leading to Karen and Laura, the two people who killed me, being put into jail (another connection to me in my Missy's life). Gavin (not Garvin) is the name of the author whose book I'm reading about Bonnie's future life of Natalie Wood.

There are other things I noticed in her bio, but I won't list them.

What I'll say it's possible NW, and/or people who were close to her in her Bonnie's life, could have known me in other past lives. I can't help but notice some parallels with my past life of Evdokia Andreevna Dioper and the situation with Abram Petrovich Gannibal. At the age of 17 Blanche was almost forced into unwanted marriage [to a much older man] too.

Bonnie was visibly drunk. Many people drink, of course, and so was NW and ER.

Clyde's 17-year-old sidekick William Daniel "W.D." Jones. 17.

Blanche and Buck spent three weeks in the two garage apartments with Bonnie and Clyde, and William Daniel "W.D." Jones. The apartment building exists at 3347+1⁄2 Oak Ridge Drive in Joplin, Newton County, Missouri, though it actually fronts on 34th Street.

Natalie Wood played Susan Walker in Miracle on 34th Street movie. It's the movie with Santa Clause – another connection between this soul's NW and ER lives.

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0039628/?ref_=nm_flmg_job_1_cdt_t_70

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Bonnie_%26_Clyde_Garage_Apartment

Blanche and Bonnie would go to the movies or shop for knick-knacks at Kress' store. As NW Bonnie became an actress herself, and looked at life from a different perspective.

I think that I may see certain resemblances in ER and this Blanche whom he used to know in his past life of BP.

At 1:00 am on July 20, 1933 Sheriff Coffey and his posse found the gang which was able to escape. It's and important day for Bonnie, and it would become her important date in her future life of Natalie Wood who'd be born exactly 5 years later on July 20, 1938.

Blanche was blinded in her left eye, with her right being damaged. I noted many times the issues surrounding me left eye in my various lives. Maybe it's another connection to me, and if so, I don't yet know why it exists; other than having speculations I might have known some of those people in my other past life/lives (e.g. Evdokia's).

In prison Blanche quickly befriended other inmates, including Irene McCann and Edna Murray, the "kissing bandit." Maybe nothing, but my Missy's mother name was Irene.

Blanche's husband died of cancer on November 5, 1969. As VL I was born on November 5.

Bonnie's age at death (23) plus the year she died (1934) gives 1957, the year when NW married. I case of my lives doing so also gives the year in which something important happened in my life.

Bridge collapse in NW life. Wrist bone issue. Bridge collapsing in Bonnie's life, and battery acid burnt her leg to the bone. Permanent lifelong damage in both lives. ER had his leg broken (so bone-related again).

Suicide Sal. NW s attempt.

Abducted people. Released the. NW The Searchers

Clyde was born in the town of Telico in Ellis County, Texas. ER's friend was James Ellis.

Now that I know who I was in many of my past lives, I noticed parallels with me in my Michele's life – something that I saw happen with ER/NW's soul too.

Could be NW/ER was Bonnie in the past life… it'd be even darker situation than it is now, but it'd actually make sense for we'd know why ER (and NW) was so calm about murdering people (expect for his dad).

Could be a soul with whom ER shares his Higher Self with.

Could be that one of ER's victims was Bonnie Parker in the past life.

Could be something else.

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0051430/

Dorothy Provine played Bonnie in 1958 movie, and Dorothy Faye Dunaway played her in 1967 film.

Faye may refer to Faith. It's a name which came up when I asked what I was called in my past life of which there's info to be found online.

Charles Francis Greville

His father: Francis Greville, 1st Earl of Warwick.

His mother: Elizabeth Hamilton, daughter of Lord Archibald Hamilton.

Charles Francis Greville

12 May 1749 – 23 April 1809

23 of May if the date BP and her future incarnation ER died at.

He was British antiquarian, collector and politician who sat in the House of Commons from 1774 to 1790.

NW collected antiques.

As far as aristocracy is concerned…

https://www.rmg.co.uk/collections/objects/rmgc-object-1099714

“was a key figure in cultural and aristocratic circles in London at the end of the eighteenth century.”

ER, page 84: “I am descended from British aristocracy.” Talking about his physical body’s heritage here, but his soul used to live a life of aristocracy also. Psychologically he must have felt that.

‘Circles’ may also play a role since NW had one, and ER was excluded.

“Greville first met Lyon – a famously sensual beauty…”. That was me – Amy Lyon – in my past life. I saw what my young body looked like in that life in a lucid dream recently. I was beautiful. Psychologically, there could be some links here too why ER wished to have pretty and beautiful women only – and, obviously, him being beautiful Natalie Wood in his past life must have made even more impact on that desire.

I actually also wanted to have model-like girls when I was in school and hit puberty at 13. It was one of reasons instead of searching for a girlfriend who’d accept me the way I was then, I turned to masturbation and then imagination since I realized no ‘pretty’ girl would want to date a stammering man like I was then. Now I know how wrong I was. It could be a long story, and the point here is from what I read and know I had pretty and beautiful bodies in many of my lives, and I think that was one of the reasons I thought about looks when I had to think about what’s behind the appearances – the soul, spirituality, knowledge, wisdom (granted, in school I did like older girls because I thought them to be smarter and wiser than the girls my age). Maybe it’s roughly the same story with ER who was pretty in his past lives of Bonnie and Natalie.

He wanted to find a rich, wealthy wife to marry. (Emma, Lady Hamilton. Page 20). Peculiarities followed. He got rid of me (Amy), perhaps to have space and pursue that idea which never materialized.

Clear connection to ER who got obsessed about getting rich and wealthy. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) in regards to money, and maybe (#psyche-data).

He acquired antiquities from Gavin Hamilton in Rome.

Gavin Lambert is the author of Natalie Wood’s biography I read.

At a site on high ground in nearby Hakin, Greville planned to build the College of King George the Third to allow the study of mathematics and navigation, whose centerpiece would be an observatory.

Griffith observatory played its role in both NW and ER lives.

Greville took me (Amy Lyon) in on condition that the child, Emma Carew, was fostered out...

Edgware Row, Paddington Green, London
NW played in several movies with green word in the title.

His mom was Hamilton. That name appears several times in NW's biography.

Income of £500 a year. ER often wrote that number – 500. Maybe it's nothing, but could also be smth.

An important patron of science and the arts. Could be one of the reasons ER called himself supreme gentlemen and thought he had superior intelligence. If so, I think it relates to psychology.

I read long time ago our lives are intricately interconnected (Ancient Egypt texts which turned out to be true), and now I see that in my own life.

As Amy Lyon I was close to Charles (BP, NW, ER).

Perhaps I read about Bonnie in the news when I was Vivien, but that was probably it.

Natalie Wood loved me in Streetcar and I (VL) became a role model for her. And we me at least once (there's a photo of us together). Of course, none of us knew then we used to be lovers in our past lives when we lived in the 1700s AD.

I had to read ER's book in order to learn from his mistakes, and also see if I could see his errors – I did and wrote many comments which I might attach to this document when I'll share my findings with people. Now I found some of his past lives, and I found many parallels between us. There's a lot of difference also.

Based on several dreams I had, as well as on my understandings of what's logical to expect ER's next life should be, he, in his next incarnation, may find Thiaoouba, my writings, and his own past lives. This will be time to learn as much as possible both materially and spiritually so that he won't repeat the same errors again (in his current life and next).

Maybe I should write briefly that I knew and understood long time ago we play different roles in our different lives. E.g. a parent could have been our lover in a past life, a friend could have been a sister, a lover could have been our enemy, etc.

Kowing that in my past life of Amy I had sex and love with Charles who'd become Elliot Rodger (who cold-bloodedly murdered people; not the ER with shyness and psychological issues which I had also) impacts me not. This knowledge did change my worldview a little again, confirming what I understood, but emotionally and psychologically I'm alright. And why shouldn't I be? That man Charles I knew when I was Amy was not Elliot Rodger the killer.

I recently watched Stanley Kubrick's Barry Lyndon. Bary married a rich wife to get wealthy in the movie. I wonder if there are parallels to Charles and his other lives in that movie. Similarly how I found I had synchronicities with several movies.

Flora Fraser's book Emma, Lady Hamilton: (I was quickly searching for Greville's name in the book I read long time ago, and may have missed something.)

Page 18 says Greville had a penchant for "girls of the town", which was a striking note in his otherwise fastidious personality. Matches him is his life of ER.

Page 20 makes a note of Greville's peculiar logic when his first step in finding himself a rich wife was to spend a lot of money on building a mansion in Portman Square as a form of double speculation. It meant to create the impression on his bride's family that he was a man of substance. Once married to a heiress whose wealth was made his, he could sell the house at a profit (the house was built in a newly fashionable part of London) and pay back the huge amount of money he had borrowed to finance it the venture.

Flora finishes her narrative by writing that "A more hare-brained scheme has rarely been conceived."

This totally matches Greville in his future life of Elliot Rodger. Unfortunately, as ER he conceived more such 'hare-brained' schemes to try making himself wealthy and have sex... Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) and I think there are (#psyche-data) connections too.

Greville: "I shall be a Fabius, slow and sure."

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Fabius

In Roman mythology, Fabius was the son of Hercules and an unnamed mother. I had certain synchronicities with https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Heracles.

Page 21. Greville spoke of me (Emma) as "a modern piece of virtu." Flora writes this suggests he saw his protection of me as an investment.

In a way, he treated me as an object.

ER spoke very badly of women. He didn't take them for humans at the end of his life, calling them "vile, barbaric animals." So it's another match. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge).

Page 22 has an interesting story which I think also matches ER's ideas and expectations he had from women.

Charles took me (Emma) to Ranelagh to give amusement, and "…to dazzle beholders by her beauty," not to "please fools" with my Amy Lyon's beauty for their casual admiration.

ER wrote the word 'admire' a lot, both in reference to how he liked his looks (once he bought expensive cloths), and in what he felt towards some girls and hoped some would admire him too. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge).

Page 23. In Emma's life I tried to win Charles' approval. (Again, we had different material knowledge then and acted according to our life's situations.) This explains more why there are so many parallels between me and Charles' future lives. He played a short, but important role in my past life of Emma.

Page 26. Charles considered himself "over-match" for me (Amy Lyon). (Just writing facts as they are here) As noted before, I was beautiful in that life, perhaps not at the peak when he spoke those words to his uncle. I can see parallels to his future incarnation of ER here. (#psyche-data)?

Page 28. Greville liked other man vainly to admire me (Emma). With pride he told his uncle of marriage proposals from other men (which were refused, of course). (#error) for which he must have paid in his ER life by having to experience what those 'other men' experienced: e.g. vainly watching and admiring the pretty, beautiful girls who were someone else's girlfriends.

Page 30. My Emma's words: "manege myself and try to be like Greville." I'll note here that the tables have turned in Greville's future life of Natalie Wood who, in a way, tried to be like me (Vivien Leigh). (#curious)

Flora writes that there was a good deal of sadism in Greville's "good nature." Reminded me of ER's treatment of his dogs in one of the videos he recorded. And he expressed many sadistic ideas in regards to women and males in his writings. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge).

Page 34. Greville had a popular brother.

Page 52. Greville's 2 antic statues and a cellar of wine. Could be connections to NW and ER.

Page 55: "'If I could go on, I would never make this arrangement"—Greville then brings a species of moral blackmail to his other arguments. "To be reduced to a stand- still … & then to be unable to provide for her at all … would make me mis- erable. …". He completes his letter with elegance. "Judge then, as you know my satisfaction on looking at a modern piece of virtu if I do not think you a second self, in thinking that by placing her within your reach I render a necessity, which would otherwise be heartbreaking, tolerable, & even comforting."'

Page 56. Greville: "she goes on so well, & is much more considerate & aimiable than she was when you saw her, & also improv'd in looks, that I own it is less agreeable to part; yet I have no other alternative but to marry or remain a pauper; I shall persist. …"

I think I made a point – it was at least a brief thought I had – that it started to seem to me ER wanted more to be rich and wealthy than to find a girlfriend… He sure made a lot of efforts to get those lottery tickets instead of spending all that time socializing (in a normal decent way without being 'cocky and arrogant'). His past life's words show my thoughts might be correct.

Page 57. Greville: "It is madness to be a slave to pleasure…"

It should be said he had sex with many women, as was shown before. Sadly, in his ER life he became a mad slave to pleasure he thought he could never get…

Flora writes Charles urges my (Emma) confinement. This could relate to his ER's wild ideas to make slaves of women, put them in a concentration camp, and keep just a few for reproduction and sex……

Following pages mention again his wish to not give me much freedom.

Richard III of England

Born 2 October 1452
Died 22 August 1485

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Charles_Francis_Greville

There are again parallels to be found with my own past lives.

2 October was at first the wrong date written on the tombstone of my Missy's grave. Later they changed the stone with the correct date of 01.10.

His height was below 5 feet. So it could be close to his height in Bonnie's life (and in my past life of Michele Avila).

In 1472, Richard married Anne Neville, daughter of Richard Neville, 16th Earl of Warwick…

Greville was the second son of Francis Greville, 1st Earl of Warwick…

Natalie Wood stayed at the Warwick Hatel when she learned of James Dean's death.

Richard developed scoliosis, a sideways curvature of the spine.

I have scoliosis, a slight but noticeable sideways curvature of my spine. It's another parallel with me. Don't know why there's so many of them…

The movie I watched (1955 by Laurence Olivier) was based on Shakespeare who clearly portrayed Richard as a cold-blooded killer. History doesn't know for sure if he was responsible for all the murders of people who disappeared. But it's probable he had smth to do with that.

This certainly matches him in his next lives of Bonnie and Elliot who made a choice to be on the 'dark side'.

Note: in the dream I has on May 22, 2025 (when I saw Elliot Rodger in his other life), I saw disappearing bodies. It's what I wrote in my dream and then remembered it when I woke up. I think there's a connection.

Richard reigned for two years and two months.

Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow committed a series of criminal acts such as bank robberies, kidnappings, and murders between 1932 and 1934. Clyde was released from jail in February, and Bonnie was imprisoned in April. It's a bit more than 2 years too that they were committing crime together.

It's a life which is at the top. Aristocracy theme.

Richard married Anne Neville on 12 July 1472.

ER was waiting for the release of the 5-th book of Game of Thrones on July 12. It was important for him.

Note: In my nails dream about ER's past life – when I had my Missy body and was in school – I saw a girl spreading her arms like a dragon. I saw a connection to this book then.

He had been Warden of the West March on the Scottish border since 10 September 1470, and again from May 1471.

It's probable ER thought ideas in the book which resonated with his past lives. It's something that happened to me with Thiaoouba Prophecy and Gone with the Wind books.

Michael Hicks, and English historian. Hicks last name has a connection to me in my past life of William Armine.

Richard was named High Sheriff of Cumberland for life. High Sheriff relates to my William's life also.

Lieutenant of the North has some Game of Thrones vibes imo.

https://www.discoverbritain.com/history/icons/10-facts-about-richard-iii/

In 2012 the remains of Richard III were discovered.

In May 2014 the High Court ruled that Richard III's body should be reinterred in Leicester.

May of 2014 is the time ER carried out his evil plan. 2012 was also an important year for him.

I've read very little about Richard III. I'd assume that his biographies may contain more information which may lead to spotting even more connections to his other lives.

Movie Parallels

Love with proper strangers

Rocky is the guy who got nw Italian character pregnant. ER was near Silvester Stallone who played Italian Rocky.

$400 is needed +$50 for the doctor to get abortion.
P.104. er writes he spent $400 on lottery tickets
Then he spent $300 more if I understood him right

24:15 now mom in film says her worries if some lunatic on the street may kill her I guess.

Russian had sex dormitory. His name?

Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice

10:30 black haired Rodger says don't know why never was able to do anything for himself. NW thinks reason he feels helpless is coz he enjoys it. He's the first she talks to of strangers.

12:16 Ted asks what do you feel about me, but I heard Bonnie at first. Similar thing happened in Proper 18:-- restaurant scene. NW husband says cloths are most important thing in the world. You don't care if the dress, you're on your way to not caring about humanity. Then asks his friend what he feels of his hair.

24:-- eye of the tiger in my eye. Reminds of Rocky, and ER was near Sylvester S. NW husband makes movies; documentaries - as ER' dad.

27:40 NW husband cheated on her with a blonde assistant.

29:20 NW feels no jealousy about him only physically f-ing "some dumb blonde". Char says it's ok.

39:-- kissing in front of other couple.

40:30 tells friend couple about her h cheating. He shared it with her. Says it's so beautiful 55:00 chocolate et vanilla. Er, after killing 3 men, went to Starbucks to get triple vanilla latte.

Someone jokes Bob thinks he's shooting GWtW.

1:17:-- NW cheats

1:24:-- playing at casino and winning. ER lottery, losing.

1:25:-- I'll note NWs look to the right. Just reminds me of ER looking to the right.

1:33:-- NW begs her friends husband to join orgy. Says it's physical fun, its just sex.

1:35:-- NW is show covering two people with a blanket. ER covered two dead bodies of people he had murdered with blankets?

1:38:30+ again, noting the look which could have been amplified in her ER life due to all the psychological issues.

Movie' message, conveyed via NW and her husband, says cheating is ok if it's just physical - that's an error.

It promotes open relationships - error - ER was enraged seeing a man with two girls.

I'm afraid the lead actors, and many other who were involved in the creation of this movie, will have to experience a life of incels. Hopefully the knowledge of Thiaoouba and my ideas will reach them and they won't do hard to others.

The final scene gives no direct spoken message. If it implies that the 4 characters realized swinging is bad and wrong, then the movie leaves that to the viewer's assumption, and in this case one has to have a good idea why it's wrong to come to that conclusion in the fist place; meaning some people who watched the film were taught by it the wrong message that swinging, cheating, is ok as long as it's just the physical thing.

The characters of Carol (NW), Bob, and Ted, don't suffer for their cheating, which again conveys the wrong message that what they did was ok.

Not stating the message clearly. Silent hint. ER did not see obvious truths.

Richard III (1955)

At first, I watched the movie at ease – supposing I won't see anything of connection to me or anyone since it's a historic movie (Shakespearian) -, but later, when I realized Elliot Rodger could have been Richard III, my mind got busy with thoughts. I became tense and could barely relax. I started to see parallels with Elliot and his past selves.

I could barely pay attention to the movie because of all that and because of me having had to explain simple truths to people who commented on my findings about Elliot's past lives. I probably missed a lot of synchronicities, but I also spotted some.

This movie proved to be yet another film I watched a premier of in my past life of Vivien Leigh, and now that I was watching it in my current life of Evgeny I find connections to past lives of me and other people (Elliot).

Saw some familiar words and numbers. Richard looks like a cold-blooded killer in the film. Had dream about Elliot Rodger Today (May 22, 2025), and we were in vaulted rooms at first… sword fight… Richard's looks are of interest too here…

Movie has mentions of dreams and prophecies.

54:38 supreme king of kings.

1:03:50 Richard says "my other self" to his cousin. He says "royal self" to a boy later in the movie.

1:14:50 the boy asks if Julious Caesar built that place.

In the end he gets stabbed by multiple people. Given what ER did I wouldn't be surprised if it's a reflection of what he'll have to experience in one of his lives as punishment for his errors.

The following day I got the answer from my Higher Self in a dream that

Recently I got the answers from my Higher Self that Elliot Rodger was the actress Natalie Wood in his past life. It was a complete surprise to me, but then I know Natalie made a serious sex related error in her past life for which she was brutally rd by Kirk Douglas (I believe the story). It's logical to assume many other sex related errors were also done in her past life or lives, and now it became clear in Elliot's life her soul had to suffer for it by being a lonely person who was also heavily bullied and rejected.

Elliot was close to movie business, having a father who is a director. You can see photos of E.R. near Silvester Stallone at a movie premier. Based on my own incarnations, I knew that there's a big chance he used to be involved in movie business in his past life. What I did not expect is that the sex errors were made in a life he lived some time prior to his recent past life lived in the 20-th century. I thought maybe he was one of Scotty Bowers' patrons, but no.

His soul had to be reimplanted into a new embryo in 49 days since he committed suicide. Possibly had a serious life event happen in 2024, provided he lived then. In 2036 another such event could occur in this soul's life. (you find the date by adding the year of death with the age you had in that life. I discovered in my soul's case doing this points to the year in which a serious, possibly life-changing, event occurred. Often it relates to suffering.)

My attitude towards Natalie is the same, of course. It was a new life and she had to suffer in it, and she was a decent person, I'm sure. I actually sympathized with E.R. too, having understanding how tough his situation was, being in a similar one myself at one point in my life - why I had to read his so called 'Manifesto' to learn from his mistakes and not repeat them should the pressure that was then building up in me get out of control. Well, reading his book actually helped - as I expected it would. Goes without saying that he did a heinous crime at the end of his life and he will have to suffer greatly for all those murders and for all the people who sustained damage - both physical and psychological. But then all of us here should know those victims and the people close to them also made errors for which they had to pay the penalty. That's how Universal Law works.

He actually wrote he was sick from the thought of what he planned to do - it's a sign of having some spirituality, but unfortunately the emotions and pain overshadowed his common sense.

There's also a photo of Natalie with me in Vivien's life. Our lives are interconnected - not a surprise too coz I knew about it from ancient Egyptian knowledge (possibly brought by Toth from Atlantis). I always felt (and will feel) warm feelings towards her. Her tragic life being possibly a small reason for it, but I guess there could be something else.

Anyway, there's some info about E.R., there's a lot of info about Natalie Wood on the internet and in books. I think that many parallels between the soul's 2 lives can be found. Some reflections in Natalie's movies should be present in E.R.' life as well I think, based on my experience. I personally have other things to do atm; maybe later if I have time I'll read more about Natalie to learn more about reincarnation.

I wish i had good news, but it's life. And unfortunately this is one way to learn about reincarnation and the fact that Universal Law is indeed 'inexorable' as Thao said. It's best not to commit any serious errors.

The Method I Use to Find Past Lives

I, Evgeny Meshkov, ask my Higher Self questions I want to know the answers to. The messages come in dreams; and there were rare moments I asked my Higher Self to produce a knock around me – in real life – if something was true, and that also worked and gave me the answer which I later confirmed to be true.

You should read the free e-book Thiaoouba Prophecy to know a lot more details about Higher Selves. I'll briefly say that when people who had near death experience say they saw the light at end of the tunnel, they actually saw their Higher Self. Higher Selves know what we think because they monitor our activity. The Higher Self is sending us in our soul (Astral body) into a new physical body if we agree to be reincarnated in that body after previewing our possible new life.

Next, I will copy my diary entries which relate to Elliot Rodger and his incarnations. I will not be translating my questions in Russian. You can do so yourself if you want to – it's easy to do with modern tools.

For more examples of the questions I ask my Higher Self you can visit my YouTube channel I linked right at the beginning of this document.

31.05.2024. Yesterday asked my HS: if my father lived when I lived my life of Emma Hamilton, and if our lives interconnected then, what was his name. Yellow was to be the indicator.

I'm not sure if I got an answer. I did see a dream in which maybe the yellow was lighting up the room (but it's very, very questionable if yellow was the color). It was about someone being the same person – same identity. I may have heard the name 'Elliot' (reference to Rodger), and there was something about murders. But I don't remember if the same person was the criminal, or the victim (maybe there was something about a family).

I also remember looking at something on my computer screen. Then I was in the airduct above. This is how I got to another apartment and had that narration about the same person. Then the people who made me go into the ducts returned and I realized I can't just walk out in front of them, and so I tried to go back into the air shaft on the ceiling. It was weird and I think I thought it impossible to get into that tiny space (even though I did come out of it – it is a dream with flexible ever-changing environment)

In the book about EH – by Flora Fraser – the name 'Elliot' appears 33 times. As I read on, I'll have to pay attention to that name.

Overall, I don't know if it was the answer. The name is blurry in my mind.

April 19, 2025. Wrote, but did not 'officially' asked this Q:

"Моё Высшее Я, во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 20 часов, я хочу услышать и/или увидеть несколько раз имя, которое имел человек по имени Эллиот Роджер в его прошлой жизни, в которой он сделал ошибки за которые ему пришлось расплачиваться страданиями в его жизни Эллиота Роджера. Вот я показываю статью на Википедии об этом Эллиоте Роджере для лучшей идентификации того, о ком я спрашиваю.

Под ошибками и страданиями я имею ввиду его ситуацию с отсутствием секса в его жизни. Я полагаю, что по крайней мере в одной из его прошлых жизней он мог иметь беспорядочные сексуальные связи со многими людьми.

I saw a soul of someone whose name I don't recall. Maybe I browsed and saw many souls. It was like I'm viewing a merchant shop in a Dark Souls videogame.

I heard something about "Homeric characters". And later I think I got the idea/hint I should change the Q and ask if he lived when I lived my Vivien's life what his name was in that life. I'll try that.

The thing is, it's possible he had to suffer for many errors done in his several lives. Maybe several souls were the representations of that. My idea was maybe he did a lot of s related errors in a single life.

In another dream, later one, I was near Vika, going somewhere. Then I was in school and put many gloves inside of a bag which I gave to a wardrobe attendant. Maybe some of my peers from my school class were nearby too. I then was walking among people in what seemed like a school of some kind.

April 20, 2025. Changed my Q a bit to this (still didn't officially ask the Q):

"Моё Высшее Я, вот я показываю статью на Википедии о человеке по имени Эллиот Роджер. Если этот Эллиот Роджер жил в его прошлой жизни тогда когда я жил свою прошлую жизнь Вивьен Ли, то тогда во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов, я хочу услышать и/или увидеть несколько раз полное имя, которое Эллиот имел в той его прошлой жизни.

Если же Эллиот Роджер не жил ни в одной из его прошлых жизней тогда когда я жил свою прошлую жизнь Вивьен Ли, тогда я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов."

I added 'full' later to make it 'full name' instead of 'name',

. (again, it's not 'official' Q - maybe I had the preliminary answers tonight; maybe)

I saw a dark red fabric but I don't know if it was a dream or if I daydreamed of it half-asleep. I know for a fact I saw my purple bedclothes in a dream coz atm I have dark violet bedclothes.

I heard the name Natalie in a dream; and then saw the name 'Natalie' in a different dream. I saw it as a website name, containing something else at the end (last name?). Fishing was mentioned also, and I thought it referred to the online scammers. The name was written in English.

I think in the first dream I also saw Natasha from village (деревня) whose last name relate to barrels which used, and still can be, made of wood.

. (Then I had a very important dream for me)

Очень долгая сцена, где я ищу в актовом зале моей 376 школы гвоздь, с которого слетела шляпка. Шляпку я забрал.

Не могу найти. Включаю телефон с фонариком. Ничего. Почти уходу, говорю учителю о гвозде чтобы люди были осторожны. Показываю участок, где он может быть - правая часть пола зала с деревянной сценой посреди этого участка. Возвращаюсь попробовать найти гвоздь ещё раз. В итоге нахожу его. И до этого видно нашел другой гвоздь со шляпкой.

Показываю гвоздь без шляпки преподавателю и кладу в левый карман. Есть какая-то мысль про привидения - что их там нет - исходящий из того, что он говорил ранее.

Спускаюсь с лестницы и иду в сторону выхода.

Со мной идут 2(?) девушки и говорят что-то. Прохожу мимо раздевалки и частично обращаю внимание на лавочки… вижу ли я своих одноклассников на них…? Одна девушка у класса истории рычит как дракон. Не уверен если видел красный. Она раздвигает ее руки в разные стороны. Рубашка в черно белый квадратик. Моя спутница говорит что-то вроде - О нет, дракон! - и не хочет идти туда в класс, хочет остановить меня.

Либо ставит руку передо мной у двери, либо останавливает и говорит - Мисси. Тут я осознаю, что я в своем прошлом теле.

Мы входим в кабинет истории на боку. 1 этаж (ближняя к пруду сторона). 3 парня, и возможно с темной кожей (? Афроамериканцы) сидят за разными партами.

Вытаскиваю из кармана кучу гвоздей и кладу на тетрадь парню, сидящему за дальней партой у окна. Потом достаю остатки. Я смотрю вниз на себя и не вижу очертания грудей за одеждой. Иду немного правее и нахожусь в боковом ряду у окон. Потом иду к окну у доски.

Открываю окно и смотрю на дома. Вижу три башни у школы передо мною. Вижу дом творчества и пристройку далеко слева. Зелёная трава. Но до этого я видел немного снега на земле. Это точно Москва и моя школа. Но кабинет уже в другом месте… На 3 этаже - по соседству с географией, возможно? (т.е. уже один из дальних от пруда кабинетов). Там тоже были уроки истории, если правильно помню… Как я смотрю по сторонам из окна я замечаю мой рост явно мал и мне приходится вставать на пальцы ног и вытягиваться из окна чтобы вытащить голову из окна и осмотреться вокруг. Имел мысль как бы не выпасть… из окна. Возможно, я думал ещё о том, как бы никто не «помог» мне в этом.

Кто-то говорит про зеркало. Я? Иду искать зеркало чтобы наконец посмотреть на свое бывшее тело во сне. Прохожу вдоль стены мимо доски, но там стекло. Лёгкие отражения в стекле. Замечаю, как мое тело в отражении как будто рывком резко меняется. Может быть рост был изменён из того что я мог видеть?

«Только я могу видеть себя таким.» - произношу я зачем-то.

Вижу в маленькое овальное (либо круглое) зеркало себя…? Странное немного лицо. Нос… Бугорки в середине по бокам. Волосы немного длинные и свисают в разные стороны по бокам. Возможно, это был микс из моего тела Мисси и моего нынешнего?

У меня не было полной осознанности, но я имел идею в голове что я во сне. Смотря из окна боялся, что могу проснуться т.к. места уж очень знакомы мне.

Unedited Google Translation of my dream:

A very long scene where I'm looking for a nail in the acting hall of my school 376, whose head has fallen off. I took the head.

I can't find it. I turn on my phone with a flashlight. Nothing. Almost leaving, I tell the teacher about the nail so that people should be careful. I show the area where it might be - the right side of the hall floor with the wooden stage in the middle of this area. I go back to try to find the nail again. In the end, I find it. And before that, apparently, I found another nail with a head.

I show the nail without a head to the teacher and put it in my left pocket. There is some idea about ghosts - that they are not there - coming from what he said earlier.

I go down the stairs and walk towards the exit.

2 (?) girls are walking with me and saying something. I pass by the locker room and partially pay attention to the benches ... do I see my classmates on them ...? One girl near the history class roars like a dragon. Not sure if I saw red. She spreads her arms apart. Shirt in black and white squares. My companion says something like - Oh no, a dragon! - and does not want to go there to class, wants to stop me.

Either puts her hand in front of me at the door, or stops me and says - Missy. Then I realize that I am in my past body.

We enter the history classroom on our sides. 1st floor (side closest to the pond). 3 guys, and possibly with dark skin (? African Americans) are sitting at different desks.

I pull a bunch of nails out of my pocket and put them on the notebook of the guy sitting at the far desk by the window. Then I take out the rest. I look down at myself and do not see the outline of breasts behind my clothes. I go a little to the right and find myself in the side row by the windows. Then I go to the window by the board.

I open the window and look at the houses. I see three towers at the school in front of me. I see a creative house and an extension far to the left. Green grass. But before that I saw a little snow on the ground. This is definitely Moscow and my school. But the classroom is already in a different place... On the 3rd floor - next to geography, perhaps? (i.e. already one of the classrooms farthest from the pond). There were also history lessons there, if I remember correctly... As I look around from the window, I notice that my height is clearly small and I have to stand on my toes and stretch out of the window to get my head out of the window and look around. I had an idea how not to fall... out of the window. Perhaps I was also thinking if someone behind me could ‘help’ me with that ‘accident’ (it’s not too clear now).

Someone says something about a mirror. Me? I go looking for a mirror to finally look at my former body in a dream. I walk along the wall past the board, but there is glass. Light reflections in the glass. I notice how my body in the reflection seems to change suddenly. Maybe my height was changed from what I could see?

"Only I can see myself like this." - I say for some reason.

I see myself in a small oval (or round) mirror...? A bit of a strange face. Nose... Bumps or smth in the middle on the sides. Hair a bit long and hanging in different directions on the sides. Maybe it was a mix of my Missy body and my current one? I was not fully aware, but I had an idea in my head that I was in a dream. Looking out the window I was afraid that I might wake up because the places were very familiar to me.

"Missy 1983 -84 not really sure of the exact date. (2).jpg" is the title of the photo in which I noticed long time ago I had something going on with my nose near the eyes. It's absolutely the same thing I saw in my reflection in the dream. Which is why I think the face I saw was a mix of my current body and my Missy's body. In the photo I wear striped red and pink t-shirt (or smth like that). The hair is spread to the sides similarly to what I saw in the dream but I think I had much shorter hair in the dream. I only remembered that photo and the identical things going on with the nose some minutes later after I wrote down what I saw in my dream.

I thought briefly, thinking if it was red that I saw in dream, maybe I should let this Q go. I was only interested in finding who that person used to be because my current life connected me to him, and it means we could have interacted in our other lives too. Then just in case I went to google 'golden Hollywood actress Natalie' and I saw the name… many things I saw today may connect to her… I'll have to ask a direct Q, and mention that if I can get the answer I'd like to get it clearly for I can't spend a lot of my time on a person who committed such a heinous crime.

I'll say that if the suspicion will be confirmed, then my sensual side will be partially devasted just as it would have been if the initial suspicion bringing me to having to as this Q would come true.

The thing is, that actress did commit a serious crime in her past life, and she did suffer for it in her life. It's s related. It means she could have done more errors of similar nature, eventually being born as E.R.

If it will turn out to be the answer – what's up with red? First, I don't know if it was dream I saw that dark red cloth. Second, I'm noticing I didn't say 'that' E.R. in the sentence with the red indicator – but I did write 'that' in the first one. It shouldn't have been a problem, but who knows. Dreams work in their own ways, as was evident with my Qs about my Amy Lyon's body which I saw in a lucid dream.

April 21, 2025. I asked my HS this Q, and later added that for the red indicator I mean if E.R. was not that Natalie in any of his past lives just in case:

"https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elliot_Rodger
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Natalie_Wood

Моё Высшее Я, вот я показываю статью на Википедии о человеке по имени Эллиот Роджер. Если этот Эллиот Роджер был в его прошлой жизни этой актрисой по имени Натали Вуд (она имела фамилию Захáренко при рождении), то тогда во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов, я хочу увидеть зелёный свет или цвет.

Если же тот Эллиот Роджер не был той Натали Вуд в его прошлой жизни, то тогда я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов. И если мне можно получить такую информацию о нём, я бы хотел услышать и/или увидеть имя, которое он имел в его прошлой жизни, в которой он совершил самые серьезные ошибки связанные с сексом, насилием, которые привели к его ситуации в его жизни Эллиота Роджера.

Я бы хотел, чтобы я получил четкий ответ на этот вопрос поскольку я не смогу тратить очень много времени на человека совершившего такие ужасные преступления.

After waking up from my second dream during the night I thought I'd not get a definitive answer; that the truth about E's past life identity has to be hidden for now for some reason. In fact, I thought it's a similar situation to my own past life of Jade.

I thought that because there were maybes after those 2 dreams. Maybe I saw this color, maybe I saw that color. I will tell that in both dreams I was near trees, and it wasn't winter.

I asked my HS to repeat the A in case I missed it.

In one of my dreams I also asked my HS to repeat the answer again, and at first I remembered nothing.

But then I had a dream in which I saw what could have been the scene from the movie The Rock 1996, where Nick Cage's character holds out two green smokes emitting green light. Since there were 2 of them, it also meant it's my repeated answer.

In a dream I was near my Moscow apartment building. I protected the truth from the guy who persisted in telling something and banned him. He and others stood in front of me. I walked home and they followed me. The banned guy says something bad to me and I say now you'll also have to apologize for that too if you'd wanna be unbanned. They followed me up the stairs to the elevators and I asked, with a slightly shaky voice, if they'd follow me further or smth. Some of them sneered at my worry. I say something to the guy whom I banned, like this is what he does – e.g. bullying. I know what's gonna happen but I don't wish to escape. I face what's destined to happen. Near the window on my floor a fight ensues. Either it was as it had to happen, or I willfully changed the way the dream was going, but when I wanted to smash the banned guy's head on the left edge of the bricks near the window he moved me to another right edge but I still managed to hit his head on the left edge. That took him out, but then, when I turned, a large fist came quickly into view and I woke up when it was inches from my face.

The thing is, I was wondering if I briefly saw with my peripheral vision something red when we were near the lifts. But now I re-read my Q and I see I specifically asked this time something new – I asked to get a 'clear' answer and since I'm wondering if I saw that or that it was not my answer. There's no question about seeing 2 green smokes and so it is my clear answer.

I wrote my thoughts about this in "H:\Art\Writing\0 Other Souls' Lives\Natalie Wood"

My attitude have not changed to Natalie, I still like her as before. It's just that now I know a little bit more about her soul.

I'll note in The Rock movie there's a character called Jade.

April 26, 2025. Took a night off but had lots of dreams. The first ones were about Natalie Wood and ER. Don't recall details. But maybe they were answers to the Q I had in my mind of just how such a girl as NW became ER... (technically, I have an understanding of that, and it relates to her other past lives, but sometimes it's just difficult to come to terms with this truth) I also wondered, before going to bed, about the meaning of the nails in my previous dream...

Then I remember I had this realization/answer in my dream (it's about the meaning of nails in my previous dream about ER's past life):

Nail with the head is Natalie Wood, and the nail without head is ER who lost his mind (head). Other nails I had in my pocket are NW/ER soul's other lives which I gave to his new incarnation in a black body (when I put them on the notebook in front of him) since he talked and thought very badly about people with black skin.

It was the second time during the night I had this idea being narrated (?). The first time happened either in a dream too, or maybe I was half-asleep and realized this truth? I don't know. But the idea does make total sense. It aligns with my idea that it's quite possible NW in her future incarnation – maybe in the one she's living atm – will come across my writings and will find who she was in her past lives (NW, ER, and possibly others if she use the method I'm using and asks her Higher Self for information about who she was in her other past lives). This knowledge should help her soul this time to live with the consequences of her past and yet unpaid errors and she won't do anything close to what she did as ER.

In another dream I saw my old pigeon with bad leg eating eggs from my plate. Having s too with a dove. I didn't eat the eggs thinking that maybe the dirty pigeon touched them.

Another dream is of importance to me also: I was in a books store. Walking and looking around.

I was at the end of the store and a worker asked something like: "Where's Mary Magdalene?" ('g' was silent – as in the collage name; and 'ag' sounded line 'aw').

I wanted to say: "I'm here!" – but I knew what they'd think.

"Maria Magdalene." – I heard again the woman say while browsing through some paintings.

("Forgot phone." – I wrote this in my note before writing I wanted to say "I'm here", but I don't recall why I wrote it. Perhaps someone forgot the phone in the dream?)

I will note here I had to wonder now if my and NW souls interacted in other lives also?

There's a painting of me in my Emma Hamilton's life as Mary Magdalene painted by George Romney. I don't know, though, if this dream's connected to the other dreams I had tonight.

May 10, 2025. Just wrote – did not ask – a Q if ER/NW lived in 1930 AD, and if yes what name he had in that life. I heard a name repeated in the first dreams and I was not surprised to hear it. After fully waking up I could not remember the details, though. During the night I realized there are even more parallels between ER/NW and Bonnie Parker.

I was lying in bed, thinking how I was born around the time Internet was created, giving access to all the world's knowledge. Was no surprise I was born in this time and found many of my past lives, as well as Thiaoouba, thanks to the wide web. As I thought that bookshelf made a loud crackling sound (a kinda knock), and then a barely audible one was repeated. Windows had not been open for hours, temperature was stable, and it's just not something that happens with that bookcase.

May 12, 2025.

"Моё Высшее Я, если Эллиот Роджер, который был актрисой Натали Вуд в его прошлой жизни, жил в 1930 году н.э., тогда во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов, я хочу услышать и/или увидеть имя, которое он имел в той его прошлой жизни, в которой он жил в 1930 году н.э. Я был бы признателен, если то имя будет повторено, чтобы я лучше запомнил его.

Если душа того Эллиота Роджера не жила в 1930 году н.э. - т.е. не имела физического тела в том году - тогда я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов.

Моё Высшее Я, я бы хотел, чтобы я получил ответ как можно раньше. Чтобы если я проснусь посреди ночи, я уже имел мой ответ. В таком случае я смогу спросить подтверждающий вопрос, и мне не придётся тратить другую ночь на нахождение прошлой жизни Эллиота Роджера.

Большое Спасибо в любом случае!”

I woke up when it was 4. Had some dreams, but no memory of anything specific. Eventually decided to ask a second Q: Music real instrument – (this) ER was (this) Bonnie Parker. Voice of real animal – wasn’t.

When asking that Q I opened and showed the names and pictures in the following web pages to better identify the people I’m referring to:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elliot_Rodger

https://www.ebsco.com/research-starters/history/bonnie-parker

(Under impression heard songs, music. I hand other dreams in which I heard music.)

I was lying on a bench near a house, Zina’s? smth about hospital #50 in which Zina came to visit… someone.

Guy said his name several times. It started with O maybe, he then explained the spelling of some letter, said the name meant…

Lengthwise matches Parker and Bonnie.

Small height blond guy, shook his hand eventually. (the height could have been ~149cm – the height of me as Missy and Bonnie.

We went inside the house. The guy opened the door to the middle room of Zina’s village house, and there was a girl of small height. He called her by name. It was a short name, and it could have been Liz, Liza (or smth else entirely; I didn’t fully register Bonnie Parker’s middle name was Elizabeth then). We sat and ate at the table near windows in the kitchen under the stair. Some of them talked occasionally; I was silent all the time. Thought about that, how people probably notice I don’t talk. I looked outside the window at the trees near river(?) once. When finished eating I asked for a toothbrush. Found 2, used, and there was a toothpaste. I took 2 brushes and went out to get on my bicycle and ride… to the right towards a red bricked chapel. I thought I was in Pokrov(?) or another place near my village(?). I just needed to take a right turn somewhere… drove by it, looking at my phone’s map. Turned back and a thug guy on a bike drove to me, preventing me from turning to the left… next I might have started waking up and imagining how I kicked him with my bike’s back wheel and went on my way, to then hide from a police car in the forest.

I have no idea why I didn't ask to know the 'full name', instead of 'name'... I've been very tired lately; can barely read NW's bio sometimes and notice I have to make myself read it sometimes... it's not about her, or who she was and would be – I'm just generally too tired. I thought yesterday about needing to take a 7-day break from reading someday... right now I need to finish NW's bio, and I will have to read ER's diary which I never read while I remember NW's story.

I might have not heard the name properly because I already knew the answer, having all the data and details in front of me; so just ask the direct Q instead of circling around. But I had to ask this Q coz of Kidder's case which bore many similarities to my Missy's death, and she's become someone who knew me in my Missy's life – somehow this could be yet another parallel between NW's soul and mine...

I heard music multiple times. It's been a while since I used sound indicators and I haven't heard music in my dreams lately.

Everything points to Elliot Rodger/Natalie Wood being Bonnie Parker [BP] (Bonnie and Clyde) – I have detailed notes in another document about Natalie Wood. I made an error – since I didn't remember ER's book too well (for obvious reasons) – when I said in TPXP ER was feeling bad, sick about his plan; no, he thought sick thinking of taking his dad's life and only that – as I learned upon re-reading that part. He had no big issues thinking about taking lives of other people, including his younger brother whose life he saved in a pool. Now that I know ER was BP in his past life, who they say murdered people too and wasn't just a follower of a criminal (Clyde Barrow), it becomes very clear why he had no remorse about doing what he did so brutally. As NW he never truly suffered for his BP crimes, and so he gained no significant spiritual knowledge regarding other people's lives. It also makes more sense now why he even started planning his rampage instead of seeking solutions to his life's situation. Bonnie, they say, got bored with her husband in jail, and so she joined Clyde; she didn't seek normal, adequate solutions – and in NW's life she had it all handed to her essentially being a movie star – so again gained little to none spiritual knowledge in NW's life.

It's of interest the bio of BP reads "Bonnie Elizabeth Parker (PAHR-kuhr)". It sounds like Parkour, Пар-Кур in Russian – from French parcours. The point is her last name didn't sound exactly as 'Parker'. Maybe why in today's dream I heard something which could be similar to that and yet wasn't. The guy's explanation about spelling also connects here.

UPDATE: I think my tiredness gets to me. I completely ignored the red brick chapel I saw in my dream. Part of me doesn't wish to spend another night of my life on this, but I'm too invested to stop now... Maybe the red appeared because I said if the soul lived, and not ER lived in that year. A soul is just a body. It has no consciousness. It's a tool – and a tool can exist, but it cannot live. When we talk about a person, though, it's implied that we're referring to his intelligence, to this conscious being. It's unfortunate I have to deal with all this again, figuring out my errors.

I'm sure ER/NW was Bonnie Parker (music-indicator I heard in dreams showed that). As I'm reading about her, I'm finding more and more connections, including similar habits I noticed in my own lives.

May 13, 2025. Yesterday, having found who Bonnie Parker was in her future lives, I had to watch Bonnie and Clyde (1967) movie for the sake of researching reincarnation. The movie was even worse than I thought, sad to say for acting was good. They managed to defame the hero Frank Hamer and got sued for it by his family.

Maybe it's nothing, but it's a fact now I'm tied somehow to those people. So I note the gas mask, which reminded me of Vova putting on himself one in Dima's house; it got me thinking if some of the Barrow gang members could not only become ER's victims, but also may be people whom I knew/know personally.

Maybe I'll return to this topic sometime later.

I had to ask again the previous Q even though I knew the answer would be the same. For a change I replaced Elliot Rodger with Natalie Wood who is the same entity.

"https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Natalie_Wood
https://www.ebsco.com/research-starters/history/bonnie-parker

Моё Высшее Я, если эта актриса Натали Вуд в её прошлой жизни была этой Бонни Паркер, тогда я хочу увидеть зелёный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов. Если же эта актриса Натали Вуд ни в одной из ее прошлых жизней не была этой Бонни Паркер, тогда я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов."

(As always, I asked to repeat the A so that I better remember it, and then I Thanked my Higher Self regardless of whatever will happen.)

Came outside on the porch in village house. Irl there'd be trees with leaves. The dream's theme revolved around Bonnie (perhaps the movie version I saw hours ago).

May 27th. Think saw their (Bonnie and Clyde) last car. Was it light green I'm not sure. Irl it's like beige. (not sure anymore what the date meant. It's 14 days till then.)

. (asked my HS to repeat the A if I missed it) my corridor dream with my b&w shirt being dismembered into pieces and attached to the ceiling. A man was there who had evil ideas about me. I was told to look into peephole, and at some point I took the pieces of the shirt and sewed them together in 1.

Woman looked into a peephole after that and saw:

Man in castle had green vertical stripes his jacked on both sides (a sign of repetition).

She was hiding from the men by walking around the white-grey stairs (with her retinue or guards?). Later she appeared to be a queen, having a dark crown or smth on her head.

So, I got my confirmation that my yesterday's answer was also correct.

I think I understand why I saw red chapel. Chapels stem from religions more than they do – if at all - from the Superior Intelligence (the Spirit) and spirituality. They are not about developing of one's mind which is a part of the Spirit. It was a hint to me that I was mistaken in thinking a tool – the soul (astral body) – can live when it has no part of the Superior Intelligence in itself.

Interestingly, this may be the answer, and confirmation of me being correct, that the Spirit is not made of electrons (souls are made of them).

The shirt and queen dreams related to my thoughts on how should I publish my findings about this soul, given Natalie Wood was a more or less decent human being – but yes, lack of spiritual knowledge is visible in her, but since she was a star at the top of the wheel she never had to reach the point she was and would be in her closest lives. I knew that you can't defame a dead person, and this is where this Q ends… and yet I read Mr. Hamer's family sued the movie for false depiction of him. There's no falsehood about who NW was or would become. It can be proven if people try the method I'm using. Then I'm talking not about NW's past and future lives, not about smth she did in her own life. There are no laws about claiming this person was that person in their past or future life. It can't be defamation of character since the law doesn't deal with reincarnation currently (it may in the future if reincarnation is finally proven to exist); and once more, I speak the truth that can be independently validated (by using the method I'm using) - therefore there are no worries.

The queen was representing me having all resources to deal with the issue at hand (represented by that man), and yet hiding. The shirt sewn back into 1 was the other answer to my thoughts if maybe I should upload videos about NW's lives to another YT channel and groups in order not to keep all the eggs in one basket.

'Funnily', there's a story surrounding NW which proves it's all good – her sister Lana revealing the truth about Kirk Douglas who had just died. All was good.

And also, there are books and movies lying about me in my previous lives… nobody gives a damn (except me) it seems.

May 17, 2025. I had a hunch ER's life had echoes of what I remembered about Charles Greville, with whom I was briefly close (romantically and sexually) when I lived my young life of Amy Lyon. I saw more parallels. I saw how ER could have been that Charles. So I had to ask my HS a direct Q:

“https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elliot_Rodger
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Charles_Francis_Greville

Моё Высшее Я, если этот Elliot Rodger был в его прошлой жизни вот этим Charles Greville, тогда я хочу увидеть зелёный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь увижу в ближайшие 12 часов.

Если же этот Elliot Rodger не был ни в одной из его прошлых жизней вот этим Charles Greville, тогда я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет во сне, который я надеюсь увижу в ближайшие 12 часов. И я также хочу получить ответ почему я вижу параллели, синхроничности, схожести с собой в жизни этого Elliot Rodger и в его прошлых жизнях Natalie Wood & Bonnie Parker. Быть может этот Elliot Rodger был в его прошлой жизни кем-то, кого я знал в моей прошлой жизни. ...”

There was an issue. Instead of doing this Q as before, I decided to open the webpages of those 2 people beforehand. Unfortunately, when I read ‘Elliot...’ I had ‘Charles...’ page open and had to open Elliot’s and repeat that I mean ‘this Elliot’. Same happened again with Charles. It was a tiny mess, but I didn’t think it’s that important. I asked my HS to ignore the issues basically, and give the clear A to the Q it knows I was thinking of.

I woke up and remembered seeing dreams about Charles, but no details. As I was still half asleep and dreamy, I may have imagined, or actually saw in a dream or vision, a grey picture of smth or someone and then I saw chromatic aberration kind of effect, showing both green-cyan and red-pink kind of colors. I didn’t think it was my A, but then thought what if it was...

Asked my HS to repeat the A to my last Q.

Later I got worried that maybe me telling the name and having a page open about a different person in the browser tab could have introduced an error in my Q. Eventually I decided to tell me HS I annul the previous Q I asked and I asked the very same Q properly this time.

I was walking near school fence and tram tracks. Picked up a chicken egg (saw more of them under tree later). I feel movements and then pecking in it. How will I raise a bird, I think or smth like that. Eventually it hatched, and a mouse came out. Not fully developed in its back area (which may have had a shade of pale green). I let it go under exposed tree roots giving it cover.

I realize then it's a dream maybe but how to know for sure? All seems regular.

But then I see 2 red large container like boxes the size of cars standing on their front. But then I see green grass and turning around I see green is all over the place around me – leaves on trees. Green, green, green.

I walk on and meet people. Girls. Tell them what happened (not fully developed mouse, red boxes, etc.). Tell I kinda screwed up my first Q and annulled it, but perhaps it didn't work like that and still got slipped into my answer. Basically, I got explanation why I saw a bit of repeated red (I asked to repeat the original Q before I asked another), and then I saw tons of green repeated on trees and grass.

. Woke up at around 7 and asked my HS to tell in the dream I might have in the next 6 hours the full name Elliot Rodger had in his past life he lived in 1800 AD.

Charles … …

Charles … …

Charles … …

Later, after I saw the names, there was a narrative of sorts (maybe I was saying it) pretty much stating the ER was that Charles Greville… it was about why he sought reaches, aristocratic life in ER's life – coz he had and also sought that type of life in late 18-th century AD. (Clearly in his lives of Bonnie and Natalie not a lot had changed in terms of gaining a lot of spiritual knowledge. ER probably lived in the 19-th century AD, but I don't suppose he gained a lot of spirituality then either based on facts we know about his lives; what he did in them.)

I don't remember what those 2 words were, but lengthwise they match Charles Francis Greville's name. There were 9 words shown in a 3x3 grid.

The only reason I saw green is because ER was Charles Francis Greville in his past life. And I also saw Charles full name repeated, and it consisted of 3 words.

Just in case I made an error here, I asked my HS and Thiaooubians to tell me in the next night during a dream to tell me that. I don't expect to hear anything, though.

It looks like another nail has been found.

Note about the chicken egg and underdeveloped (in is back; the head was ok) mouse coming out of it. I thought why I saw that? Does it connect with something I know in relation to the people I asked about? It did.

Rebel Without a Cause has a chicken run scene. Actually, chicken is mentioned and shown more times in that movie, and those scenes also have connection to Elliot Rodger (in his past life of NW).

Mouse is a synonym for a coward https://www.merriam-webster.com/thesaurus/mouse. ER almost never approaching women may be considered to be a sign of cowardice. I don't suppose he had some physical issues in his brain – but I don't know it for certain. I think his situation had to do with psychology influenced by his past lives' decisions, and lack of both critical material land spiritual knowledge of what people actually thought and what he had to do to have a different life. I think so coz our lives bear many similarities; I had dispelled some of my silly ideas once I started approaching females and having conversations with some; I speak from actual experience bringing myself out of the whole (similar to ER's) I let myself fall to.

I think mouse with its back (bottom part of the human body) problems might potentially be indication that ER in his next life will or is experiencing some issues with his (bottom part of the) physical body. It's just a guess. He did injure 14 people; and he did write evil things, wishing other people to have sickness and what not – all of that were errors for which ER might suffer by being invalid all of his next life (maybe lives – atm I don't know how it works exactly when multiple people get hurt by one individual).

I might be wrong, but maybe I heard or saw something about 'James'. Name of the actor and hero in that movie.

Update: I finishing reading ER's journal, and I see this entry:

'1/27/2013. ER: "I feel like such a mouse when I see this." (he writes about seeing young couples everywhere in Isla Vista, the place he himself chose to live in because, according to him, it had so many hot females.)' Later on he again compares himself with a mouse.

May 18, 2025. I'm preparing the .pdf file with all my findings in regards to ER's life. And I noticed that when on 31.05.2024 I asked my HS if my father was someone whom I knew in my past life of Emma Hamilton Elliot Rodger appeared in that dream! I never wrote it, but the reason I asked that question was because I thought I saw a bit of parallels between my father and Charles Greville. Elliot Rodger was, as I know now, that Charles Greville! I knew about Elliot by that time. I think this is why I saw a reference to him then! This is extremely interesting!

Back then I had absolutely no idea that Elliot Rodger was Charles Greville. This is another indicator that my recent answers about Elliot's past lives were correct.

I've had similar things happen before, when a certain truth would penetrate into my dream when I asked about something or something which that truth relates to.

May 22, 2025. I had to ask why the cat was not resurrected. I also asked Thao, Biastra, and Latoli.

"Моё Высшее Я, когда я гулял 21 мая этого года, передо мною была задавлена машиной кошка, которая отошла немного, и потом легла у дерева и не двигалась. Полагая, что она умерла, я пытался воскресить её. Я просил тебя помочь воскресить ту мёртвую кошку, и я прикасался к её телу своей голой рукой более 9 секунд. Говорил, что её воскрешение может помочь. Я не сильно оглядывался по сторонам, хотя неловкость и была из-за всей ситуации. Во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов, я хочу получить ответ почему та кошка не воскресла, не ожила, и если мне нужно знать, узнать что-то ещё для того, чтобы воскресить мертвое животное, я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет."

Had violent dreams. Was in village and had female body.

Village. Someone hides behind Sergeys post… To mana burn (WarCraft 3 – Illidan hero's ability)? Someone.

We run in the road between Lena and Vova's gardens to the field. Collecting points along the way. Became required with time (?) - is the narrative.

A pear was growing on a pear tree near Sergey's plot and near back road. Near dad's plot. I was seeing it from heigh above near the trees' tops. It was taken, as if to remind me of how we picked Ira's (and someone else's?) apples with that apple picker (karma? We didn't pick a lot). There was another pear left growing (reminded me later of 2 cats, 1 of whom got 'taken' – dead – and the other remained living). Other long heigh trees were growing. One was black currant (черная смородина) which does not grow this height irl. The trees end near Vladik's plot.

On the grown now. (Autocorrect must have ruined the sentence & I don't remember what I meant here)

I saw several red tomatoes, holding them in my hands. Natasha, Olya's daughter (my relative), said I last talked to her… Recently once. Someone asked that.

I talked to a leader of the group/gang? Here I had female body. I didn't wanna be a part of…, or smth.

Hid behind a rock when the other group came by. Shooting guns?

. (asked to repeat if possible. Green if I should continue try resurrecting animals with the knowledge I have atm)

I watched myself write this part twice? Or it was irl once?

Disappearing bodies.

A normal building with windows and all. A corpse sits near it on a wheelchair. A car then smashes into another or… Disappears then.

Now the house was burned down. The corpse is now a living man sitting on a wheelchair in front of the burned down building. (now I have Silent Hill vibes from all that I saw)

Red brick house which altered between 2 shapes.

The man I talked to also… The scene changes I think…

Don't know if I saw green on trees…

Or green alongside road which also had things disappear. (This is the part I saw myself write/say in a dream. It helped me remember this dream, and it underlined its importance.)

Elliot Rodger in his new life chasing after me with a knife. (This dream got even wilder than the previous one…)

I think it started in some yellow-white chambers – like they could have in churches' undergrounds – vaulted ceilings. Maybe I fought someone with a sword(? Or…) and then I gave up my weapon, becoming defenseless – this part I'm not sure about… could be totally wrong.

Now I'm near a window with the tall dark haired(?) man who is incarnation of Elliot Rodger. I view a book with pictures and see Natalie Wood with other people. Say he is there and then ask him not to look. (it's very strange I did that; I actually want him to find his past lives coz I think it will help him realize he only has himself to blame for all his troubles). His demeanor changes.

I then realize he killed in cold blood people (with a knife) in his other life and he learned not. My skin gets white from the sudden realization. He sees it. He then goes out and I know he has access to knifes. He returns and stands with a knife near the only door out. But drops it (don't remember why). I hurry out of the room, which now is my dad's apartment. He chases me out of the house.

I go to the middle of Shcholkovskoye Shosse road. Then tell someone about what happened.

Chase goes on. I hide in a room.

There's a gas tank I hit for it to go flying into the door ER is entering. Maybe it didn't work as planned and I as if reload the 'save' – the scene winds back in time before ER enters the room – and now I do it correctly. (I'm not sure if I started to wake up there or what, and maybe I deliberately changed the way the dream originally was going?)

The gas tank – which maybe was red – ignites and flies right into the spot ER is now near the door. Huge explosion. I then jump out of the glass windows, and while in mid air the rest of the gas tanks explode – just like in the violent/action movies.

Hospital. My dark red wound at the bottom of my belly had to be cut open to monitor intestines. It was sewed back together later.

Did I get him? – I thought. Guess so… or…

I'm with the nurse. Alone in the room. Do I like here? She has blonde hair. Her skin is white. Trying to close the door shut when hear footsteps. Smth is worrying me…

Nurse… Is she changing? Smth about her face…

Also had dream about going to 3rd entrance of my house.

Went down s lift shaft. Almost squashed standing in the safe spot. It was claustrophobic.

Saw green appear popping up either in a dream or a vision. I was kinda thinking of the question – do I continue trying to resurrect dead animals if I come across one again?

Asking if learning spiritual and material knowledge is what the message was? I remember this thought. I didn't have it written on my phone. I think I might have asked that question in my dream. If so, then it could be the answer. But I think I did wonder if this was the message of my unusual dreams tonight.

(The noise and hum woke me up at some point, and then I fell asleep again.)

I think me learning spiritually – and perhaps materially - is the answer. I asked if I need to know something else, and later realized that gaining spiritual knowledge is technically also learning something else – spiritually, not materially.

If the answer's smth else, then I don't know what that could be. The dreams were too abstract.

Technically, materially I should know all that is required to resurrect someone. There were many people – reportedly – who resurrected dead people, and they didn't know the details about Higher Selves, etc. So I think I need to work on getting rid of all the remaining negativity (violent themes sometimes appearing in my mind) left in me.

The whole situation might exist as another way (among other reasons, of course) to try and help me become more spiritual.

I don't think ER dream is smth prophetic – in terms of him becoming that man, etc. (although who knows). I think that dream merely tried to show the point of the importance of material and spiritual knowledge. And it again showed (repeated) a violent scene, hinting that such thoughts were the reason for that cat staying dead.

I noticed that I was 'mad about cats' in my Vivien's life, and in this life of Evgeny Meshkov I was/am kinda mad about pigeons. Pigeons and a cat are the only creatures I've tried to resurrect so far. Well, there was that spider too, but it was a very long time ago.

I picked many red small tomatoes and held them in both hands. I think there were definitely 4, maybe more. I think that each could represent my Higher Self and Thao, Biastra, and Latoli. It could mean a have a lot to learn too – which I do regardless – but I feel like in this case the first idea is more correct.

May 23, 2025. After seeing parallels in Richard III (1955) movie with Elliot Rodger, about whom I saw a dream that very same day (May 22), I had to ask this question:

"https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elliot_Rodger

Моё Высшее Я, если этот Эллиот Роджер жил в одной из его прошлых жизней в 1465 году нашей эры, тогда во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов, я хочу услышать и/или увидеть несколько раз полное имя, которое этот Эллиот Роджер имел в той его прошлой жизни, которую он жил в 1465 году нашей эры.

Если же этот Эллиот Роджер не жил ни в одной из его прошлых жизней в 1465 году нашей эры, тогда во сне, который я надеюсь я увижу в ближайшие 12 часов, я хочу увидеть красный свет или цвет."

I added then that I'd like to get

Dream of someone the 3rd I think.

. (Couldn't sleep for long after waking up, and eventually decided to just ask to see green in a dream I'd hopefully see in the next 9 or 12 hours if https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elliot_Rodger was https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Richard_III_of_England in his past life.)

Saw blueberry plants. Green leaves. Green grass. But one was growing from the white sink and it got rotten and black. Small bugs were on it.

. I woke up and for some reason I asked to repeat the A to my last Q even thought the answer was very clear. I saw green plants and grass clearly. Realizing this, I added another question: why did I see the black and dead blueberry plant growing from a sink? "Lack of green" may have been mentioned too. I have no memory of other dreams I had this night, but I feel like I might have seen red pop up in a vision, or maybe it was just me a thought of red that popped up. I feel that my last question may have caused that, and it wasn't the A to my first Q.

I'll ask my HS and Thiaooubians again to give me a sign, or tell directly, in a dream in case ER was not Richard III of England despite me seeing the green indicator clear as day. I can't spend more time on validating my findings about his past lives. (Edit: I did and nothing was given, confirming the previous answer that ER was Richard III.)

It's May 23 today – 11 years have passed since ER death, and 91 since his BP death – and I found yet another of ER past lives. Another 'nail' found.

Elliot Rodger and my thoughts on his book

Evgeny Meshkov's thoughts on what Elliot Rodger had to write in his book. I created this file on November 14 of 2021 at 4:44PM (I didn't know then who I was in my past lives, and, of course, I didn't know who Elliot Rodger was in his. I had no idea we used to know each other before). Later I decided not to publish it since I thought it would popularize a murderer, possibly making other people look up to him. But now it's about the research of reincarnation, and those who read the first part of this document should know about the purpose of the Universe, its Laws, and that we have to suffer for our errors – the evidence of which you can see in Elliot Rodger's incarnations, as well as in my (Evgeny M.) past lives. I only slightly edited what I wrote years ago here.

Проанализировать его Манифест с точки зрения законов духовности.

Упомянуть с самого начала, что думал о том нужно ли вообще делать видео про него – дабы не популяризировать действия того человека. Я хочу, чтобы инселы и сторонники Роджера смогли найти это видео и, возможно, изменили свои точки зрения.

Возможно, всё-таки не стоит произносить его имя.

Ответить на вопрос – подходил ли он сам к девушкам для знакомства?

Мои мысли о его Манифесте

"If I'm unable to have it, I will destroy it" – the supreme gentleman Elliot Rodger.

Introduction:

«I started out as a happy and blissful child, living my life to the fullest in a world I thought was good and pure…"

– по большому счёту тоже самое относится ко мне. Если не считать некоторых моментов, я наслаждался временем, проведённым в моём детстве.

Part One A Blissful Beginning Age 0-5:

Для меня было неожиданным сюрпризом узнать, что мать Эллиота Чин встречалась с Джорджом Лукасом https://www.reddit.com/r/masskillers/comments/gsb02m/george_lucas_c_1980s_with_his_thengirlfriend_li/ (скачал фото и сохранил в папку с скриншотами статей о Мишеле)

Эллиот говорит, как узнавал мир вокруг него и это было время счастья и блаженства. Всё верно – материальные знания стираются в Реке Забвений и когда мы рождаемся, мы словно видим мир впервые, пусть мы могли уже жить раньше в предыдущих жизнях. Благодаря этому люди могут учить новые уроки жизни, смотря на мир новыми глазами. И поскольку материальные знания стираются после того, как человек предпросмотрел всю свою жизнь и согласился прожить её, то мы действительно не можем знать того, что должно случиться.

«I can remember playing in the fields and going on long walks with Ah Mah to pick berries. She would always warn me not to touch the stinging nettles that sometimes grew in our fields, but my curiosity got the better of me, and I got stung a few times."

– И бабушка и жизнь дала Эллиоту шанс прийти к пониманию, что за ошибки нужно платить страданием, но, к сожалению, он не выучил своего урока и не понял, что мы страдаем только за свои собственные ошибочные выборы. Конечно, Эллиот не знал про реинкарнацию души и Законы Вселенной, и поэтому он вряд ли смог прийти к пониманию, что некоторые страдания являются прямым следствием ошибок, совершённых в одной из прошлой жизней. Это одна из причин, почему важно доказать существование реинкарнации и правдивости книги Мишеля Дэмаркэ «Тиауба: Золотая Планета”

– тогда люди будут знать причину их невзгод, и они будут стараться выучить урок из их жизненного опыта, а не отказываться усваивать свой урок, приобретая духовные знания, и идти с оружием в руках и совершать ещё одну ошибку, подписывая себе новый приговор в виде ещё одной жизни полной горечи и страданий, а не счастья и блаженства.

«The first birthday I remember was my 3rd birthday. My parents threw a party for me in our field. I had a helicopter birthday cake. I can remember one of my friend’s parents cutting off the first piece and giving it to my friend. I threw a tantrum because I was expecting to get the first piece… It was my birthday after all.”

– Эллиот явно запомнил этот момент в его жизни, и я могу видеть символизм в том, как потом Эллиот уже будет видеть, как девушки достаются не ему, а его друзьям… и что хуже, если в случае с тортом он всё-таки смог получить хоть какой-то кусок, в случае с девушками ему не досталось ничего. Я вспоминаю тут историю так называемого Скопинского маньяка, которому переходили так скажем «использованные» девушки парней, которые снимали у него жильё в его доме; сам же будущий маньяк не мог найти себе девушку самостоятельно, что, насколько я помню, и было одной из причин для его последующих ошибочных и преступных решений.

«My preschool class once went on a field trip to the park, where I had the misfortune of getting lost. As my class was eating lunch, I ventured off to another area of the park, and when I returned, my class had moved on. I remember panicking and asking strangers for help. It was a terrifying experience for me. I was eventually led to my class by the strangers I talked to.”

– Я не мог не заметить в этом эпизоде своеобразное предзнаменование будущих событий в жизни Эллиота, когда в то время, как все, ну или некоторые, люди начинали иметь романтические и сексуальные отношения с противоположным полом, Эллиот словно заблудился, уйдя в совсем другое место в его жизненном пути, а когда он вернулся, то его друзья уже имели девушек и не имели девственность. Часть, где он был в итоге приведён к его классу также может относиться к его будущей жизни, т.к. это факт, что рано или поздно Эллиот в его следующих жизнях, в которых, как мы знаем, ему придётся страдать за все его убийства и прочие ошибки, начнёт выучивать его урок, и не буду удивлён если ему помогут в этом незнакомые люди, быть может даже те, чьи души когда-то населяли физические тела убитых им людей – что и будет выучиванием духовного знания о том, что незнакомые люди это такие же люди, которые могут помочь тебе – если ты спросишь их о помощи; ведь люди не могут знать, что тебе нужна помощь если ты не скажешь им это сам. Я забегу вперёд и скажу, что бытует мнение, что Роджер никогда сам не подходил знакомится к девушкам; он предположил, что девушки игнорируют его т.к. они сами не делают первый шаг для знакомства с ним – мне ещё предстоит узнать, если это так. Если да, то я определённо могу видеть ещё один символизм, а также урок жизни, который Эллиот вновь не смог распознать – не бойся и стесняйся спрашивать других людей о помощи и совете.

Я знаю о чём говорю, ибо мне самому была оказана своеобразная помощь незнакомцами – на форумах, где я читал жизненные истории других людей, понимая, что я не одинок, на улице при знакомствах, когда пусть я и не нашёл девушку, но люди тем-не-менее помогли мне с помощью их беседы видеть, что я не одинок в своих проблемах, что девушки, будучи частью Вселенной и точно такими же людьми как и мужчины, тоже страдают.

Эллиот мог бы тоже искать ответы на его вопросы на разных форумах, где незнакомцы могли бы указать ему на то, где он делает ошибку – дальше Эллиоту нужно было бы начать работать над переменой его мышления и того, какие выборы он делает в жизни.

«I remember one funny incident when we were taking school pictures. They forced us to sit crosslegged, which I hated doing, so I absolutely refused to sit that way for the picture. The teachers eventually conceded, and the picture was taken with me being the only one sitting differently."

– Как я узнал на своём опыте, медитация очень важная вещь, если мы хотим возвысить себя. Не удивительно, что Эллиот ни в какую не захотел сидеть в той позе.

«As they [his parents and their friends] were climbing the tower I went outside to look at the cacti surrounding the house. These cacti also sparked my curiosity, and I foolishly decided to touch a cactus. I ended up getting cactus needles all over my hand, and it took a long time for my mother to remove them."

– Мы можем видеть, что в раннем эпизоде с крапивой, Эллиот не усвоил урок, который жизнь преподнесла ему. Это говорит о том, что он был упрямым человеком – у него были знания, чтобы не совершать старых ошибок и не страдать, но он всё равно наступил на старые грабли. И да, я понимаю, что он был совсем ещё ребёнком, но факт в том, что человек имеющий духовные знания, не стал бы касаться того, что причинит вред.

Part 2 Growing up in America Age 5-9

«When I think about the experiences I had during my friendship with her, it makes me think ominously of the fact that all children, boys and girls, start out the same. We all start out innocent, and we all start out together. Only through the experiences and circumstances of growing up do we drift apart, form allegiances, and face each other as enemies."

– и все эти разницы, капля за каплей начинающие проявляться уже в детском возрасте, являются, в большинстве случаев, прямым следствием действий каждого конкретного человека в его прошлых жизнях.

«I was swelled with pride as I wore my graduation cap at the ceremony."

6 Years Old

«. I always took to playing on the slides, and sometimes I would go on the swing, though my father had to push me."

– это был второй раз, когда Эллиот не умел что-то делать. Первым является его неспособность играть в футбол. Интересно, что Питер в итоге научил сына раскачиваться самостоятельно – Эллиот был способен учиться, и он мог идентифицировать свои проблемы, но почему-то он не мог видеть, что в его неспособности найти девушку виноват, во многом, он сам – его ошибочные решения, а не его внешность - и что ему нужно идентифицировать реальные причины отсутствия у него девушки и что следует сделать, чтобы она появилась, и сделать это, а не ждать пока произойдёт чудо, и девушка подойдёт к нему знакомится сама – увы, в современном обществе это редкость… если конечно вы не имеете сногсшибательную внешность.

«Being denied entry on a simple amusement park ride due to my height may seem like only a small injustice, but it was big for me at time."

– Другая сторона медали говорит, что взрослые заботятся о здоровье детей, включая его, в том случае, если произойдёт несчастный случай, и нужно будет эвакуировать детей с парка развлечений; дети, которые меньше определённого роста, могут быть в опасности в таких редких ситуациях. Но Эллиот не хотел узнавать истинные причины таких ограничений, также как он не хотел понимать, что он, очевидно, был не единственным ребёнком на свете, рост которого был меньше измерительной доски; а также, что в парке развлечений полно других мест, где его рост позволил бы ему хорошо провести время. Он выбрал впасть в истерику – да, как он пишет позже, они пошли на другой аттракцион, который напугал его до слёз; у него был шанс увидеть, что пусть один конкретный опыт может быть не доступен ему, он вполне может испытать другой, несколько иной, но в целом схожий по впечатлениям и ощущениям опыт. Т.е. если одна девушка была реально не доступна ему по каким-то причинам, это не означало, что другая девушка была бы против его компании… но как мы узнаем далее, Эллиот никогда не подходил к девушкам для знакомства, в чём лежит его величайшая ошибка…

Мы также можем начать понимать, что Эллиот скорее всего имел предыдущие жизни, в которых он сделал ошибки, в результате одного из которых ему было суждено иметь его рост и негативный опыт в парке развлечений.

«Soon enough, though, I realized that Soumaya was, in fact, his “girlfriend”, and they were together just like how my father and mother were together. It was the first time I learned the concept of a “girlfriend”, and it was hard to grasp. Before that, I always thought a man and a woman had to be married before living together in such a manner, and that it would take a long time for such a union to happen. Father finding a new girlfriend in such a short amount of time baffled me.”
– Я могу понять Эллиота в том, что он полагал, что прежде чем пожениться и жить вместе, мужчина и женщина должны хорошо узнать друг друга, а на это требуется время. К сожалению, мы живём в эпоху восхвалений случайных связей и секса с кучей партнёров – иногда даже одновременно. Я считаю эти тенденции ошибкой, и решением является осознание нашей ошибки и достижением золотой середины, когда мы не боимся говорить на тему секса, но ищем в идеале 1 единственного партнёра на всю жизнь.

«Halloween this year marked my first time going Trick-or-Treating. My mother took me to my friend Shane’s house, and we walked around his neighborhood collecting candy. Still obsessed with dinosaurs, I dressed up as a dinosaur for that Halloween. Trick-or-Treating was a new thing for me, as it wasn’t so popular in England. When it was all over, I was amazed that I had so much candy.”
– Снова… если бы только Эллиот понял, что он также мог бы собирать знания от незнакомых ему людей… спрашивать у них мудрого совета… сколько бы знаний и пониманий о жизни он мог бы получить?

«I then started collecting Pokemon cards, and James and I always compared and traded them. The Pokemon anime cartoon became my favorite show on television. It was a very fun, captivating hobby, and every boy at my school had a folder of Pokemon cards. It provided something to have, something to show off, something to talk about.”
– что-то, о чём можно говорить – именно так! Желательно иметь некий запас знаний о обыденных темах, о которых можно говорить с девушками. Я не знаю если Эллиот имел обширные запасы тем для разговора и искал новые знания, но это могло бы помочь ему при знакомстве с девушками.

«Mother was still friends with George Lucas, so we got invites to the red carpet premiere of Star Wars Episode 1. I always was and always will be a huge Star Wars fan. I had already seen the original trilogy many times, and I considered myself very lucky to be able to go to the premiere of the new Star Wars movie.
It was an absolutely astonishing experience. It was just me and my mother – Georgia was too young, so she stayed at home with a babysitter. Episode 1 is infamous for being the lesser movie of the three new prequels, but as a kid I enjoyed it very much. Afterwards, I met some of the actors, and I shook the hand of Jake Lloyd, the actor who played Anakin Skywalker in the movie."
– очень интересно, что буквально в следующем абзаце Эллиот пишет о том, что могло бы быть его золотой темой для разговора с девушками, многие из которых наверняка были бы заинтересованы насыщенной жизнью Эллиота.

«After the holiday season, my nanny Christine had to leave back to Germany, and this saddened me deeply. Chistine would always be my favorite nanny, and I was in a sullen mood on the day she left."
– Я сам не сильно любил расставания. Но встречи и расставания являются частью наших жизней.

«They also invited a few of Georgia's friends, which really annoyed me, since it was my birthday, and not Georgia's."
– Снова я вижу, что у Эллиота был выбор того, как относиться к конкретной ситуации, и он выбрал быть недовольным по поводу того, что на его день рождения пригласили друзей его сестры, Джорджии. Ещё он мог бы порадоваться новой возможности завести себе новых друзей, возможно даже друзей среди девушек, т.к. я позволю себе предположить, что многие из друзей его сестры были девушками. Сделай он это, и кто знает, в последующее годы одна из подруг сестры могла бы даже стать его девушкой.

2й кусок текста на 15-16й странице.
Моё мнение такого, что люди, живущие их первые жизни, имеют такие физические тела, которые кажутся по крайней мере симпатичными для окружающих их людей. Это логично т.к. впервые живущие души не имеют за своей спиной серьёзных ошибок прошлых жизней, и поэтому справедливо, что они не должны страдать. По этой причине если ребёнок имеет проблемы в жизни из-за его внешности, то это явный признак того, что он живёт не свою первую жизнь, и что его внешность и физические характеристики его тела являются расплатой за ошибки прошлых жизней.

То что описывает Эллиот указывает на то, что он явно жил не первую жизнь, и что в прошлом он мог сам быть забиякой, который дразнил, например, людей меньшего роста.

«I always had a pleasant experience during mother's week. She always arranged playdates for me, because she knew I was too shy to initiate them myself. She always made everything fun. On weekends after dinner, we would have "treat time", where she would bring out a box of candies for me and my sister to choose from."

– Я тоже был стеснительным в детстве, очень стеснительным. Много лет спустя, и в особенности когда я начал активно знакомиться в Московских парках с девушками, я становился всё более и более раскованным, и вскоре наступали времена, когда я мог совершенно спокойно заговорить с любой девушкой…

Я к тому, что возможно маме - да и папе - Эллиота стоило задуматься о том, чтобы научить сына быть общительным и раскрытым парнем, что сделало бы его жизнерадостным.

«The peaceful and innocent environment of childhood where everyone had an equal footing was all over. The time of fair play was at its end. Life is a competition and a struggle, and I was slowly starting to realize it."

– Я скажу снова, что Эллиот не научился быть общительным человеком к его 9 годам – отсюда и видения несправедливости и соперничества. Да, в современном обществе действительно есть некое подобие соперничества, но оно было бы не таким явным фактором, если бы Эллиот научился общаться.

Я знаю о чём говорю, т.к. сам был очень стеснительным в детстве, а речевые проблемы – заикание – ещё больше усугубили мою детскую жизнь, и в итоге я остался в одиночестве. Но есть одно «но»; в деревне я очень долго чувствовал себя комфортно и очень часто от заикания не оставалось и следа; я спокойно общался с моими друзьями – которые были и парнями и девушками. Так вот если не брать в расчёт, что я долгое время был одним из самых младших в нашей компании, я чувствовал себя довольно уверенно. Были моменты, когда я молчал из-за страха говорить с запинками, и моей уверенности окончательно пришёл конец, когда к годам так 15 в нашей компании появились новые люди, и я начал бояться говорить, т.к. не хотел незнакомцев видеть моё заикание. Лишь в 18 лет я узнал о истинной причине заикания и что нужно делать, чтобы говорить без ступоров – но было уже поздно; я был один… ну или я думал так тогда… оглядываясь назад, я всё ещё мог продолжить дружить со старыми товарищами – мне нужно было лишь сделать усилия, чтобы вновь влиться в компанию. Я позволю себе предположить, что Эллиот тоже неправильно интерпретировал его жизненную ситуацию и как результат не сделал правильных действий, чтобы влиться в компанию его сверстников.

Я думаю, что Эллиоту, у которого было всё нормально с речью, было бы гораздо проще научиться общению – но как уже было замечено, по каким-то не совсем ясным причинам его родители не учили его этому. Возможно, они также как и многие другие люди ошибочно полагали, что стеснительность это какая-то болезнь… У меня было много психологических проблем, и я могу сказать, что психологических болезней не существует. Все психологические проблемы являются следствием отсутствия у человека определённых знаний – материальных и\или духовных – о той жизненной ситуации, в которой они находятся. Конечно, ещё важно дисциплинировать себя делать правильные решения и правильно мыслить.
Ещё тут можно упомянуть, что люди сами сделали жизнь борьбой и соперничеством. Мы могли бы жить без денег внутри страны, а также, если бы люди знали про то, что секс может быть полезным для физиологического и физического тела только если между любовниками – женщиной и мужчиной – есть любовь и духовное родство, то наверняка люди не спали бы с кем попало, а старались бы найти такого партнёра, который схож с ними по всем параметрам. Люди бы стали уделять особое внимание внутреннему миру людей, а не только лишь их внешности.

«I realized, with some horror, that I wasn't "cool" at all. I had a dorky hairstyle, I wore plain and uncool clothing, and I was shy and unpopular."
– он понимает, что он стеснительный. Тут можно сказать тоже самое, что и выше – стеснительность – не болезнь. Всё из перечисленного Эллиотом он мог изменить.

«This was the start of an obsession to copy everything the supposed "cool kids" were doing."
– Я рад, что он увидел глупость его действий, манию заниматься тем, к чему не лежит сердце.

Age 9-13

«Fourth grade ended, and once the summer started, I took a vow to mold myself into the coolest kid I could possibly be by the time Fifth grade began. I anticipated the approval the other cool kids would have of me once I reveal myself as being similar to them, and I looked forward to it."
– Это ошибка. Себя действительно нужно изменять, но только если это реально сделает жизнь лучше. Попытка выглядеть как «клёвые парни» не принесёт счастье; что «клёво» сейчас, может выйти из моды завтра… и так будет продолжаться снова и снова… человек сойдёт сума если будет вечно гнаться за модой…

«When I brought it up with father and Soumaya, they said that the room would most likely be Georgia's because it was closer to the master bedroom. They said that I would get a bedroom downstairs, one without my own bathroom or balcony. I was furious, and I threw a huge crying tantrum."

– Что посеешь, то и пожнёшь. Тут видно, что Эллиот не особо заботился о том, что лучше для его младшей сестры, а думал о себе. Стоит ли удивляться, что много лет спустя люди в жизни Эллиота точно также думали о том, что лучше для них, а не для Эллиота?
Я могу рассказать историю из своей жизни. У меня по коридору живёт бабушка, которой уже за 80. Она часто просила меня помогать ей по разным мелочным делам – вроде списания показания счётчиков, или помощи с телевизором. Я помогал ей без всяких негативных эмоций и не ожидая ничего взамен – мне было не трудно помочь пожилому человеку. И вот однажды, та бабушка решила познакомить меня с девушкой, которая недавно поселилась в нашем доме и заходила к той бабушке по своим квартирным делам. Так вот вопрос, стала бы та пожилая женщина утруждать себя, думая о том, как бы познакомить меня с той девушкой, если бы я не помогал ей? И пусть с той девушкой у нас ничего не вышло – не сошлись духовно, так сказать – но я узнал кое-что из нашего с ней общения – и я рад за этот опыт и эти знания.

10 Years Old

«By now, skateboarding wasn't just a sport I was doing to copy the cool kids. I was truly interested in the sport. I even had hopes and dreams of becoming a professional skateboarder. That became my life goal. I loved skateboarding so much. I pictured myself doing amazing tricks in front of a cheering crowd, just like I saw Tony Hawk do in some videos. I pictured the admiration on their faces, and it was awesome."
– Хорошо, что он хотел стать профессиональным скейтбордистом, но вот мечтать о восхищении толпы всё-таки было ошибкой. Я думаю, что лучше концентрировать свои силы и время на самосовершенствовании, а восхищение толпы придёт как результат, если ты будешь искусным мастером своего дела.
Ещё мы можем заметить, что у Эллиота было развито воображение. Я считаю, что эта деталь сыграет роль в его печальном поступке.

«When mother announced that I would have to share it [PS 2] with my sister Georgia and that I can't keep it in my room, my excitement turned to indignation, and I threw quite a tantrum. After crying for a bit, I calmed down and settled to sharing it with Georgia. She wouldn't be using it much anyways, I told myself."
– снова мы видим, что он хотел всё иметь для себя, но не для других – даже не для своей сестры.

«Once I was able to kick the hacky sack properly, I made a big deal of the fact that I was now interested in it."
– До того он научился хорошо кататься на скейтборде… Он мог учиться и преуспевать в оттачивании новых навыков… я не знаю почему Эллиот не решил практиковать и оттачивать навык знакомства и разговора с девочками его возраста… возможно мы найдём ответ дальше?

«Soumaya forced me to befriend some of the neighbor's kids who lived just down the road. They would often skateboard outside of their houses. I was aghast… the prospect of walking up to a bunch of kids who I didn't know and asking to play with them was terrifying to me. They were "cool" skateboarders, and that made it even more intimidating. Of course, I wanted to be friends with them and join in their fun, but I was too scared that they would think I'm weird. I have always been shy by nature."

– Как я уже говорил, стеснение уйдёт если работать над своими навыками общениями, а также над навыками концентрации внимания на реальности, а не на том, что кто-то может подумать о тебе.

Далее я загуглил имя Лаки Радли, и из его интервью стало ясно, что Эллиот никогда не говорил с ним и лишь давал однословные ответы.

«These were kids who I regarded as cool, so I was content with sitting with them."

– Эллиота волновала внешность, показуха, а не то, кем люди были внутри и что он мог узнать от них. Как он мог ожидать хорошего отношения к нему, если он сам не относился к людям с добротой и уважением?

«Despite my struggles to be regarded as "cool" and my obsession with attaining such recognition, Fifth grade was my favorite school year in Elementary School."

– Тут он увидел, что он был одержим заполучить распознание… видел ли он, что он был одержим заполучить секс и любовь, и что это была одна из причин его провала? Знаю это на своём опыте – следует быть просто собой и жить здесь и сейчас, не слишком сильно переживая даже по важным вещам. Ведь когда мы зацикливаемся на чём-то – это видно и на нашем лице и на поведении в виде неуверенности, а люди хорошо видят это со стороны и поэтому могут отвергнуть человека.

«I played with more people than I ever did in previous grades, I was less shy, I wasn't a dork…"

– он заметил это, но я боюсь что так и не понял, что стеснительность – это следствие наших ошибочных решений не учиться правильно социализироваться.

«There was talk of girls, and how it would soon be "cool" to be popular with the girls. Girls were like completely foreign creatures to me. I never interacted with them… I wasn't expected to."

– Во-первых, у него была сестра, с которой он явно разговаривал… во-вторых, девушки – это точно такие же люди, как и парни. Как я узнал на своём опыте – и парни и девушки мыслят одинаково (за исключением того, что связанно с половыми органами) – почитать про разницы в муж\жен телах – но они могут чувствовать себя по разному из-за того, что живут в несколько разных средах – парни в одной компании, а девушки в другой.

«In Elementary School, boys played with boys and girls played with girls. That was what I was used to."

– Именно по этой причине в наше время парни развиваются по одной стороне спектра самоощущения, а девушки по другой.

«I heard stories of how boys are expected to start kissing girls in Middle School!"

– в моём мнении, это ещё одна проблема современного общества, которое довела секс и любовь да ошибочной крайности. В адекватном обществе только пары, желающие быть друг с другом долгое время, должны целоваться и заниматься сексом, а не люди, которые едва знают друг друга… если знают вообще. А поскольку между людьми в идеале должны быть любовь и духовное родство, то не факт, что они найдут друг друга в школе.

«Life is such a cruel joke."

– У меня были тяжёлые времена, когда я имел схожие мысли. Потом я нашёл книгу Мишеля Дэмаркэ «Тиауба: Золотая Планета» и доказал себе её правдивость. Мне стало ясно, что жизнь очень справедлива, а страдаем мы только за свои ошибки, которые совершаем по незнанию. Я не знаю почему Дух создал мир именно таким, почему мы с рождения не могли бы иметь материальные знания о Духе, назначении Вселенной и о некоторых из её законов… но я знаю, что на это есть своя логичная причина.

«I had been trying very hard to get better at skateboarding, but when I saw that there were boys a lot younger than me who could do more tricks, I realized that I sucked. I was never good at sports or any physical activity, and when I discovered skateboarding, I thought that finally here was a sport that I could excel in and even became a professional at. It crushed me a little inside to see that I was a failure at skateboarding after more than a year of practicing it. I could never master the kickflip or heelflip. All I could do was the ollie jump and ride down a few ramps. I saw eight-year-old boys at the skatepark who could do a kickflip with ease, and it made me so angry. Why did I fail at everything I tried? I"

– Это не было его призванием… я не знаю, почему он считает, что он не мог стать мастером тех видов трюков… пробовал ли он мастеровать их?

11 Years Old

«I was much older and I cared more about what people thought of me."

– Ещё одна проблема отсутствия психологического образования. Я считаю, что в начальной школе должны быть уроки элементарной психологии, которые должны научить детей основам психологии и жизни – они должны знать о Высшем Разуме, назначении Вселенной и её основных законах. Это большая тема. Говоря о себе, я перестал переживать о том, что обо мне думают другие, когда я осознал, что все люди совершившие ошибки будут страдать за них – включая меня – это неумолимый закон

Вселенной. Потом я осознал, что мы сами выбираем обижаться – я знаю это по своему опыту т.к. после этого понимания я перестал париться о мнении окружающих. Всё что мне важно, это совершил ли я ошибку или нет. Если да – то мне нужно научиться на ней, понять, что я сделал не так, чтобы больше не совершать ту ошибку и, соответственно, меньше страдать. Причём окружающие люди тоже могут совершать ошибку в том, как они выражают их мнение о тебе – если они хихикают над тобой вместо того, чтобы попытаться помочь – они тоже будут расплачиваться страданием. Нужно помнить, что мы живём на планете 1й категории, и тут полно людей с малых количеством духовных знаний – мало-духовных людей. Ну а если я не сделал ничего плохого и люди негативного мнения обо мне потому, что они или недопонимают меня или просто не очень умны, то тогда тут точно незачем обижаться – они делают ошибку и будут страдать за неё; плюс Вы можете утешить себя мыслью, что Вы более духовный человек, чем они – главное не переборщить и не дотянуть ту мысль до высокомерия.

«I thought all of the cool kids were obnoxious jerks, but I tried as best as I could to hide my disgust and appear “cool” to them. They were obnoxious jerks, and yet somehow it was these boys who all of the girls flocked to. This showed me that the world was a brutal place, and human beings were nothing more than savage animals. Everything my father taught me was proven wrong. He raised me to be a polite, kind gentleman. In a decent world, that would be ideal. But the polite, kind gentleman doesn’t win in the real world. The girls don’t flock to the gentlemen. They flock to the alpha male. They flock to the boys who appear to have the most power and status. And it was a ruthless struggle to reach such a height.”

– Люди – в данном случае девушки – с малым запасом духовных и материальных знаний желают толпиться вокруг «альфа» самцов. Духовные люди дружат с теми, с кем им интересно дружить, а не с теми, кто кажется им «клёвым» (cool)… нужно сказать, что 1 из знакомых Эллиота, давший интервью, сказал, что он даже и не знал, что был популярен среди девушек, он был просто дружелюбным [friend-was-friendly].

Учитывая всё что мы уже знаем о Эллиоте, он вполне мог неправильно трактовать ситуацию, прейдя к неверному выводу о том, кем были люди вокруг него. Да, планета первой категории полна малодуховных людей, но Эллиот значительно снизил яркость в его восприятия жизни.

Ещё быть джентльменом не означает, что нельзя дружелюбно общаться с разными девушками. Вот если человек принижает или оскорбляет девушку, то вот тогда он не джентльмен.

нашёл себе новую жену.. я могу что-то не понимать\знать насчёт реинкарнации..). Он мог бы быть альфа самцом.)

«Thankfully, some kids started reaching out to me, and I had a few chances to integrate within a couple of weeks. The first boy to talk to me was Brice *. He asked me if I had any friends at the school, because he always saw me alone. I admitted that I had no friends, and he offered to be my first friend. I was very grateful for this."

– У него был шанс понять, что точно также и он сам мог бы подходить к девочкам для знакомства – они такие же люди… он мог знать это из его общения с его младшей сестрой… Да, кто-то кто уже имел парня или просто не хотел знакомиться отклонил бы попытку знакомства, но были ли бы и те, кто согласился бы познакомиться.

«One day at school, I was sitting in my class when I was suddenly called to the office. My mother was there, waiting to pick me up. I got into her car, and the three of us drove out of my school and parked on the side of Shoup Avenue. She told us the dire news. James's mother, Kim Ellis, had just passed away from breast cancer. I cried for a bit. Kim was a very kind-hearted person, and the mother of my best friend. She had been suffering from breast cancer for several years, but I never thought she would die from it. I immediately thought of how James must be feeling. He just lost his own mother! It made me think of how horrible I would feel if the same thing happened to my own mother, just the thought alone filled me with pain."

– и много лет спустя, Эллиот оставит множество родителей без детей, забрав их жизни. Я часто думал о том, какое наказание может прийти за неотплаченное убийство. Я думаю, что такой убийца вполне может остаться без родителей, например, в его раннем детстве, что принесёт много страданий и тяжб. Или он может сам потерять горячо любимых детей, смысл всей его жизни, что также принесёт ужасную боль… Вселенная знает множество способов, наказать преступника, а также научить его уроку, чтобы он более не совершал подобных преступлений.

«In order to not be seen as a complete loner at school, I ended up making friends with a kid named Connor Hanrahan. Connor was not a popular kid, because girls didn't like him. Despite this, he was one of the most pompous assholes of the school, even more so than any of the most popular boys. Connor was a true bully. I started hanging out with him during recess and lunch, and we made a few jokes with each other and had a few good laughs, but he would always push me around and act tough. I was so timid back then that I didn't care. I just wanted someone to hang out with.

When I stayed back after school one day, my mother saw me with Connor when she came to pick me up. She has been concerned about me not making any new friends at Pinecrest, and I suppose she was relieved to see me with a "friend". She invited Connor to come over to my house, which he accepted. I was a bit hesitant to invite anyone from Pinecrest to my mother's house, because it was located in Canoga Park, a bad area, and most of the kids at Pinecrest were upper-middle class who would look down on me for living there. But I couldn't back out of this once my mother invited Connor. He came over and all went well, we played a few video games for a couple of hours. But after that playdate, he would always rip on me for living in a "poor" house. He would also tell other kids at Pinecrest about it."

– это, конечно, не мгновенная карма, но наказание пришло довольно быстро за необдуманный выбор друга в виде известного забияки.

«It was at eleven years old when I first started using the internet on a regular basis. The internet was still considered a new phenomenon at the time. Before eleven, I roughly knew how to browse websites and use email, but once I fully immersed myself in it, it really fascinated me. The popular social networking tool at that period was AOL instant messenger, or "AIM". I made my first AIM account on my mother's computer, and she would let have one hour a day to explore it. I joined a few chat rooms. The prospect of talking to strangers from a computer was new and astounding to me."

– я не знаю, если он когда либо спрашивал у тех незнакомцев совета как знакомиться с девушками, и как вести себя с ними.

«With the Xbox, I got the game Halo. At first, I found Halo to be very difficult and I gave up on it a few times. I had no idea that Halo would soon become one of my favorite video game series that I ever played."

– он снова пишет, что сначала он не имел успеха с чем-то, но потом научился и стал успешным в данном деле. Наверняка, писав эти строчки, он мог задуматься о том, что возможно он мог бы научиться общению с девушками, что он мог бы преуспеть с ними после его неудач – снова скажу, что он никогда не подходил знакомиться с девушками, а ожидал, что они сами подойдут к нему.

Он много пишет до этого места: «I felt relieved when summer camp ended. That experience with the mean girl ruined it for me. Hell, it ruined a part of my life. Whenever I think about summer camp I would think about that girl, and my emotions would flare up."

– Снова, мы выбираем обижаться. Он мог бы просто выучить свой урок и не уделять той злобной девочке столько внимания, она того, если верить рассказу Эллиота, не стоила.

12 Years Old

«My initially happy interest in the game Warcraft 3 had an ominous tone to it. This was the beginning of a long relationship with the Warcraft franchise. In less than a year from that point, they would release their ultimate game, World of Warcraft, a game that I would find sanctuary in for most of my teenage years."

– К сожалению, я сам застрял в видеоиграх больше, чем было необходимо. Как результат, я не прокачал себя, в отличии от героев видеоигр. Мне потребовалось несколько лет, чтобы более менее научиться общению с девушками. Я больше не играю в игры, т.к. прокачка себя принесёт куда больше пользы для моей нынешней жизни и для моих последующих жизней.

13 Years Old

«Coincidentally, Julian's parents were friends with Rob *, and I didn't know this at the time. A few years down the line, I would cross paths with Julian again at one of the Lemelson's parties, where I would spitefully envy him for being so confident with everyone."
– ...или он мог бы начать учиться быть уверенным со всеми... он мог бы даже спросить того же Джулиана совета

«When the summer ended, I cried a little. It was such a great summer. I went on a vacation, I saw lots of friends, played lots of games, and enjoyed life to its fullest. Of course, I didn't know at the time that this was the last good summer in my life, but I still cried... as I always do after a joyful experience comes to an end."
– у меня были подобные случаи, когда грусть находила на меня после того, как что-то хорошее заканчивалось... но... что-то закачивается, что-то начинается... Конечно, под лежачий камень вода не течёт, и порой нам следует самим предпринимать усилия для того, чтобы начать новое приключение в нашей жизни...

«I started to take more notice of the kids in lower grades, specifically the Seventh Graders. There was one who came in from Topanga Elementary, the older brother of one of Georgia's friends. His name was Neil *. I observed the popular kids of Seventh Grade... In a way they visually mimicked the popular kids of my own grade. They were all the same, though the Seventh Graders seemed a lot meaner. I noticed that Neil * was starting to be friends with them, even with the pretty girls. I would gradually develop a great envy towards him. Another one was Lucky *, the black kid I played with in father's neighborhood. He transferred to Pinecrest during that very year, and he immediately became popular with the pretty girls of his grade. I hated him for it"
– я уже говорил выше, что Лаки сказал в интервью, что он просто был дружелюбен со всеми – он был общителен; я не думаю, что он лукавил, т.к. он мог бы просто не давать интервью. Вполне может быть, что Эллиот неправильно интерпретировал поведение других детей в его школе, приняв их уверенность в себе за «недоброжелательность». Конечно, он мог быть и прав. Но если говорить обо мне, то у меня в школе было лишь несколько реальных забияк и хулиганов, и я не могу сказать, что они умели видимый успех у девушек.
Конечно, я понимаю, что в США, и в Лос-Анжелесе в частности, дела могли обстоять несколько иначе в плане моральных и духовных качеств людей, учитывая различия в истории и культуре 2х стран.

«Things were getting more intense every year we grew older, and I didn't want to grow up. I wanted to live the life I was comfortable with. I wanted to live in a world of fairness, and I tried not to accept that it would soon come to an end."
– мы живём в справедливом мире. Мы страдаем за все свои ошибки, и мы получаем счастье за все наши правильные решения.
Да, по дизайну Вселенной мы должны рождаться без материальных знаний; мы лишь сохраняем духовные знания в наших душах. Сохранение материальных знаний является задачей общества – всех людей этого общества. Поэтому важно доказать существование реинкарнации, чтобы люди знали, что, кроме всего прочего, их преступления не останутся безнаказанными.

«One day, I was looking up things on the internet about Warcraft 3. That is when I found out about a new, revolutionary Warcraft game coming out, called World of Warcraft. I didn't think much of it at the time, ignorant of the effect it would have on me in my later life" – мне было 16 лет тогда, и это был первый год, когда я имел интернет. Я жалею, что не искал важные для меня вещи... точнее, я искал, но, когда люди на первом же форуме сказали, что они смирились с заиканием, я решил, что это не излечивая болезнь и перестал пытаться изменить ход своей жизни пока мне не исполнилось 18.
И вот я думаю, мог бы Эллиот искать помощи на форумах? Мог бы он попробовать познакомиться с девочкой его возраста в интернете? Это было бы куда легче, чем знакомство в живую, и он приобрёл бы хоть какой-то опыт общения с девушками... а может быть даже и нашёл бы себе девушку.

«Once I hit puberty, I would always want it [sex], like any other boy. I would always hunger for it, I would always covet it, I would always fantasize about it. But I would never get it. Not getting any sex is what will shape the very foundation of my miserable youth."
– Примерно также было и у меня. Я тоже достиг половой зрелости в 13 лет и имел желание иметь секс. К сожалению для меня, я сделал неверное решение начать мастурбировать, чтобы хоть как-то убрать постоянные мысли о сексе. Также как и Эллиот, я подавлял в себе свои желания, вместо того, чтобы попытаться понять причины моих страданий и пытаться найти себе девушку, которая полюбила бы меня таким, каким я был тогда... и я также мог бы быть на пороге массового наказания невинных незнакомцев если бы не мои знания о Тиаубе и реинкарнации... поэтому я делаю это видео, чтобы попробовать помочь таким же людям как и я не делать ошибок, найти любовь внутри себя, и пытаться изменить мир добротой, а не злом.
Стоит также подчеркнуть, что Эллиот пишет слово «фантазировал». Он имел развитое воображение, и неправильно использовал его; это тоже сыграло свою роль в его трагичном решении.

«My mother decided to move to an apartment in Woodland Hills. I reacted indignantly. An apartment! I had never lived in an apartment before, and I always thought of apartments as being poor and lowclass. I would be embarrassed to admit it to anyone.”
– Я всегда жил в однокомнатной квартире. Помню, как школьные друзья играл у меня в PS One, и после этого один из забияк говорил кому-то, что я живу в однокомнатной квартире… и что? Я больше думал о том, что мои друзья говорили обо мне и о том, как я живу… но сейчас я понимаю, что они могли сделать это между словом, без всяких задних мыслей, а хулиган нашего класса уже использовал ту информацию в его корыстных целях. Потом, в Нью-Йорке многие люди живут в квартирах, и многие из них состоятельные люди… да в Москве полно богатых, которые нормально себя чувствуют в квартирах… проще говоря, Эллиот снова показал, что у него было мало пониманий о мире вокруг него, что сделало его видение мира искажённым и окрасило мир в более тёмные краски, чем он есть на самом деле.
Лично я и сам предпочитаю дом, а не квартиру, из-за того, что шумные соседи уже надоели стучать друг другу по трубам… в доме такой проблемы не было бы, но могли бы быть другие проблемы… например, частный дом легче ограбить грабителям, чем квартиру в многоквартирном доме.

«My mother’s new apartment was not walking distance from Planet Cyber, and I was a bit embarrassed to show that I lived in an apartment, so I stopped seeing any friends”
– если бы детей учили Законам Вселенной, причинам существования Вселенной, а также психологии, я думаю людям было бы проще жить и функционировать в нашем материальном мире… мне то уж точно стало гораздо легче, а значит эти знания могут помочь и другим.
Тут ещё можно отметить, что если бы Эллиот попытался бы продолжить дружбу и его друзья оказались бы такими низкими, что смеялись бы над ним и его новым жильём, рассказывали бы сплетни о нём, то Эллиот всё равно остался бы без друзей – и он не был бы причиной распада дружбы, а так он просто сдался из-за своих собственных психологических проблем – когда мы видим проблему там, где её физически не существует. Это всё в нашей голове, в нашем восприятии мир а, а восприятие зависит от материальных и духовных знаний, которые мы имеем… Эллиот, к сожалению, не понимал этого

«This was the point when my social life ended completely. I would never have a satisfying social life ever again. It was the beginning of a very lonely period of my life, in which my only social interactions would be online through video games, with the sole exception being my friendship with James. The ability to play video games with people online temporarily filled in the social void. I got caught up in it, and I was too young and naïve to realize the severity of how far I had fallen. I was too scared to accept it. This loss of a social life, coupled with the advent of puberty, caused me to die a little inside. It was too much for me to handle, and I stopped caring about my life and my future. I even stopped caring about what people thought of me. I hid myself away in the online World of Warcraft, a place where I felt comfortable and secure."

– это было тяжело читать, т.к. я увидел себя в нескольких моментах. Я тоже застрял в видеоиграх вместо того, чтобы стараться работать над собой и своей жизнью. Плюс ко всему, моё развитое воображение помогало мне уйти от одиночества. И игры и воображение также заполнили пустоту моей жизни, и я тоже был наивным тогда, чтобы видеть, что происходит со мной, что я теряю свою жизнь...

Age 13-17

Стр. 42 – On the first day me and my sister... - но ведь его сестра относилась к нему хорошо? Так? Он мог видеть, что не все женщины плохо относятся к нему. Увы, мало духовные люди склонны поляризировать их видение мира, лишь приобретая духовные знания, они начнут понимать, что в мире полно оттенков серого, а также много других цветов... и мы ещё не начинаем говорить про остальные 4 чувства...

Стр. 42 – The teasing I received was... - за все ошибки нужно платить страданием. Эллиот не знал этого и в этом 1 из его проблем.
I never knew how to get positive attention, only negative. – не знал и не пытался найти ответ в интернете вместо того, чтобы играть в игры всё свободное время. Другие парни наверняка занимались саморазвитием, преодолевали свои страхи и неуверенность – как логичный результат таких действий, у многих из них были и друзья, и девушки.

«For the summer break, I planned on spending the whole time playing WoW and forgetting about everything else. I reached the highest level on my WoW character: level 60. I actually considered this to be a huge and important accomplishment. I joined a guild with my character, and I made a few online friends though it."
– я знаю истории, когда люди находили себе мужей и жён через WoW. Есть много способов найти себе вторую половину.

14 Years Old

«As I expected, I failed to make any new friends. I was so overwhelmed by the brutality of the world that I just didn't care anymore. On the very first week, I had my first experience of true bullying, not just the teasing I had at Pinecrest. Some horrible Twelfth Graders saw me as a target because I looked like a ten year old and I was physically weak. They threw food at me during lunchtime and after school. It enraged me, but I was too scared to do anything about it. What kind of horrible, depraved people would poke fun at a boy younger than them who has just entered high school? I thought to myself."
– во-первых, поведение тех парней реально ужасно и отвратительно, а в их пренебрежении к более слабому показало насколько они жалки и слабы внутри. Во-вторых, Эллиот наверняка уже планировал его массовый расстрел, когда он писал свой манифест – не задумывался ли он о том, что он сам станет тем, кого он так сильно презирал всю жизнь? – a horrible, depraved person?

«My life at Crespi got even worse. Alfred and Brice apparently told everyone how weird I was at Pinecrest, and people in my own grade started to tease me. They found out that I didn't like being called a skateboarder, and it was true. Because I failed to become good at skateboarding, I developed a hatred for the sport, and whenever someone called me a skateboarder, it reminded me of my failure and I got very angry. The whole school started calling me it just to anger me, along with other insulting names. They teased me because I was scared of girls, calling me names like "f". People also liked to steal my belongings and run away in an attempt to get me to chase after them. And I did chase after them in a furious rage, but I was so little and weak that they thought it was comical. I hated everyone at that school so much."

– с хочу напомнить, что Эллиот сам начал действовать странно, чтобы получить внимание в средней школе. Он сам написал об этом. И вот пришло его наказание за его ошибку, одно из наказаний. Что посеешь, то и пожнёшь...

Сам факт того, что Эллиот решил пойти в школу для мальчиков было ошибкой... он думал, что девочки были злыми и искал спасения в школе без девочек, и вот жизнь показала ему, что он ошибался.

«The boys in my grade talked about sex a lot. Some of them even told me that they had sex with their girlfriends. This was the most devastating and traumatizing thing I've ever heard in my life. Boys having sex at my age of Fourteen? I couldn't fathom it. How is it that they were able to have such intimate and pleasurable experiences with girls while I could only fantasize about it? I frequently started asking myself. This was an all-boys school... How in the hell were those boys even able to meet girls to have sex with? I wondered. I hoped they were lying. I hoped against all hope."

– я не думаю, что он потерял бы многое, если бы просто прямо спросил их: «Как вы познакомились с вашими девушками?». Может быть, они бы сжалились над ним и дали ли бы пару советов, как подходить к девушкам и общаться с ними, ну и что ему надо работать над прокачкой себя, а не над прокачкой персонажа в Варкрафте.

«These recent events cause me to withdraw even further away from the world. I drowned all of my misery in my online games. World of Warcraft was the only thing I had left to live for. My grades at Crespi dropped dramatically. I just didn't care anymore. I hated that school. I didn't think about my future. The only thing I gave any serious thought to was my WoW character. I had become very powerful in the game, and I was in one of the best guilds. With this guild, I participated in lots of five-hour raid events to collect better gear and armor for my character."

– Увы, когда я был в 10-11 классах, я тоже почти престал ходить в школу из-за проблем с речью, а также из-за того, что пусть одна девушка хотела, чтобы я был её парнем, я просто не мог заговорить с ней, т.к. никогда не учился общению из-за своей стеснительности, которую я имел в детстве. Но в последние годы я работал над собой и старался активно знакомиться с девушками в парках города – лучше поздно, чем никогда, как говорится – и сейчас у меня почти нет стеснения. А о причинах речевых проблем я узнал в 18 лет.

«Mother moved to a new house with a swimming pool that she was able to lease for a fair price. She picked me and my sister up from father's house and took us there as a surprise. It was located near the old blue house, though in a nicer area. This was on a day that I had an event on WoW in the afternoon, and I was very concerned about whether or not I would make it in time, so when we got to the new house I didn't even look around and immediately hooked up my laptop to play WoW. I was that obsessed."
– хорошо, что он мог видеть это. Признание ошибки является важным шагом в её устранении.

«I was completely and utterly alone. No one knew me or extended a hand to help me. I was an innocent, scared little boy trapped in a jungle full of malicious predators, and I was shown no mercy. Some boys randomly pushed me against the lockers as they walked past me in the hall. One boy who was tall and had blonde hair called me a "loser", right in front of his girlfriends. Yes, he had girls with him. Pretty girls. And they didn't seem to mind that he was such an evil bastard. In fact, I bet they liked him for it. This is how girls are, and I was starting to realize it. This was what truly opened my eyes to how brutal the world is. The most meanest and depraved of men come out on top, and women flock to these men. Their evil acts are rewarded by women; while the good, decent men are laughed at. It is sick, twisted, and wrong in every way. I hated the girls even more than the bullies because of this. The sheer cruelty of the world around me was so intense that I will never recover from the mental scars. Any experience I ever had before never traumatized me as much as this."
– ужасно, что с ним так поступали. Я уже говорил о некоторых вещах ранее – не все девушки одинаковые, также как и не все парни одинаковые; нельзя судить всех по действиям некоторых мало духовных людей, и наверняка в его новой школе было много нормальных людей, но он не видел их. Тот парень, который назвал Эллиота неудачником сам будет неудачником в одной из его следующих жизней – а может быть и в этой, кто знает – и тогда он познает все муки жизни, и он сам будет виной такой жизни. Конечно, обществу следует работать над тем, чтобы такие случаи спадали на нет – т.к. люди делают то, что принесёт им счастье основываясь на их материальных и духовных знаниях, то нужно правильно образовывать детей с раннего возраста. Я поговорю об этом в конце, а также в другом видео (дать ссылку на манифест, если к тому времени я уже сделаю его)

Говоря о девушках, то они могли бы быть парнями в их прошлых жизнях, и теперь должны существовать в женском теле. Психика – это одно из тел человека, которое бессмертно, и есть вероятность, что психика также как и Астральное тело сохраняет в себе некоторые данные – т.е. человек может перенести в новую жизнь некоторые из его психологических взглядов на мир. Если парень в прошлой жизни был задирой, то меня не удивит если он, существуя в его следующей жизни уже в женском теле, будет тащиться от плохих парней.

«One drawback was that I had to take the bus to school because my parents couldn't pick me up at such an early time of the day. Though it was embarrassing, I didn't care about appearances anymore, so I didn't make a big deal out of it."
– по крайней мере он начал хоть как-то идти к пониманию, что внешность – это не всё. Но из того, что я видел в его последних видеороликах, он явно не получил полного понимания этого.

«My father's career as a commercial director hadn't been as successful as it was a couple years before. He foolishly decided to invest all of his money in his first feature film, a documentary named "Oh My God". In the film, he would interview various people about their opinions on religion and God. To make it, he took off to travel all over the world for a few months. Despite this, the one week-one week arrangement remained, and during father's week I had to stay at father's house with only Soumaya. This frustrated me tremendously, because Soumaya has always been a pain to live with, and she would obstruct my time on WoW. I was hopeful about father's movie, however. He kept talking about how he will become very rich from it, and I fostered a hope that he would become rich. How naïve I was… the movie would only bankrupt him in the future."
– есть мнение в кинобизнесе, что если во время съёмки фильма вы думаете о прибыли и деньгах, то ваш фильм провалится с 90% шансом. Это логично, т.к. думая о прибыли, которую мы хотим верить картина принесёт в будущем человек имеет мало времени подумать над её качеством, над тем как доработать её – жажда денег заволакивает наш разум и мы плохо видим важные детали вещей. Потом, мы не знаем будущего, и говорить, что что-то произойдёт в будущем с 100% уверенностью является ошибкой. Интересно отметить, что отец Эллиота, взрослый человек, не знал этого – если верить рассказу Эллиоту.

«At father's house, in the beginning of the summer, I was introduced to someone who I would hate for a very long time: Leo Bubenheim. Alex Bubenheim married a German woman named Karina who had just moved to the U.S. with her two kids: Leo and Pollina, who became Alex's step-children. They would then always come over as a family. Leo was 12 years old, and Pollina was a year younger than me. My fear of girls made me keep my distance from Pollina. She was a total bitch anyway, and her attitude would only get worse. She is a true representative of everything I hate about women."

– К сожалению Эллиот не описывает Полину, и мы не можем судить о ней. Я хочу сказать, что люди могут меняться, если они увидят неправильность их действий, если они поймут, что другое действие принесёт им пользу. Если Эллиот был прав насчёт девочки, то что он сделал, чтобы помочь ей измениться? Понятно, что он не научился нормально говорить с людьми, но он мог бы попробовать… она была почти его возраста и вполне могла бы стать его девушкой…
На этой планете 1й категории тяжело найти идеального человека, т.к. все люди, живущие тут, пока ещё имеют минимум духовных знаний, и как следствие делают ошибки. А шибка, говоря кратко, это всё то, что так или иначе причиняет страдание какой-либо частичке Высшего Разума. Нам нужно учиться жить с проблемами других, стараться понять их и помочь им своей поддержкой, поделиться своими знаниями с ними, если мы видим точную причину их проблем.

«When I first met Leo, I didn't think much of him. He was only twelve years old. I just thought of him as Lukas's new older brother. I had no inkling of how much I will envy and hate him later on. Soon enough, my jealousy of Leo began to manifest. He had just moved to the U.S. from Germany, and yet he was already able to make lots of friends and had a great social life. He was tall, good looking, blonde-haired, and a skateboarder; the type of person I've always envied and wanted to be"
– У Эллиота был выбор научиться у Лео, посмотреть, да или даже спросить, что тот делает такого, что у него есть друзья, а у Эллиота нет… я не думаю, что Эллиот знает ответ на этот вопрос; как он писал ранее – он не знал, как получать позитивное внимание от людей, лишь негативное. Проще говоря, Эллиот не понимал, что под лежащий камень вода не течёт, как говориться, и его бездействие в плане самообучения социальной жизни приводит к логичному следствию – он не знает как другим удаётся так просто заводить знакомства… а ответ прост, они просто заводят разговоры с людьми – с некоторыми завязываются дружеские отношения, а с кем-то пути расходятся.
Я, к сожалению, не эксперт в общении, т.к. сам был как Эллиот, но я попытался изменить себя и сейчас я могу спокойно смотреть на разные реалии жизни вокруг меня, например, меня уже не так сильно парит, что многие люди имеют секс, а я нет. Я ищу девушку, я стараюсь общаться с ними, я стараюсь развиваться, узнавая что-то новое – что помогает мне духовно, т.к. я приобретаю новые духовные знания, а также это даёт новые темы для разговора с девушками.

«The party was a pool party, and my brother Jazz had full exposure to the swimming pool. He had already learned how to walk, but he couldn't swim. At one instance as I was eating lunch, I saw Jazz quickly run off from the adults, completely unattended. I then watched as he curiously examined the water, and then descended into steps of the shallow end of the pool. Before long, he lost his footing on the steps and his whole body sank into the water. Nobody noticed. He was going to drown, I thought with panic. I ran as fast as I could, plunging into the water with my clothes still on, and pulled him out. I asked him how he was doing, and he coughed up some water and told me he felt fine. The only person who saw this happen was a little girl who was swimming in the shallow end. I saved his life, and my brother remembers it to this very day. Every single second of my brother's life, everything that happens to him in the future, will exist because I pulled him out of the water that day."

– Это было очень мужественно со стороны Эллиота. Он молодец, что спас жизнь человеку… но это не даёт иммунитет к Законам Вселенной и право отнимать жизни у других людей.

«I celebrated my 16th Birthday at mother's house. She bought me an Xbox 360, which had just been released. I didn't play it yet though, because the only game I wanted for it was Halo 3, which was set to come out in November. I was really looking forward to that game. It was supposed to be the best Halo game of all time. After I blew out my candles, I remember going outside and sitting by my mother's pool to contemplate my life. Sixteen… what an age to be. I still felt like I was twelve. Most teenagers will start driving at this age… I couldn't even fathom myself driving. The thought of it scared me."

– Эллиот научиться водить в будущем. Он записал несколько видеороликов из его машины. Тут важно отметить, что он боялся мысли о вождении, не мог представить себя за рулём, но в итоге он научился водить… ещё он боялся девушек, не мог представить себя с ними – и он мог бы научиться и преодолеть те страхи тоже. Он мог. У меня ушло несколько недель, чтобы познакомиться с первой девушкой, к которой я сам подошёл знакомиться, когда я хотел познакомиться со второй девушкой, я всё ещё сильно волновался… я работал над своими необоснованными страхами, и в итоге я абсолютно спокойно подошёл к девушке, которая сидела среди толпы людей, и также полностью спокойно спросил её если она хотела бы познакомиться со мной. Она согласилась. Дальнейшую историю вы можете посмотреть (ТУТ – ССЫЛКА), важно тут то, что я мог быть полностью уверенным в себе человеком.

Как? Наше внимание может быть сфокусирован только на двух вещах – наш внутренний мир, включающий в себя воспоминания, фантазии и размышления, и мы можем фокусироваться на окружающем нас мире с помощью наших органов чувств, их пять в физическом мире. Так вот неуверенные люди находятся в своём внутреннем мире, когда им следует быть сфокусированными на том, что происходит вокруг них в настоящем времени. Медитация и концентрация могут помочь достичь контроля над своими мыслями и вниманием. Ну и конечно нужно знать, о чём говорить с людьми во время знакомства – что значит учиться, учиться и ещё раз учиться!

16 Years Old

«I had one playdate with Jeffrey as well. Philip and his family went on a vacation to Catalina, and Jeffrey wanted to stay at home. I went to his house for a sleepover with just him there. Jeffrey had changed a lot. He was now Fourteen, and he told me he had a girlfriend. I was shocked, amazed, and envious. I wondered how an immature brat like Jeffrey could have a girlfriend at such a young age. I had the dreaded suspicion that he had already had sex with her, and I tried not to think about it. I was deeply jealous, but for the sake of our past friendship and the good times we had together in the past, I hid that envy well enough."

– ещё одна возможность просто спросить друга о том, как он и его девушка познакомились, о чём они говорили при знакомстве, о чём они любят говорить будучи в отношениях - намотать себе на ус немного знаний, чтобы самому попробовать познакомиться с девушкой, а не ждать пока девушка решит подойти к нему сама. Увы, некоторое время я и сам ждал, что девушки сами подойдут ко мне знакомиться, но в моём случае это было отчасти связанно ещё и с тем, что девушки реально пару раз подходили знакомиться ко мне, если говорить кратко.

«My sex drive was at its peak at this age. Whenever I got back from school, I had to masturbate. The urge was too strong. During my masturbation sessions I often built elaborate fantasies in my mind that I had a hot, blonde-haired girlfriend to have passionate sex with; almost like having an imaginary girlfriend."

– Как я уже отмечал, Эллиот умел использовать воображение, но он использовал его не по назначению. В будущем будет видно, что он стал несколько странным в том, как он смотрит его глазами – видно, что он мечтает. К сожалению, Эллиот скорее всего он не видел этого – а ведь это одна из причин почему девушки не хотели иметь с ним дела – он сделал себя Creep.

« Father suffered through a deep financial setback because of his movie. Could things get any worse for me? As a result, my father abruptly cut off all of the child-support payments he was paying my mother. My mother was forced to find a better-paying job to make up for it, and she had to move out of her house to a condominium close by. Thankfully, Rob Lemelson offered her a job in his production company, Elemental Productions. This new job enabled my mother to make enough money to live comfortably. We hadn't seen the Lemelsons much since the last time we went trick-or-treating with them years ago. It was good to reconnect with them.

I missed mother living in an actual house, but at least the new place was a condominium, with more luxuries than the apartment we once lived in. The condominium had three bedrooms, and my room had its own bathroom. The bad part about this condominium was its location in Canoga Park, a lower-class area. I hated telling people that my mother lived in Canoga Park. It was highly embarrassing for me. But alas, in that lonely and depressing stage of my life, there was no one really to tell, and I barely cared about what people thought of me anyway. I was a complete dork, stuck in my own little world.»

- Это был хороший момент, чтобы понять, что с капиталистической системой что-то не так, что люди могут усердно работать, но при этом у них есть финансовые проблемы.

«In the Spring, something horrible happened that will haunt me forever. We met up with the Bubenheims at the Sagebrush Cantina in Calabasas, and a friend of Pollina's was there with them, named Nicole, a girl around my age. She sat next to Leo the whole time, and by the end of the dinner, the two of them were making out. Twelve-year-old Leo was making out with a girl who was almost my age. Not only does Leo have a better social life, but now he was making out with girls, AT AGE TWELVE! They made out for a long time, and I could see them tongue kiss. They knew I was watching with envy, and they still did it. I bet that lucky bastard took great satisfaction from my envy. There I was, watching a boy four years younger than me experience everything I've longed for... to kiss a girl... to be worthy of a girl's attraction. On that day, I developed a vicious hatred for Leo that will never go away»

- в книге Тиауба: Золотая Планета говориться, что мы на пороге моральной и духовной катастрофы. Я часто вижу, что так оно и есть, и Лео с Николь тому очередное подтверждение. В так называемой сексуальной революции люди перескочили через золотую середину сексуальных отношений и попали в ловушку крайности, где многие в обществе готовы целоваться и заниматься сексом с первым встречным понравившимся человеком, люди не думают о том, чтобы создавать пару основываясь на общих интересах и духовном родстве. Секс – это более чем нормальная вещь, но только если между людьми разных полов от рождения есть любовь и духовное родство. Почему? Вы можете (ПОСМОТРЕТЬ В ВИДЕО ПРО СЕКС И ПАЛАТНИУС).

«Another horrible experience concerning the Bubenheims occurred. We were having dinner at their house, like we usually did. At the end of the dinner, a few of Pollina's friends came over. They were all popular, good looking girls and boys. They were the kind of people who I've always had the desire to be a part of, but was never able to fit in with. Popular kids... cool kids. When I heard them talking about their awesome lives and their parties, I had a breakdown right then and there. I realized how much I've been missing out in my life, and I cried in front of everyone. I felt like I would never have a life as good as theirs. I told everyone that I wanted to commit suicide. Father, Soumaya, Alex, and Karina talked to me for three hours to cheer me up.»

- it's sad, I know what it's like because I myself missed out on a lot of things due to my stuttering and daydreaming problems I had in school, but both Elliot and me brought the sad consequences of being lonely and missing out on what 21st century life had to offer by ourselves.

«It was at this time that I was just beginning to realize, with a lot of clarity, how truly unfair my life is. I compared myself to other teenagers and became very angry that they were able to experience all of the things I've desired, while I was left out of it. I never had the experience of going to a party with other teenagers, I never had my first kiss, I never held hands with a girl, I never lost my virginity. In the past, I felt so inferior and weak from all of the bullying that I just accepted my lonely life and dealt with it by playing WoW, but at this point I started to question why I was condemned to suffer such misery.»

- he brought it on himself. The misery he experiences is the direct consequences of his wrong decisions – both in his present life and in his previous lives he lived – it's clear now that he did and made mistakes in them. As for the mistakes he made living the life of Elliot Rodger, he never tried to properly learn how to be social – making friends with the guys he called 'cool' wasn't enough, he needed to make friends with girls and he didn't. In my opinion that's the problem.

«There was nothing I could really do about my unfair life situation. I felt completely powerless. The only way I could deal with it was to continue to drown all of my troubles with my online games.»

- to be fair, it baffles me why even after all of this no one of the adults tried to teach Elliot how to talk to people? I'm sure there are courses in LA that can help people lift their self-confidence. But also to teach him that the world isn't black and white – there are good people out there – both boys and girls.

17 Years Old

«During the trip, we visited the town of Arles where we stayed in the hotel that Max's family owns. Max told me about all of the sexual experiences he had. I never knew he had such an active sex life. The more he talked to me about it, the more envious I became. I questioned to myself why he got to experience such an amazing life, while I had to suffer so much loneliness and humiliation. I was introduced to some of the girls he had sex with in the past, and they were all pretty. On top of that, his family was extremely wealthy and they owned a sprawling mansion in the countryside. Where's the justice? I thought. Why couldn't I have been born into that life?»

- Max is probably a relatively new soul who hadn't made a lot of errors before he was born into the life of Max; but don't worry, he'll have to suffer the consequence of having sex with all those girls – because it's clear there was no love between them. Maybe he'll be lonely too just like Elliot – and that's that answer why Elliot wasn't born into that life – based on what he wrote so far and what I understand about reincarnation, there's a possibility he could have lived the life similar to Max's life, a life full of casual sex with pretty girls he had to love for, and he might have been a rich man too in that life; the life of Elliot Rodger was supposed to show him the wrongfulness of his actions, to show what the consequences of those wrong decisions are and how they make other people suffer by living a lonely life, while someone else has had sex with dozens if not hundreds (and in a case of people who work in porn thousands) of people.

«After three weeks in France doing exciting social things, I returned to my lonely life in the U.S., where I became even more depressed than I was in the beginning of summer, especially after getting a taste of what life was truly like for normal people. I knew I could never live such a pleasurable life, and the knowledge haunted me.»

- it's not knowledge. No one knows what futures holds in store for him or her. What it was is his misunderstanding of the real reasons for his misery…

«I was back to my routine of World of Warcraft. At least the new expansion was coming out soon, and I tried to look forward to that.»

- and this next senses pretty much is one of those reasons. The time spent on the game – which btw pretty much only exists because the game developer wants to make money – could have been spent on reading online forums and websites teaching how to be a social human being. Or maybe he could have asked the questions himself. It did help me – a lot; thanks to the forums I found the answers to many of my questions, and my life because happier as the result. It also helped me to know that I wasn't alone in my struggles and there were people who were willing to help others.

«When Twelfth Grade began, I made a vow to finish high school before the month of March. The high school system at Independence allows students to work at their own pace, so the more extra work I did, the sooner I could graduate. I was always depressed and bored for the few hours a day I had to spend there, and I disliked all of the degenerate, low-class students there."

– bruh…

"They repulsed me. I wanted to get out of there as fast as I could, and it became my goal for the year. At the end of school time every day I asked my teachers to give me extra homework assignments, and I stopped myself from playing WoW until I completed them."

– even though for wrong reasons, Elliot actually learned a bit to self-discipline – that's a good thing required on this planet – self-discipline.

"One day I found some posts on the internet about teenagers having sex, and I was once again reminded of the life I had been denied. I felt that no girl would ever want to have sex with me…"

– he could have asked girls if they would want to have sex with him. Even online. I don't even know why he didn't have an account at some dating website? Writing can be easier than talking when you lack social skills.

“And I developed extreme feelings of envy, hatred, and anger towards anyone who has a sex life.”
– did he hate his parents too then? See? Life isn’t black and white and our feelings and judgements should be either. Also, what about people who have sex only after marriage? Surely, they’re not to be hated for their moral standards! (I gotta note that I think it’s okay if people have sex without marrying provided they truly want to be together as a family).

“I began to have fantasies of becoming very powerful and stopping everyone from having sex. I wanted to take their sex away from them, just like they took it away from me.”
– but did he imagine this: ‘A guy has to go through hell in his path to overcoming his shyness and psychological issues. After having learned how to live a happy life by himself, he’s rewarded by getting acquainted with a girl who also had to go through a lot in her life. After weeks of dating, they realize they want to be together and they decide to have sex.’ – why should they be taken their well deserved happiness from them? They did not wrong anyone in achieving their love and sexual experiences. I understand that Elliot was very upset about his life situation, but that’s the problem… he was so upset that he forgot all the times he was a good person, a person who saved his little brother’s life. His misery clouded his mind so much it seems that he didn’t realize he was becoming and was imagining of becoming like the very people he hated.

“I spent more time studying the world, seeing the world for the horrible, unfair place it is. I then had the revelation that just because I was condemned to suffer a life of loneliness and rejection, doesn’t mean I am insignificant. I have an exceptionally high level of intelligence. I see the world differently than anyone else. Because of all of the injustices I went through and the worldview I developed because of them, I must be destined for greatness. I must be destined to change the world, to shape it into an image that suits me!”
– Killing random people because you never actually approached a single girl to get acquainted with, and yet you think girls you never spoke with somehow denied you sex, isn’t the sign of ‘high level of intelligence’.

“What a bitter coincidence, that right at the point when my life fell even deeper into agony, my father is cursed with this financial crisis. Right at the time when I needed my father’s support the most, he lost all of his assets. It was as if some malevolent being cursed me with bad luck. I truly had no advantage at all. The universe was not kind to me.”
– I’ve already talked about the Universal Law and how life is actually fair and kind. If your action brought suffering to someone else, it’s only fair that you should pay the penalty for your own mistake by suffering in order to learn that that action is wrong. That’s how spiritual knowledge is gained.

“On one dreadful day, when I was riding my bicycle near Calabasas, a group of popular teenagers in an SUV drove by and made fun of me. I suppose my appearance didn’t help with that. I looked exactly like the outcast I was. I was still wearing plain polo shirts and khaki pants at the time, covered with a blue zip up hoodie and a black baseball cap. It was a torturous experience, and the pain I felt from it never went away. All I wanted was to fit in with those popular kids who lived such pleasurable lives, but instead I was ridiculed and reviled by them. T" – he again fails to see that the 'popular' – in his opinion – kids who lived 'pleasurable' – in his opinion – lives were not very good people who are not to be envied in any way. In fact, they were just as pitiful as Elliot if they think that appearances and clothes one wears matter. One of Elliot's problems – he wanted to fit with the wrong people. It's not like other guys don't have girlfriends and sex.

"My misery became harder and harder to bear, and none of my parents understood my plight. My father thought that all was well with me. How could he be so blind? He was so caught up in his failing work that he didn't care about how my life was turning out. I cursed him for it. My father never made any effort to prepare me for facing such a cruel world. He never taught me how to attract girls. He never warned me that if I didn't attract girls at an early age, my life would fall into a miserable pit of despair! Again… How could he be so blind? I asked myself constantly."

– good question.

He writes how he concluded that he could not just give up on having the life he wanted if he never tried to get it. That's a good conclusion. The he writes how he, alongside his mother and sister, went shopping for new clothes for him; he also had a new haircut. That's good too if it makes him feel more confortable. But I'm sad that even at this stage no one taught him the most important thing – communication. If you don't know how to talk to people – chances are you won't have a girlfriend even if a girl approaches you herself. Sad to say I know it from my personal experiences. When I still had my looks as a teenager a girl wanted me to be her boyfriend. I agreed but that was it. I did not learn how to talk or what to talk about, and she became not interested in me once she realized I'm boring.

So, even if Elliot was approached by a girl, chances are they'd have no relationship because Elliot clearly didn't know how to be social. Of course, the situation would change if he'd work on acquiring the necessary social skills, learning how to talk. As you can see, the solution to his problem was very simple; just as it was for me.

"Without hope, I just couldn't go on any longer. I needed to feel hope. Hope for the future, hope for a better life. Upon feeling this, I realized that perhaps it is possible for me to have the things I desire; to have a great social life again, to have a girlfriend, to have sex, to have all of the pleasures I've desperately craved for so long. It was refreshing"

– this is great attitude! You have to be positive about life. And I'm glad he finally realized the foolishness of his idea that he'd never have a girlfriend – no one knows the future.

“I made a new Facebook profile (which I still use to this day) in an effort to improve my social life. Having been so lost in my own world for the last four years, I didn’t know much about these new social networking sites such as Facebook and Myspace.”
– I find it interesting that Elliot was also lost for 4 years in his own world – I too was lost for 4 years – and also from 14 to 18 years - in my own world before I found out the true reason people stutter; after that finding I also tried to change my life.

18 Years Old

“Every day, I tried to make some effort to go out looking for ways to improve my life. I felt that staying in my room was a waste of time. I knew what I wanted, but I had no idea how to get it. I frequently went on walks around my mother’s neighborhood in the desperate hope that someone would befriend me or a girl would talk to me. Nothing of the sort ever happened.”
– same old song. He did the right thing by going outside instead of sitting home, but when you want to find a girlfriend, you have to approach them yourself. Modern girls are not telepathic, sadly, and they can’t know that a guy who walks by them is looking for a girlfriend. Btw, telepathy is real, as I came to know on my personal experiences; people can learn to be telepathic. Depending on the society you live in, there’s a chance a girl will approach you, but they are slim. And if you approach women yourself, you can potentially talk to someone each day; and chances are you’ll find someone who’s right for you eventually.

“Sometimes I walked all the way up to the Overlook, as my mother’s apartment was just around the other side of it; And sometimes I walked to the Calabasas Commons, where I would hang out at Barnes & Noble, reading books, always with the hope that some young people would reach out and befriend me, but no one ever did.”
– same as before. Also, I’d like to remind you that even if some girl would approach Elliot, chances are nothing long-lasting would come out of it as he didn’t know how to talk to people – that’s what he needed to realize at that crucial time; that’s why he needed to start approaching and befriending girls himself – with the immediate goal to learn to talk, to acquire social skills he lacked, and not to find a girlfriend and have sex. It’s important psychologically to have smaller, easier to achieve goals on the path to your grand goals – mind you, we’re talking here the goals that can actually be achieved by all people. It’s like driving from New York to LA, you’ll get there eventually, but before that you’ll have to dive by many towns, cities, fields, forests, rivers and whatever else is along the way.

“Mother had a small get-together at the beach house, and she invited James and his family, along with some other friends. James didn’t show up, but his father Arte did. To my surprise, Maddy Humpreys and her mother came over. Seeing Maddy for the first time in six years was a very peculiar experience. The last time we saw each other, we were just kids.

Now, she was a fully-grown teenage girl, and from looking through her Facebook pictures, I knew she was popular. She was a typical pretty girl who had lots of pretty friends. She was one of them, one of the popular kids. My first friend in America, someone I played with innocently as a child, had grown up to represent the type of people who have caused me so much pain in my life…"

– they didn't cause him any pain. It's literally impossible to cause someone pain by looking a certain way. What about the pain people actually feel then? It's all psychological. I've been there too and I know for a fact that we ourselves choose to be upset or offended by the presence of someone or something, we can also choose to be happy instead. Needless to say, actually moving toward becoming the better and more educated person will help a lot too in building the self-esteem and positive view on life around you.

Elliot continues - "…I was very nervous talking to her, as I had no experience with talking to young girls, but I had to make the effort. She seemed weirded-out by my awkwardness. It was cringe-worthy."

– 'I had no experience with talking to young girls'. He can see the cause, but why he can't see the simple solution, of which I talked about before? Actually, that might be the problem – he made the life look so complicated than it actually is, and the solution was too simple for him to see clearly. I've observed this phenomenon several times in my life; it's interesting how life and our psychology work sometimes.

Elliot then writes how one of his friends was able to get popular with the so called 'popular' guys – like popular in whose eyes? Then that friend apparently was thinking of Elliot as of a loser.

It's interesting to note something here. Elliot wrote how as a boy the kids he called 'popular' were interested in Pokémon cards, but then those 'popular' kids were interested in skateboarding. Elliot followed their interests both times. Then it was women and sex, where Elliot was not able to succeed due to the lack of critical piece of knowledge regarding life and people's social interactions in it. I've talked about it before. The point being, you'd be better off minding your own life and what skills you actually want to learn in it and not what other people want to learn. We're all different, we all have our own interests. Had Elliot worked on honing the skills of the things he actually liked, he'd have more chances of meeting people with similar interests, including girls.

"After that last experience with Philip and Addison, my attitude changed. My newfound optimism about life subsided, and I began feeling intense anger and hatred towards the world again. The way Addison treated me made me realize what the world thinks of me."

– not the world, but just Addison and maybe several other people like him. Since they choose to act negatively towards other people, getting upset at them only goes towards empowering them. The best punishment you can do to them is learn what you're doing wrong and go on living and enjoying life – I'll note that by life I mean more Nature rather than concrete city blocks.

"If I was one of those popular kids, Addison would have treated me with deference and respect, but I wasn't."

– If he was one of those 'popular' kids who talk negatively and arrogantly about those who they see as not popular, then Elliot would not be treated with deference and respect by people who don't like arrogant people, trying to look cool – it's all about perspective. Also, Elliot was one of those people as he wrote himself; he even mentions how Addison changed and became 'very cocky and arrogant'; was that Elliot's goal – to become cocky and arrogant towards other kids who don't have girlfriends – to become the type of person that he hated?

"I was a complete loser in his eyes, and everyone else's."

– so far, based on what Elliot wrote about himself I don't consider him exactly a loser – he had a tough life, but he also made attempts to improve it – that's what counts for me. Was he a loser in everyone's eyes? – NO.

"The world still viewed me as a weak and undesirable loser, even though I changed my wardrobe and started working out."

– if only he'd also started talking to girls in order to bit by bit accumulate missing social skills.

I also started going to the street gym this summer and there was a cute girl one day hanging out near me. I was working out and thought of talking to her when I was done; she left by then. I never actually approached her, never talked to her, and that's the main reason for me not knowing anything about her. Which is fine. There are many other women around; she might have been in a relationship anyway.

"I couldn't help but feel anger and hatred. Life was too unfair to me."

– actually, it's the opposite. You reap what you sow. Would it be fair if a silent guy sitting all the time home playing single player video games would get all the girls in the world while the one who actually worked on improving himself and his social skills outside would never get a girlfriend due to his logical approach to life and common sense?

"My time at Pierce College became more miserable each day I went there. I despised having to take the bus. It was embarrassing and stressful, and it sucked all of the pride out of me. And for what?"

– girls also ride buses. They do in Russia, at least. Some people actually get acquainted in buses or metro.

"I felt hatred and dissatisfaction with the world and society, but I didn't want to hide away from it anymore. I needed to be as productive with my time as possible, and I had a lot of free time at this point. The best way to make use of this time, I concluded, was to spend it self-educating myself. Knowledge is power."

– YES!!!

"I began a daily routine of walking to Barnes & Noble in Calabasas every day, where I would spend hours reading books that ranged from biographies of powerful leaders, histories of significant periods, self-help books, philosophy and psychology texts, and historical fiction novels. I sometimes even spent entire days there, from the time it opened to the time it closed."

– I just want to include this in this video so that people can see that Elliot tried to find a solution to his problem, and he was headed in the right direction – lack of certain knowledge – that I talked about before - was the reason for his misery. So, he didn't just take a knife and a gun one day and killed 6 people.

Unfortunately, he would not be able to find the knowledge about reincarnation and the Universe. Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet book wasn't in the store. Well, that's one of the reasons I'm doing these videos – I want to help people learn the truth about the Universe, its purpose and its laws.

"Addison was once in the same position as I, but right when he succeeded in integrating with the popular kids, he betrayed me and treated me the same way the popular kids treated me, as if I'm lowlife scum. The world truly is a brutal place, where a man must fight a bitter struggle against all other men to reach the top. Humans are nothing but vicious beasts in a jungle."

– Earth is a planet of the 1st category. It means that the souls who never lived in the Universe can be born here. All people do the things in order to get some sort of fulfillment, happiness, benefit to themselves. Since the new souls don't have any spiritual knowledge yet, they will do some nasty things to other people in order to get what they want – they won't care that their actions make other people suffer as they have no compassion yet; but they will get compassion once they start suffering for their mistakes and learn the lesson life is teaching them. Btw, people on the 1st category live in order to learn how to live, suffer and die. People also live to develop as much spiritually as they can. Those 3 lessons are quite logical, as newly born people don't yet know how to live, suffer and die. On higher category planets people learn more advanced lessons. It's kind of similar to our education system – we first go to a kindergarten, then to elementary school, middle school etc.

It should be noted that those people who will advance to the second category after death are not the 'vicious beasts in a jungle' – if they were, they'd stay on the 1st category planet for another life. Elliot didn't know and didn't see that, once again polarizing all of humanity. I have to say that it doesn't mean we can't live happy and spiritually. In fact, there were two civilizations on Earth who did just that. You should read Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet if you want to learn more.

"Sex is evil, as it gives too much pleasure to those who don't deserve it."
– it does give those people too much pleasure, but the undodgeable suffering is directly proportional to the pleasure received… as Elliot himself came to experience in his life as Elliot Rodger…

"I went with my mother to the yearly Christmas party at the Lemelson's. I spent most of the time with James, discussing with him further about my ideals. We also played a lot of video games with Noah and his friends. Noah was really interested in Nintendo games, and he had a lot of them. Playing games with them reminded me of a time, long ago in my past, when I played Nintendo 64 as a child, blissfully living life in a world that I thought was good. I longed to be a child again, to be in a bright place away from the cruel darkness of reality. I will always treasure those memories."
– it will be soon 8 years since Elliot killed himself. Chances are huge that he was already reborn and lives a life of a baby somewhere on Earth. If so, his wish 'to be a child again' came true.
Sadly, given that he also killed 6 people, the second part of his wish 'to be in a bright place away from the cruel darkness of reality' will probably have to wait until Elliot – or whatever his new name is – will pay by suffering for his crimes and learn the required life lessons in the process.

"I had to go Christmas shopping, and I decided to do it at the Calabasas Commons. I was always going there anyway. While walking around, I ran into Maddy, who was there with her boyfriend. For some strange reason, I have never had any sexual attraction towards Maddy, despite the fact that she's a blonde girl and I'm obsessed with blondes. Perhaps it was because she used to be my friend when we were children, I don't know. Because I wasn't attracted to her, I didn't find myself feeling as much jealousy as one might think I would in such a situation. It was still very awkward. I just said hello to her quickly and walked away."
– I don't find it strange. He knew her as she was and not as he thought she was in his warped view of the rest of the girls. That was the clue for him to understand that many other girls are also good people and his hatred towards them is groundless.

"I kept thinking about how some boys were easily able to get girlfriends straight after they went through puberty. I couldn't fathom how they did it, and I hated and despised them for it."
- …should have just asked them 'how they did it' with his fake stalking account on Facebook.

"I continued searching for a job, but I still wasn't able to find one. I refused all of the jobs that Tony suggested to me. The problem was that most of the jobs that were available to me at the time were jobs I considered to be beneath me. My mother wanted me to get a simple retail job, and the thought of myself doing that was mortifying. It would be completely against my character. I am an intellectual who is destined for greatness. I would never perform a low-class service job."

– we can see that Elliot once again wants to get something without doing anything in order to get it.
As for low-class jobs, it's thanks to the people who perform those jobs that our civilization exists. Could have had more respect for the people thanks to whom you have your lifestyle.

"During that same week, I had a climactic meeting with Philip and Addison where my noxious feud with Addison Altendorf reached a boiling point. We went on an outing to the Griffith Park Observatory, as we usually did when we got together. This time, my arguments with Addison were very intense. I tried to insult him as much as I could, in a petty attempt to get revenge at him for all the insults and slights he dealt to me. We went back and forth at each other for the whole evening, to the chagrin of poor Philip who had to put up with it. By the end of the night, Addison said something to me that was so offensive it will haunt me forever, and it rang true: "No girl in this whole world will ever want to fuck you."" – had Elliot not tried to insult his buddy he'd probably never hear those words. Incidentally, that's also the reason why those words had some truth to them.

"Because I was no longer seeing Philip and Addison, James was once again my only friend. I frequently talked to him over Skype. Sometimes I would go over to his house, where the two of us went on our traditional walks around the Palisades town center. James still played WoW, and he was trying to get me back into it. I was quite tempted. After everything I had been through in the last few months, I did feel the urge to delve back into that void. Facing the world was tough, and it took its toll on me, especially since I've seen no results. I was still in the same position I had always been: Lonely, unwanted, and miserable."
– an example: if you're trying to learn to drive a car and in order to do that you sit on a bench and look at the car all day, you clearly won't learn to drive it. You'll still be in the same position you had been before your decision to learn how to drive.

"When I found out about this, I started to harbor the hope that my mother will get married to this man, and I will be part of a rich family. That will definitely be a way out of my miserable and insignificant life. Money would solve everything. I started to frequently ask my mother to seek marriage with this man, or any wealthy man for that matter. She always adamantly refused, and demanded that I stopped talking about it. She told me that she never wanted to get married again after her experience with my father. I told her that she should sacrifice her well-being for the sake of my happiness, but this only offended her further."
– ...I'm... speechless...

"In the days leading up to my first day at Moorpark, I felt a renewed sense of hope. A new college provided a new start, and this college looked perfect in every way. I had the hope that I could make it there; that I could make friends, meet some girls, and eventually find a pretty girl to be my girlfriend."

– and what if a kind and intelligent girl would approach you, but she wasn't quite pretty?

"My renewed hope gave me solace for a few days, but it did not last. Moorpark soon became a place of loneliness and despair, just like any other place I've attempted to thrive in. The breaking point was when I saw good looking couples walking along the area where I dreamed of walking with a girlfriend. To watch another boy experience it, with a beautiful girl who should be mine…"

– why? She wasn't stolen from Elliot and held as a slave by that other guy. She made her choice to be with the guy who probably came up to her one day to talk about different things in life, they probably met again and so they decided to be a couple.

"I constantly asked myself what I did wrong in life, to be unable to have a beautiful girlfriend."

– I've already answered that.

"It was no better inside the classroom. There was this one obnoxious jock with a buzz-cut who was taking the class with his gorgeous girlfriend. They always sat next to each other, talking and touching each other with affection. Every day I had to see this, and my envy grew and grew. I constantly glared at them with raw hatred. What did I do wrong that he did right? I yelled out to the universe on the way home. Why does he deserve the love of a beautiful girl, and not me? Why do girls hate me so? Questions and questions. All I could do was question why I was suffering so much injustice in life."

– the thing is, as I understand it, modern girls in western counties are accustomed that guys approach them and not the other way around. It's just how society there became to be due to various reasons. As such, if a girl sees a guy who sits silent and never comes up to her to talk – or any other girl for that matter - she'll most likely assume that he's not interested in her – maybe he has a girlfriend if he never talks to girls, or maybe there's another reason why he's seemingly not interested in girls. Once again, while telepathy is real, almost no one is telepathic in our current society; girls and people in general can't just know who you are and what you want.

"My mother one day told me that I should become a writer, because I had some talent in writing."

– I agree.

"I seriously started to consider working towards writing an epic story. I was always creating stories in my mind to fuel my fantasies. Usually those stories depicted someone like myself rising to power after a life of being treated unfairly by the world. I mentally examined all of the stories I had developed, and focused on the few that I thought would become bestsellers. If I could get one of them made into a movie, I would definitely be a millionaire. It was the only solution to my problems."

– money, being a medium of exchange, can't teach people how to talk to girls.

“My faith that I could write an epic story that would make me rich soon collapsed. I read so many articles online of the chances that a screenplay would be made into a movie. I also saw that most writers of even the highest budget films didn’t make as much as I thought they did… Definitely not enough to live on for the rest of their life. I also thought, with a lot of despair, of the time that it would take to achieve such a goal. Most bestselling authors or screenwriters didn’t become millionaires until they were well into their forties or fifties. I didn’t want to wait until I was forty years old to lose my virginity! The thought of spending the next twenty years working hard every day for a chance to make a million or two filled me with revulsion. By the time I’d become a millionaire from doing that, I wouldn’t even be able to get hot young girls because I’d be too old. I decided that writing was not my path to salvation, and I abandoned the idea completely. Of course, I would become tantalized with the idea a few more times in the future, but that would be due to the desperate, false hope that I often create for myself.”
– one more chance to see that capitalism isn’t a great system to use inside of countries. Money should only be used between countries, making the essential goods be available for free for citizens who make up the country.

“I started a day of working at this new job. It was located in an office building that was connected to an Airport in Los Angeles. To my horror and humiliation, the job turned out to be a menial custodial job, and I had to clean offices and even the bathrooms. There was no way I would ever degrade myself to such a level. I felt like utter shit from even considering working at such a place. I only worked for a few hours while I thought about how to handle this foul situation… and on the next day I called to announce that I was quitting. That was the second and last “job” I would ever have. I only worked there for less than a day.”
– that’s how you can have the clean lifestyle that you have in modern world.

19 Years Old

“I soon went to one of those dinners at father’s house. It was an awkward experience, to have dinner with the two of them after all of that tension. We didn’t raise any issues and talked about pleasant things. It was nice to see my brother Jazz again. I was shocked by how much he had grown in the past several months. He was no longer a baby, but a five-year-old boy who was turning six soon. I could actually have full conversations with him. He was a very social boy, and quite boisterous… and that started to worry me. He could well turn into one of the people I have despised and envied so much. I felt a hint of jealousy that my five-year-old brother was so well versed in social skills at such a young age. I always suffered from shyness and social anxiety, but Jazz didn’t seem to have that problem.”
– as I mentioned before, I also was shy and had social anxiety. After working on my social skills by actually approaching girls in order to talk to them I was able to pretty much overcome those psychological problems.

“A few family friends complimented my appearance, and that made me feel a bit better about myself. It is so peculiar how a simple smile or a compliment can completely change how I feel about the world for a few moments.”

– Elliot makes a very good observation here. When I was actively approaching girls to try get acquainted with them, some women were not very kind to me – no one was very rude though – but there were also very kind and understanding women who wished me good luck in my search for a gf. I’m glad those good hearted girls exist, for their benevolent attitude helped me feel good about the world – it showed me that there are good people too.

Who lives by the sword dies by the sword. If you don’t treat others well, it’s a matter of time before it’s going to be you who’s not treated well and despised… if you are not already.

“I went on a few more walks on the beach during the daytime. That beach was always quiet and peaceful, since the only people who visited it were those who lived in homes on the beach. I took full advantage of this. I’ve always found beaches to be truly beautiful, but I could never go to public beaches because they are full of young couples walking around in their revealing bathing suits, the sight of which fills me with envious rage. On the private beach, I could enjoy the serenity of the environment without having to worry about young couples making me jealous. There were no young couples, only a few families and old couples here and there. I did, however, pass by one young girl, and she was like a goddess who came down from heaven. She was walking alone, in her bathing suit, with her luscious blonde hair blowing in the wind. I couldn’t help but slyly admire her beauty as we passed by each other. I was scared. I was scared that she might view me as nothing but an inferior insect who’s presence ruins her atmosphere.”

– He again shows that his imagination is too active. It’s also interesting to note how his wish to be a popular rich guy makes him to have delusions and worries about what other people may or may not think of him – I suppose he does that because he judges other people by how he views the world; he doesn’t realize that other people may have other views of the world.

“That smile put me in a good, healthy mood for the rest of that walk, but it soon faded away as I realized that I could never actually have a girl as beautiful as that. She probably only smiled out of politeness. She would never go for me.”

– once again, he overthinks the whole situation. And instead of arriving at an optimistic thought – like the fact that a girl smiled to him, he decides to be all negative about it. He turned his good experience into a bad one.

“I made a vow on New Year’s Day that I wouldn’t masturbate until I did something to successfully get one step further in life. Having a high sex drive, I usually masturbated at least every other day. I always fantasized about sex… and the fact that I was unable to have sex made me even more obsessed with it. To stop masturbating for more than three days was a big deal. I lasted seven days. On the seventh day my sexual urges became too overwhelming. My whole body was enveloped in it. I thought about girls every single second, and not having a girl to have sex with was unbearable. I could not even function anymore, so I had to break my commitment. The masturbation session I had after that seven-day dry spell was astounding. I did my usual fantasizing about having sex with a beautiful, tall blonde-haired girl; but this time I intensified it a lot, and made up a whole story in my mind just to make the experience seem more real. If only it could be real. Some men get to live that fantasy, whereas I could only dream of it. Life is not fair.

As I was reading up about the release date for the fifth book [game of thrones], I found an online countdown that showed each day, hour, minute, and second that remained until July 12th. Since July 12th was so close to my 20th birthday, I used this countdown as the official countdown of my last days as a teenager. I made it my internet homepage, and hoped that it would motivate me to do everything I can to change my life during this crucial period."

– I wanted to quote this as it once again shows that Elliot did that to change himself and become a better person. He understood many of his problems. He wasn't always a heartless criminal planning to kill as many people as he can.

"My two remaining classes were not much better. In my history class, I had a crush on a really pretty girl, only to find out that she had a boyfriend, and in my psychology class there was this group of popular kids who acted obnoxious the whole time. One of them was a very pretty blonde girl, and she actually enjoyed associating with the obnoxious boys in her clique. The injustice! I hated them all. Everyone treated me like I was invisible. No one reached out to me, no one knew I existed. I was a ghost."

– people don't know that you want to be a part their group if you sit silently in the corner.

"As I spent a lot of time contemplating, I realized that my life was repeating itself in a vicious circle of torment and injustice. Each new semester of college yielded the same lonely celibate life, devoid of girls or any social interaction."

– of course it was! He hadn't done anything to actually get girls, never started a single conversation with girls.

"It was as if there was a curse of misfortune placed upon me."

– there are no curses in this world. Only the consequences of our own decisions.

"I wondered what the point was in attempting to start a new life in Santa Barbara. Hadn't I done the same at Moorpark? I thought, with a shiver of dread running up my spine, about how horrible it would be if the same thing ends up happening after I make the big move to Santa Barbara."

– it will. And I'm not saying it because I know how tragically the story ends. I know it will because you all actions have a consequence, and a particular unique action will always have exactly the same consequence. If you push a ball in one direction – it will roll in that direction – it will not roll to the side or to the back through your hand, no – it will roll in the direction you pushed it. Also, if you want the ball to roll but you never actually apply any force to it – it will stay motionless. It's simple logic, simple laws of the Universe.

Since Elliot never realized that he needed to start talking to girls at least somehow, and continue doing that until he'd become a fluent speaker, capable to start a conversation with any girl or man there exists in the world, it's quite logical to assume the repetition of history in Elliot's life.
Based on the tragic end of the story, I'm assuming he died never seeing the simple reason behind his girlfriend-less life.

"My father gave me a book called The Secret after I had dinner at his house in February. He said it will help me develop a positive attitude. The book explained the fundamentals of a concept known as the Law of Attraction. I had never heard or read anything quite like this before, and I was intrigued. The theory stated that one's thoughts were connected to a universal force that can shape the future of reality. Being one who always loved fantasy and magic, and who always wished that such things were real, I was swept up in a temporary wave of enthusiasm over this book. The prospect that I could change my future just by visualizing in my mind the life I wanted filled me with a surge of hope that my life could turn out happy. The idea was ridiculous, of course, but the world is such a ridiculous place already that I figured I might as well give it a try. In addition, I was so desperate for something to live for that I wanted to believe in the Law of Attraction, even if it was proven to me that it wasn't real."

– I wish he'd given him to read "Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet". Being positive is clearly a must in life, but if you still don't attempt to do anything to improve your life – like approaching girls to have a chat with them in Elliot's case – you can't expect anything to happen. You want a girl to approach your highness? But why would the Universe reward you for you choosing to be silent? It is a choice – as an ex shy person I know that for a fact now.

"I was seated next to James at the "young person's table", and at that table I ran into none other than Julian ! I hadn't seen him since we were hanging out together with Charlie, John Jo, and Elijah… That was seven years ago. The oaf didn't even remember who I was. I found out that his father was good friends with Rob. When I mentioned him earlier in the story, I talked about how much I would envy him, and this was the night when that happened. There were a few girls at our table, daughters of Rob's friends. One of them was pretty, I believe she was the daughter of Pietro Scalia, a renowned film editor; she had very sexy eyes, and she was tall… I always had a thing for tall girls, and this one was almost taller than me. I had to suffer watching Julian sweet-talk all of the girls. He acted so confidently, and the way the pretty girl looked at him with those sexy eyes of hers… that was a look that no girl ever gave to me. I could tell that she was attracted to him."

– once again, he could have chosen to learn from the guy instead of choosing to hate him…

Why would she be attracted to YOU if you never talked to her? She's probably thinking you've got a girlfriend and that's why you don't wish to talk to any other girls… come on…

"I became more enraged with each second I had to suffer through this. The girls treated me like I was invisible, but they all paid attention to Julian."

– because Elliot made himself invisible by doing nothing and Julian didn't.

"I saw James again a couple of weeks later, and that would be the last time I see him for quite a while. It was at another dinner party of Rob's that he held at his house in the Palisades, though for no special occasion. This time, another person who was a target of my extreme jealousy was there; his name was Roy, an Indonesian boy who was the son of Rob's housemaid. He was four years younger than me and James, and he took pleasure in bragging to us about his success with girls. He kept showing us pictures of his supposed texting conversations with girls."

– yet another opportunity to learn how to talk to girls, as well as realize you can text them instead of talking; it will be easier to talk to the girl irl after you know each other from texting.

"James didn't seem to mind it, to my outraged surprise. I, on the other hand, could barely tolerate the insolent little worm."

– the bitterness and hatred have blinded Elliot so, so much…

"At the end of Spring I had to commence with my summoning to jury service. I received the summons in the mail a few months prior, but I postponed it until May because I was too anguished to deal with such trivial matters at the time. The Courthouse was all the way in Santa Monica. As I sat in the waiting room before my interview with the judge, I saw a very pretty girl who looked about the same age as I was. She had a face that melted my heart. What I would give to hold her in my arms and kiss that pretty face of hers… I wanted to talk to her, but I just couldn't. I felt too insecure. I was afraid she would think of me as a creep, as all other girls did. To my fury, another guy came in and struck up a conversation with her. They started talking comfortably, and he even made her laugh! I had to watch it all, and it broke my heart.

I wanted to get out of there as soon as I could. I hoped that I could make an excuse to avoid having to do jury service. When I was called in for the interview, I requested to be excused due to the fact that I was moving to Santa Barbara soon. To my relief, the judge told me I can go and wished me good luck. As I drove out of the Courthouse parking lot, I saw the same pretty girl. She must have been excused as well. Again, I wished I could have said something to her. She would have made the perfect girlfriend for me, but she was probably already attracted to that other guy who sweet-talked her in the waiting room. Damn him! I felt so sad on the drive home. When I passed by the Palisades, I stopped by at a park that I used to play at with James when the two of us were little. I walked around for a bit and took a ride on the swing, reminiscing about happier times."

– what he should have done, imho, was to go to a place with lots of people and just approach girls to have a bit a chat – in order to get rid of all the insecurities. It takes time of course to learn to be confident, which can even take months or years. Had he done that he would have had the necessary skills and knowledge to come to that girl and strike a conversation with her.

"I had to make up for all the years I lost in loneliness and isolation, through no fault of my own!"

– this is one of the reasons I've got my YouTube channel. Had people known about Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet and the truthfulness of that book, they'd knew that we all suffer for our own mistakes only.

"It was society's fault for rejecting me. It was women's fault for refusing to have sex with me."

– So far Elliot hasn't written in his book of any instance of him asking a real girl to have sex with him and her refusing to do it with him. Not a single one. He can't see the cause and effect very well.

Btw, it's time for me to say that there was a time when I myself couldn't see the chain of cause and effect in life too. Then I realized that I myself was the reason for my suffering and no one else; I worked on improving my life and it's gotten better.

I'm saying this because I don't want to see people commenting that Elliot has some unfathomable illness that put a cover over his mental eyes so that he couldn't see the simple reality. There are no psychological illness. All of the psychological issues go away with us gaining knowledge and understanding of how life works. I know it's so from my personal experience.

Having said that, in some cases physical illnesses may be the cause for some mental problems. I'm talking about pure psychological issues.

Age 19-22

"When I reached the classroom, I saw some pretty girls waiting outside. My new classmates, I thought with excitement. I was a bit dismayed that they didn't pay any attention to me. They didn't even look at me. I was sure I had an attractive appearance that day, but those girls didn't seem to notice it. Perhaps I was deluding myself"

– maybe they already had boyfriends or maybe even husbands.

"That class was horrible, but I didn't want to give up so soon. I couldn't! My whole life depended on my success in Santa Barbara. I attended my geography class next. This class was much more interesting, and more relaxed, but it didn't have any pretty girls in it. After lunch I walked over to the cafeteria area, and I saw so many pretty blonde girls sitting around. I wished I had the courage to go up to them and ask one on a date, but they would have seen me as a creep. Girls are so cruel."

– okay, at least he thought of going up to girls and asking one of them on a date, but what game him the idea that they'd see him as a creep? He doesn't elaborate on the details. If he was acting way too shy, then yes, maybe they would… but that's why you'd be better off training your conversation skills some place else – where chances are you won't see the people you meet again. In case you screw up and make a fool of yourself, you won't see those people again.

"One time, as I was walking across the huge bridge that connected the two campuses, I passed by a girl I thought was pretty and said "Hi" as we neared each other."

– that's a start. Unfortunately, Elliot didn't focus on the positive thing, which is his finally saying at least something to a girl, but he chose to focus on the negative side. Besides, it's possible she didn't even hear him – either because he was too quiet, or maybe she was listening to music in her earphones, or maybe both. There were cases when the girls I approached were listening to music, and I didn't realize that right away; in my defense most earphones are wireless and you can't easily see them behind women's long hair. Regardless, she's not the last remaining girl in the world.

20 Years Old

"On the second day, they started inviting their equally rowdy friends into my apartment, and we exchanged more small talk. To my indignant surprise, they asked me the question I always dreaded answering: "Are you a virgin?" I admitted that I was a virgin. I always admitted the truth about this. It was my life struggle, and I couldn't lie about such a thing. They then had the audacity to tell me that they lost their virginity long ago, bragging about all the girls they had slept with. I particularly hated Angel because of his ugly pig-face. How could such an ugly animal have had sexual experiences with girls, and yet I haven't? What was wrong with this world? I got so angry that I went to my room and punched the wall. They heard me and started laughing. It was almost a repeat of what I experienced with that black boy named Chance in the old apartment, except this time it was worse because these were my housemates for the year!"

– those guys will have to live a life where they might be virgins for their whole lives themselves. The Universe will punish all those people naturally, you don't have to make mistake by becoming a criminal, a punisher, for you'll have to suffer for those crimes, which makes it illogical to commit crimes in the first place. No crime – no punishment.

Also, we can see another repetition of history here, which is not surprising since Elliot didn't actually improve himself, didn't learn to talk to people. And, generally, you have to know how to talk if you want to have a girlfriend, love and sex.

I'd like to note that those guys could have chosen to be friends with Elliot, to understand his situation, to help him by giving a couple of advises on how to approach women and what to say to them. But they decided to enrage the already boiling with hatred guy, and their actions also played the role in 6 people getting killed by Elliot. I'd like people to think about it. Let it sink in. Please, don't laugh at people who clearly have psychological issues – you might contribute to creating a murderer; and of course you'll have to pay the penalty and suffer for your mistake too one day.

"I was glad that she [ER's mother] moved to a better place, but I would have much rather she got married to a wealthy man and moved into his mansion. Even though she was no longer seeing Jack, she dated other men of high class. She had a special way of charming them. I continued to pester her to get married so that I can be part of an upper class family and enjoy all the benefits that would come with that, but she always refused, claiming that she never wants to get married due to her unpleasant experiences with my father. I told her that she should suffer through any negative aspects of marriage just for my sake, because it would completely save my life, but she still refused."
– bruh…seriously? Listen to yourself!

"The two of us did what we usually did. We walked out to the Palisade's Bluff's where we discussed our hopes and dreams. We then went to the Palisades town center to have dinner. This time we chose to eat at Panda Express. While we were eating, some high school kids walked in. James saw them first, and right when he saw them he said the words "We're fucked". James knew I would have trouble with them. They were popular boys who had a flock of pretty girls with them. One of them sat down with two of the girls, putting his leg up on another chair with a cocky smirk on his face. I was livid with rage, and I wanted to pour my drink all over his head. James knew exactly what I was planning to do; we had been through similar incidents before. He made a lot of effort to try to dissuade me from acting on my anger, pointing out that there was a security guard nearby. I did the only other thing I could do; I packed up my dinner and left the restaurant, fleeing in defeat and shame. James soon followed, and we decided to finish our meal at his house. A dark and ominous aura clouded over our friendship that day. When the two of us got back to James's house, I was still seething with rage. I didn't understand why James wasn't angry like me. The sight that we just witnessed was horrible to watch. To see another male be successful with females is torture for males like us who have no success with females. I was so angry that I told James of all of the acts of revenge I wanted to exact on those popular boys. I told him my desire to flay them alive, to strip the skins off their flesh and make them scream in agony as punishment for living a better life than me. James became deeply disturbed by my anger. I wished that he wasn't disturbed. I wished he could be a friend that felt the same way about the world that I did. But he wasn't that kind of person. He was a weakling. Once I had calmed down, the two of us had a long conversation in his room, and I ended up crying in front of him as I explained how hopeless I felt about life. Soon after that, I left his house, never to return there again. He will never invite me over after that incident, and our friendship will slowly fade to dust."

– you know what a thought occurred in my mind? Elliot and James could have approached women together – women who are with their friends, not a single girl walking alone… hopefully being not alone would have made them more self-confident and outgoing.

"During the last few days that I had to endure living with those barbaric housemates, I often walked out to Isla Vista hoping that I could meet a girl and take her home with me."
– Oh my God… I mean, if you're only interested in sex and you don't care about STDs then you could take a girl of easy virtue home after a minute of knowing her, but if you actually want love, you only take the girl home when you know you two want to be together.
It's clear once again Elliot had delusions regarding women, sex and other things.

"During the last few days that I had to endure living with those barbaric housemates, I often walked out to Isla Vista hoping that I could meet a girl and take her home with me. I wanted to prove to them all that girls liked me, to see the look on their faces when they see a girl by my side. But of course, I had nothing to prove because girls didn't like me. Every time I tried to go out and meet a girl, I ended up walking home alone in anger. On one of these nights, I crossed paths with a boy who was walking with two pretty girls. I got so envious that I cursed at them, and then I followed them for a few minutes. They just laughed at me, and one of the girls kissed the boy on the lips. I'm assuming she was his girlfriend. That was one of the worst experiences of torture from girls that I've had to endure, and it will be a scar in my memory forever, to remind me that girls think I'm unworthy compared to other boys. I ran home with tears pouring down my cheeks, hoping that my horrible housemates wouldn't be there to witness my shame."
– that was Elliot's choice – a wrong one – and he paid the penalty for his error almost immediately. He could have also had courage to say them "Hi, how's it going? I've recently came to Isla Vista, would you be cool if I joined your company?". Clearly, a native English speaker will find better words to try to befriend other people, but you get my point. If they refused – nothing to worry about, there are other people hanging around.

"All of my classes left me feeling hopeless and depressed. Not only was I unable to meet any girls, and there were a lot of pretty ones, but I also had a hard time making any friends. I've always had a hard time making friends… I'm not the type of person that can fit in with a group of outgoing people; the last time I did such a thing was when I was twelve. I had to make friends. Having a social circle will provide me with more opportunities to meet girls, and it was the only way to get invited to all of those exciting college parties. But no one even wanted to be my friend. I actually tried to initiate small talk with guys who sat next to me, but it never went far. I had a horrible feeling that I was in for a very miserable time in Santa Barbara."
– so he did try to talk to guys. Good. But the thing to realize here is that if you spent years playing game and not learning how to talk with people, you can't expect the skill of conversation to appear out of the blue. It takes time and effort to polish any skill.

"I unpacked all of my things and set up my new room. Once I was done, I looked at it and thought to myself that this was it; this was my new living place in the college town of Isla Vista, and if I could finally have the life I wanted, then this may well be the room where I lose my virginity! How wrong I was. It would only be another room where I suffer miserable loneliness. No girl will ever step foot in it."

– one more thing to note. You make mistake – you pay the penalty by suffering. Since we don't know what future holds for us it's a mistake to think that something will definitely happen – we can't possibly know that! And so, people who live in their own imaginary world will have to suffer for their incorrect way of thinking. If fact, it's quite noticeable that something is off about the person who daydreams – you can see that in Elliot's expressions if you watch his videos. So, your wishes and dreams can be the very thing to actually prevent you from having what you wish.

"At Santa Barbara City College, I had exactly the same experience that I had at Moorpark. I had to watch beautiful young people enjoying their lives together as I languished in loneliness and despair, because no one accepted me. I dropped my math class – I just couldn't bear having to be at the college all day long, sitting in the library watching couples kiss each other. I retained my two morning classes only because there was still some small inkling of desperate home inside me."

– I'd like to say that I think Elliot made a huge mistake by going to Isla Vista. He wrote that the reason was for it so that he can be near hot girls and 'popular' guys, so that he can have a gf. But he also said how obnoxious and not very intelligent those people were. I actually watched some videos from students in Isla Vista and sad to say Elliot was correct in some of his estimates. But it also means the girls were not very intelligent there… no disrespect. Actually, people can choose to study and change themselves, becoming more and more intelligent and interesting people. Anyway, my point is Elliot tried to be a part of something that would never make him happy. He could have – and I think should have – gone to study to another college or university with serious people – with intelligent people that he could actually learn something from. By being among the people who are equal in his intelligence, he could have made friends more easily, and he could have found a girlfriend there too – a girl, who doesn't want to be with a 'boisterous' guy but with someone who treats her and other people well… sadly, Elliot himself didn't treat other people well, neither did hi think well of some types of people – it's not surprising that he had to suffer the penalty for those bad thoughts he had about people of color and poor people.

Elliot didn't want to become obnoxious guy to attract girls who like that type of guys, and that's why he suffered. They were not interested in a silent nerdy guy. You either change yourself to fit with the group you want to be a part of, you join the group that is of your own level of intelligence and interests. Btw, intelligent people also can have sex just as any other people.

“After a few weeks of living with him, I realized that I had a psychological problem with his presence in my apartment. Even though there was no trouble between us, I hated having someone constantly in my vicinity to judge how pathetic my life was. I could hide the details of my lonely, celibate life from the rest of the world, but I could not hide it from Spencer. The fact that I never had any girls over to my room was clear enough that I was an undesirable outcast, and I hated it when people knew this about me and judged me for it. Spencer was there to witness it all, and I would eventually come to hate him just because of that.”

– Meanwhile in reality Spencer was probably just minding his own business, studying and stuff.

“It was just as I had feared. My first actual semester at Santa Barbara City College was an absolute, brutal failure. I didn’t even have one girl’s phone number in my cell phone. Was I going to be a virgin forever? I frantically wondered as I drove away from my school after taking my exams. I felt like my whole life was over. If I couldn’t make it in such a beautiful and opportunistic place like Santa Barbara, then I was doomed to misery and dissatisfaction. I knew that I would rather die than suffer such a fate, and I knew that if it came to that, I would do everything I can to exact revenge before I die. I didn’t want it to resort to that! Some part of me still clung to hope. I didn’t want to give up so soon.”

– such dark thoughts will influence how you appear to others; people will see that something is not right with you, that you’re acting creepy. It’s best not to have dark negative thoughts at all. Try to be happy and optimistic.

“When we took off on the airplane for the journey home, I wondered how my life would have turned out if we never moved to the United States. I saw a lot of beautiful blonde girls in England, just like there were in California. Would I have lived a completely different type of life? Would I have been able to have a girlfriend in England? Would girls in England have been more accepting of a guy like me? Those are questions I will never know the answer to.”

– well, actually, since you never learned the lesson of living a happy life without a gf and committed suicide and mass murdered people, it’s very possible you’ve already been reincarnate in England where you’ll live your life; but I doubt it will be a happy life as you’ll probably have to learn how to live a life without a gf first; once you do, then you’ll have a life with a gf. Obviously, Elliot could have been reborn – if he was – anywhere, and there are many other ways to pay the penalty for his crimes.

“I arrived back in Santa Barbara with a renewed, carefully constructed sense of confidence, especially because of the new collection of designer clothes I had bought over the winter break. I tried to adopt a sophisticated and suave persona, and made my accent sound more eloquent. I did this out of the hope that girls would find something attractive about it. It was the only persona that truly fit me. I was incapable of being an outgoing, boisterous jock, and I didn’t want to be one. I was disgusted by such people, and I was disgusted at how girls were attracted to such filth. I wanted them to be attracted to me. That is how it should be, and I deserved it."

– it's what I noticed before. Elliot know it too, but he can't see what it means! Girls he thought he wanted were attracted to other types of men, and Elliot didn't want to become like those man – his plan was dead on arrival. It may take lifetimes for those girls to gain enough spiritual knowledge to become attracted to sophisticated, intelligent people. He should have been in a place where those girls actually were, instead of chancing after wrong people.
I've got a story from my childhood, when a friend of mine decided to join another company of young people. I knew it was because of girls and drinking, for the girls in our company were moderate and we almost never drank until we were all in high school. I told him my concerns and that I thought it was a mistake for him to do that. It was. He started drinking for the first time and at one moment he almost let a guy from his new company to tramp his mint plant that he planted - he and I used to like plant different trees and plants in front of our houses, it was our hobby. It was pitiful sight, seeing him almost betray his old good values just because he didn't want to look weird and out of place in the eyes of his new friend who didn't care about gardening… well, he sure looked weird and pitiful to me at that moment. His drinking didn't go unpunished, as he has health issues caused by heavy drinking in his teenage years.

"I stopped by at Starbucks to buy a latte and set off for my college with the confidence that I would appear as a superior gentleman to all of the students there. I was a superior gentleman. That was what I was born to be, and it was now time to show it to the world."
– I don't suppose pouring liquids on people and generally hating and insulting people you dim unworthy of pleasures is the sign of a 'gentleman'. Gentleman is being gentle to all people.

"When I dropped my college classes, I crossed a threshold that I knew existed, but never actually believed I would cross. It completely ended all hope I had of living a desirable life in Santa Barbara. I realized that I would be a virgin forever, condemned to suffer rejection and humiliation at the hands of women because they don't fancy me, because their sexual attractions are flawed. They are attracted to the wrong type of male. I always mused to myself that I would rather die than suffer such an existence…"
– life in the Universe doesn't work this way. If you commit suicide, all it means is you never learned the lesson, and as such you will have to relive the whole experience again so that this time you hopefully live through all the suffering that you brought on yourself in one of your past lives, and learn the lesson, attain spiritual knowledge. I know suffering can be tough, but suicide is not a solution.

"That is when I realized that this threshold existed, and if I crossed it, I will have to carry out this Day of Retribution. It has remained stagnant in the back of my mind ever since, until this point. After dropping my Spring classes at Santa Barbara City College, I knew that the Day of Retribution was now very possible. I even wrote about it in my diary, but I later tore out the pages because I feared someone might find them. A shiver ran through me, realizing how twisted my world had become, that I would have to resort to doing something that I would consider unthinkable a few years ago. I didn't want to do it. I wanted to live. Thinking about the Day of Retribution made me feel trapped. I wanted a way out."

– I'd like to quote it here. Before Elliot wrote how he never thought he'd actually come to this; he thought he'd turn his life around.
"However, as I said previously in this story, I never thought I would actually go through with these drastic desires. I had hope inside me that I could one day have a happy life."

"The invitation to the private Katy Perry concert was actually meant for Rob Lemelson, as the concert was held for extremely wealthy people who were clients of Net Jets, a private jet company. Rob had no interest in such things, so he gave the tickets to my mother. I was eager to go, because I loved attending exclusive events; it made me feel special. For most of the time spent at the concert, I just walked around at ate food at the buffet tables while everyone waited for Katy Perry to perform. There was upbeat music playing the entire time, and a lot of wealthy families with their kids attended. Every family there must have had a net worth of at least twenty million, to be able to hire private jets. I tried to pretend as if I was part of a wealthy family. I should be. That was the life I was meant to live. I WOULD BE! If only my damnable mother had married into wealth instead of being selfish." – meaning of 'selfish': '(of a person, action, or motive) lacking consideration for other people; concerned chiefly with one's own personal profit or pleasure.'

"I couldn't help but feel a bitter form of envy at all of the rich kids at the concert. They grew up in lavish mansions, indulged in excessive opulence, and will never have to worry about anything in their pleasurable, hedonistic lives. I would take great pleasure in watching all of those rich families burn alive. Looking at all of them really drilled in my mind the importance of wealth. Wealth is one of the most important defining factors of self-worth and superiority. I hated and envied all of those kids for being born into wealth, while I had to struggle to find a way to claim wealth for myself. I had to be ruthless, and do whatever it takes to attain such wealth. After all, it was my only hope of ever being worthy of getting a girlfriend and living the life of gratification that I desire."
– well, Bitcoin was still cheap back then.

"Indeed, it was the only way I could attain any sort of wealth at my age. I had no talents, so it was impossible for me to become a professional actor, musician, or athlete; and those were usually the ways that young people acquired such money. I could invent something, or start a business just like Mark Zuckerberg did with Facebook, but the chances of me achieving such a thing were the same chances I had of winning the lottery anyway. I didn't even have the skills of a computer programmer."

– everything that happens in the Universe happens for a reason. I bet those talented people did some work on themselves in the past lives to have their talents now. Skills are also acquired through education; I was working as a programmer after I learned how to code, after I acquired the required skill.

"After reading this book [another book about the law of attraction], I wanted to believe that there was some sort of supernatural power that I could harness to change reality as I saw fit. For the months of June and July, I took frequent walks around Girsh Park in Goleta, dreaming and visualizing about winning the lottery. I affirmed that once the jackpot rose to over $100 million, I would buy a ticket and that ticket would be the winner. For all of the months of summer, people kept winning the lottery, and the jackpot kept resetting, but I was so desperate that I still clung to my faith that I would soon win."
– I hope in his next life Elliot will find Michel Desmarquet's book "Thiaoouba Prophecy". It will help him greatly. My book Simple Truths of Life might also help him, as I've had similar problems as him, and thanks to the knowledge I got from Thiaoouba book I was able to finally get rid of many of them.

21 Years Old

"I made plans to track Spencer down once I become wealthy and arrogantly show off my new life to him. That would be the only way to get even. I wanted to show to Spencer, to show to the whole WORLD, that I had worth."
– winning millions in a lottery doesn't make one worthy. Some people flock to the money, sure, but they'll only be interested in the money, not in the person. Once the money is gone, all those fake friends and girlfriend will be gone too.

"I had to wait a few hours for them to prepare the laptop for me, and while I waited I decided to go to the shooting range in Oxnard. I had the knowledge, in the back of my mind, that the Day of Retribution was very possible now. Going to the shooting range while I waited for my laptop gave me the perfect opportunity to gain some initial training in shooting guns [I removed this part] I walked into the range, rented a handgun from the ugly old redneck cashier, and started to practice shooting at paper targets. As I fired my first few rounds, I felt so sick to the stomach. I questioned my whole life, and I looked at the gun in front of me and asked myself "What am I doing here? How could things have led to this?" I couldn't believe my life was actually turning out this way. There I was, practicing shooting with real guns because I had a plan to carry out a massacre. Why did things have to be this way, I silently questioned myself as I looked at the handgun I was holding in front of me. I paid my fee and left the range within minutes, feeling as if I was going to be sick. I spent the rest of the waiting period at the Coffee Bean in Oxnard, where I sat by myself feeling absolutely disgusted. My whole world was twisted."

– he once again sensed he was planning a very bad thing.

"Within the following days, I spent a lot of time at the park, watching the wind blow through the trees and the children playing in the fields. I questioned the very fabric of reality. Why did this all exist? I wondered. How did life come to be? What was the nature of reality? What was my place in all of it?"
– Had he read Thiaoouba Prophecy, he'd know the answer to those questions.

"As holders of First Class tickets, we skipped to the front of the line as we boarded the plane, and I took great satisfaction as I passed by all of the other people who flew economy, giving all of the younger passengers a cocky little smirk whenever they looked at me."
– You treat people badly, and they will also treat you badly back. And he was still wondering why he didn't have the life he wanted. Clearly, he knew nothing about the Universal Law and that each mistake we make has to be repaid by suffering. If he did know it, he would've probably acted differently.

"By the month of April, I had driven to Arizona three more times, making a total of four trips to Arizona in my lifetime, just to buy lottery tickets out of intense desperation, believing it to be my only hope of attaining the life I desire, the life I know I'm worthy of."
– or he could have started learning to approach and talk to women there – hopefully without ever losing his temper and saying bad things to them. Nobody knew him there; if he made a fool of himself, no one would recognize him.

"There won't be any beautiful blonde girlfriend for me now. No girl would be my girlfriend unless I had great wealth…"
– he even noticed himself several pages back that he saw tall pretty blondes walking and kissing with guys who clearly don't have wealth, based on how they dress. Then he noticed himself the fact that his expensive clothes didn't make girls to look at him. Surely, he could have realized that appearances and money don't matter that much… that there's something else that makes those girls want to be with those guys…

"In April, the Powerball lottery was introduced in the state of California, so if I ever wanted to play it again I would no longer have to drive to Arizona. However, I was so shaken by not winning in the last few months that I gave up on it for a while, but eventually I would have episodes of little surges of hope in which I'd buy a few tickets, just to have something to hope for as I endure the last few months of my torturous life. All of those little surges of hope, of course, would be shattered as well."
– and yet he already was living a more luxurious life than many other people did. Not many get to go to movie premiers alongside famous actors and actresses. Not many get to visit parties in Malibu as well. And yet none of that helped him find a girlfriend… because he was quite on those parties, or he didn't talk to girls.

Then, his very own mother was a hint to him that wealth doesn't mean women will want to marry you – his mother didn't marry her rich boyfriends.

"I realized how much different my brother Jazz was from me at that age. While I was shy, short, and physically weak; Jazz was tall for his age and very social. He had no problem going up to other boys at the playground and making instant friends…"

– once again social skills are acquirable through self-education and trial and error. Shyness is a simple manifestation of not having knowledge how to interact with people; it's like the fear of unknown – once you know, you no longer afraid of that which would scare you before.

"People having a high opinion of me is what I've always wanted in life."

– in that case he should have behaved in the way that makes people look up to you. Hating on poor people, people of different races, happy people – none of that will make normal people to look up to you.

"Why do women behave like vicious, stupid, cruel animals who take delight in my suffering and starvation? Why do they have a perverted sexual attraction for the most brutish of men instead of gentlemen of intelligence?"

– (about women who have sexual attraction for gentlemen with intelligence) some say that those women often sit home and study.

"In the beginning of summer, I went on a few walks around Isla Vista during daylight hours. While on these walks, I saw so many attractive young people walking around in their little groups, having the time of their lives. Some of the guys in those groups weren't even good looking, while I am good looking. I couldn't understand how they could be accepted, while I wasn't. I furiously questioned why I haven't been able to have such experiences after living in Isla Vista for two years. It was unfathomable."

– if you daydream, if you are depressed or anxious people will notice that. How you feel affects your facial expressions and your body language. That's how, I believe, those 2 first roommates were able to tell Elliot is probably a virgin. If you watch Elliot's videos, you'll see that he sometimes turns his eyes and head in an uncommon way, in a weird or even creepy way; that's the sign of him being in his own mind, in his own dreams and illusions; you can see he has a bit of trouble staying focused on reality.

"I wanted answers. I wanted to know why it had to come to this. If only one pretty girl had shown some form of attraction to me, the Day of Retribution would never happen. I'd never even consider it. The Day of Retribution is mainly my war against women for rejecting me and depriving me of sex and love. If only one girl had given me a chance, tried to get to know me, let me take her out on a date… None of this would have to happen. It was so hard to accept that things would have to resort to me having to perform this act of Retribution I was planning."

– I had to approach many women before I finally approached the one who agreed to get to know me; she refused to date me though, and that's partially my fault. My point is if he actually tried to come to women, asking them if there were single, and if so perhaps they'd like to chat with him for a bit to get to know one another, then it would be a matter of time before someone would finally agreed to talk to him.

"While I visited home, my parents, along with my psychiatrist Dr. Charles Sophy, arranged for a counsellor to meet me frequently and help me out with my life. His name was Gavin Linderman, a cleancut twenty five-year-old. He had a similar role to Tony, my old counsellor from the regional center back when I was nineteen, except Gavin was much younger and acted more like a friend who could take me out to places. Every time I went back to visit my parents, I would meet up with Gavin once. We usually met up at a restaurant somewhere, or went on a hike. I told him about all of my problems with girls, and all of the hardships I've had to face in Santa Barbara. Being familiar with Isla Vista himself, since he spent a great deal of time there when he was younger, he confirmed to me that yes, the girls in Isla Vista prefer tall, muscular, rowdy jock-type men."

– which means that Elliot chose the wrong place to search for a girlfriend. Even at this point he could have gone to study somewhere else, maybe where people don't seemingly party all the time, but where people study all the time. After all, if he wanted to win a girl with his intelligence, he had to be at a place where people actually value intelligence; and yes, he also had to be actually intelligent himself.

"There were about one hundred people at that party, and everyone was socializing with a group of friends except for me. I walked around in my drunken confidence for a few moments, helped myself to the beer they had, and tried to act like a normal party-goer. I soon became frustrated that no one was paying any attention to me, particularly the girls."

– why should they pay attention to you if they don't even know you? I bet they didn't even know all of the people at that party.

"I stood awkwardly in the front yard for a bit, realizing how pathetic I looked all by myself when everyone was partying around me. To calm down, I climbed up onto a wooden ledge that bordered the street and plunged down on one of the chairs there. Isla Vista was at its wildest state at that time, and I saw lots of guys walking around with hot blonde girls on their arm. It fueled me with rage, as it always had. I should be one of those guys, but no blonde girls gave me that chance. I looked down at all of them, and in my drunken carelessness, extended my arm out and pretended to shoot them all, laughing giddily as I did it. Eventually, some partiers climbed up onto the ledge. They were all obnoxious, rowdy boys whom I've always despised. A couple of pretty girls came up and talked to them, but not to me. They all started socializing right next to me, and none of the girls paid any attention to me. I rose from my chair and tried to act arrogant and cocky toward them, throwing insults at everyone."

– once more Elliot had a choice to try to be friends with those people, to be nice and friendly to them. He chose to be arrogant and cocky… later he suffered the consequence for his mistaken behavior.

"They would have even offered to sleep with me to make me feel better."
– oh please…

22 Years Old

"Postponing the Day of Retribution also gave me a few more months of life. Perhaps I would also use that time to look for a way out. I have always been itching for a way out of this, and even with the recent events that had occurred, a small part of me still clung to that inkling of hope."
– he still had glimpses of the good side in him.

"Gavin came to visit me at the hotel, and he was welcome company. It was really getting lonely there, though it was definitely better than being lonely in Isla Vista. The two of us sat down for three hours in my hotel room to have an important conversation. I explained to him my finely altered version of everything that happened on that night in Isla Vista. He didn't seem surprised. When he was my age, he used to go up to Isla Vista quite often. He told me that the kind of brutal, rowdy atmosphere I've witnessed was part of the culture there. The boisterous, wild frat boys get all of the beautiful girls, and everyone is looking for a fight, like the vicious animals they are. He said it was a truth I had to accept, advising me to move out of there. I couldn't accept this truth, because it was unjust…"– Gavin has confirmed what I realized about Isla Vista. I wish Elliot would have listened to him and moved out… Life was giving him a choice, a way out to live a better life somewhere else… his obsession with becoming one of the people he hated doomed his life and the lives of 6 innocent people.

"Gavin came to visit me again, and this time we sat in my mother's dining room to have yet another important conversation about my life and where I was going. He tried to advise me again to move out of Isla Vista, but I refused to hear it. I moved to Isla Vista with the goal of losing my virginity and attaining the life I desire. If I'm unable to have it, I will destroy it. I will never run away in defeat."
– It's not a defeat if you realize you've been mistaken by going to the wrong place to meet the wrong people and you go searching for a gf in a different place where people of your intellectual lever live.

Epilogue

"The ultimate evil behind sexuality is the human female. They are the main instigators of sex. They control which men get it and which men don't. Women are flawed creatures, and my mistreatment at their hands has made me realize this sad truth. There is something very twisted and wrong with the way their brains are wired. They think like beasts, and in truth, they are beasts. Women are incapable of having morals or thinking rationally. They are completely controlled by their depraved emotions and vile sexual impulses. Because of this, the men who do get to experience the pleasures of sex and the privilege of breeding are the men who women are sexually attracted to… the stupid, degenerate, obnoxious men. I have observed this all my life. The most beautiful of women choose to mate with the most brutal of men, instead of magnificent gentlemen like myself."

– This observation is easily explained. When new souls are born, they have no reason to suffer since they never made any mistakes. As such their bodies have to be perceived as beautiful by the society that they are part of. And since those new souls have no spiritual knowledge, and since all creatures seek to make their own lives better based on the material and spiritual knowledge they've got, they will probably choose the so called obnoxious beautiful males, as they have not learned the basic social values yet.
After having accumulated errors during their lives, those people will be born in new physical bodies, which might not be as beautiful – since it's quite possible that first born souls would laugh at those who are not as beautiful, or even considered ugly by them – it's part of the suffering process of the universe.

(28:37) Soumaya appears to actually care for Elliot and tried to help him to be more social, but he didn't see that. I was in the same position. Several things that my parents told me would later be understood by me to be true and important. But then there's the fact the Soumaya told Elliot that his little brother will be having sex at the age of 16 just to spite him…

(35:45) Elliot's dad actually tried to teach his son kindness towards other people. Elliot didn't see that.

(50:16) Elliot actually says to someone they're mixing with the wrong type of guys. Why could he see that he was trying to mix with the wrong people, which made his goal to find a gf almost impossible?

(51:17) Again he actually sees that there are other people out there in the world… meaning if one girl would actually reject him, it wasn't the end of the world…

We all have free will. Depriving people of their free will is one of the greatest mistakes.

“I explained to Elliot that if he wanted attention from girls he needed to talk to them, but he wouldn’t take my advice.”
– Philip tried to help Elliot, but he wouldn’t listen. Maybe because he thought shyness was not something people can actually get rid of, but they can!

For some reason he did not include those details in his elaborate writings.

Elliot’s story shows how people become killers due to lack of certain knowledge or understandings about life.
Elliot has a good vocabulary. He’d acquire the skill of talking to girls in no time imho.
My views on Asperger’s and psychology.
У меня были схожие чувства как у Элиота. Но я точно помню как после того как я начал подходить к девушкам они утихали, я не испытывал ненависти к парам, т.к. я сам начал искать девушку – пусть и не очень успешно.
Когда дойду до места, где Джорджия имела секс. Ей уже было 18. Она знала вещи о жизни. Могла ли она сказать Эллиоту как с ней знакомятся парни? Что они говорят? Как ведут себя? Спрашивал ли Эллиот её если она, девушка, считала действия тех парней плохими? Или она видел в них уверенных в себе парней?
Могла ли Джорджия познакомить Эллиота с кем-то из её подруг? Конечно, ей нужно было бы предупредить подругу, что у Эллиота скудные навыки общения…
Если бы Э забил на тех, кто «клёвый», а просто искал бы нормальных людей, которые уважали бы его, то я думаю он нашёл бы двушку. Блондинка или нет не важно. Те кто пытается быть клёвым не очень духовен т.к. они думают много о внешности, а не о развитии себя.

В Тафт школе не все дети глумились над Эллиотом. В теории он мог бы найти друзей, возможно в виде других детей, которых обижали, и они могли бы защищать друг друга от некоторых забияк.

Все кто реально издевался над Эллиотом будут расплачиваться за их ошибки страданиями – от ЗВ не уйти никому. Возможно, они даже будут иметь жизнь, схожую с той, что прожил Эллиот; возможно они сами не будут иметь секса из-за их внешности, ну или из-за их психических проблем, когда они видят проблемы там, где их нет, когда они стесняются там, где другие ведут себя открыто.

Я услышал в юношестве о том, что нельзя стоять на месте, человек либо находится в движении вверх, либо он идёт вниз. И если человек думает, что он неподвижен, то он идёт вниз. Элиот ничего не делал с его сексуальным влечением, не развивался как личность, чтобы найти себе девушку, и в итоге от споткнулся и упал...

(Стра. 6) I invited everyone from my Farm School class, all the boys and the girls, except for Joey. I deliberately omitted Joey as an act of revenge for being mean to me throughout the year, and I felt a sense of satisfaction in doing so. – Правильно ли он поступил, что не пригласил Джои? К чему это привело?

(Стр. 3) Он говорит, что путешествовал по миру, и мне нравилось читать о его детстве... ему было что рассказать другим, он мог быть не скучным собеседником для нормальной девушки, умеющей ценить простые жизненные переживания, и чему такой опыт научил нас.

(Стр. 24) «Such things overwhelmed me. I tried to dismiss it as much as I could and enjoy my life in the present moment."
– не первый раз, когда он говорит про то, что жил настоящим. (другой момент был в Беверли Хилз, когда мужчина сказал ему, что у него будет большое будущее... или что-то такое)

(Стр. 26) «I was extremely enthusiastic about this, as I always loved luxury and opulence.»

No homo, но если говорить объективно, я считаю, что Эллиот был симпатичным, если не красивым, парнем. Но он не видел этого, будучи погруженным в его переживаниях и растущей ненависти – одна женщина в комментариях на Ютюбе так и написала, что видела в нём привлекательного молодого человека, пока он не открыл свой рот (начал говорить плохие вещи). Дело в том, что наше психологическое состояние отражается на нашей внешности – если мы имеем проблемы в нашей психике, то и физическое тело будет не в лучшей форме. (из Тиаубы)

Эллиот часто говорил о его отношении к другим, и он не стеснялся в словах, он видел себя выше остальных. Вполне может быть, он в предыдущих жизнях был более успешным человеком, но не в этой жизни...

Lucky Radley - "He was really quiet. He never said anything."
The boys would play video games, and when Radley reacted to something that had happened, Rodger would just smile.
"He was overly quiet," Radley says. "Unusually quiet."

[friend-was-friendly] https://losangeles.cbslocal.com/2014/05/26/isla-vista-shooters-childhood-friend-the-guy-i-knew-wouldnt-say-a-word/
“I mean, I didn’t even know I was popular with the girls. I was just friendly to everybody,” Radley said.

Radley described the Rodger he knew as a smart loner who never looked him in the eye and had very little to say.

“He would have one-word answers. I never really heard him speak,” he said.
